Dividend Tax Withholding Plan KO'd

Senate Unit's Vote Setback For Kennedy

Committee Backs Proposal For 7% Investment Credit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee knocked the withholding system on dividends and interest out of President Kennedy's tax revision bill Wednesday but approved plans for a seven per cent investment credit.

The swift votes, 10-5 and 10-7 respectively, raised the possibility the House-passed bill can be ready for floor consideration by next Tuesday when it was to have been set aside if committee processing were not completed.

The committee actions were both a severe setback and a victory for the administration, and in reverse, the same for Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., the committee's veteran chairman. Moves to reverse both actions probably will be made on the Senate floor.

Kennedy had counted heavily on the plan for withholding 20 per cent of all dividends and interest payments as a means of picking up an estimated $650 million in annual tax revenues now reportedly lost through failure of individuals to report.

Incentive To Business

And he pushed the investment credit as an incentive to business to modernize equipment and keep America competitive in an expanding world economy, claiming about half the revenue cost would be recovered through dividend and interest withholding.

Byrd, an opponent of both proposals, sponsored and the committee adopted an amendment he claimed would permit the Treasury to pick up much of the tax monies now lost.

It would require all banks, savings and loans and other interest-paying organizations to report to the Internal Revenue Service annual interest payments to any individual in excess of $10. The limit is now $600.

The amendment also would stiffen penalties for failing to file the information returns.

Dillon Opposed Plan

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon told the committee the plan would be clumsy and ineffective. He said it would swamp the Treasury with 250 million information returns.

The investment credit was approved in principle and will continue under discussion in the committee Thursday. Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., sponsored the successful motion and then won a revision of the provision by another 10-7 vote.

The modification provides that a taxpayer who used the seven per cent credit would have to reduce by the same percentage his base for depreciation on the machinery involved. A $10,000 item, for example, on which the credit has been claimed could be depreciated by only $9,300 instead of the full $10,000.

Powder Puff Derby Won By Sisters

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Mrs. Frances S. Bera of Long Beach, Calif., and her sister co-pilot, Edna Bower of Seal Beach, Calif., were declared Wednesday night the official winners of the 16th annual Powder Puff Transcontinental Air Race for Women.

Mrs. Bera, winning the derby for the sixth time as a pilot, and her sister will receive about $1,200 in prize money.

Officials Warned, Didn't Stop Estes

Memos Unread; McClellan Explodes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Past and present Texas farm aid officials testified Wednesday they left directives unread and did nothing to halt questioned cotton acreage allotment transfer deals by Billie Sol Estes.

"What kind of a railroad are we running here?" Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., exploded heatedly at one point as the story unfolded before his Senate investigations subcommittee.

Both Baldwin P. Davenport of Stamford, Tex., and Ralph T. Price of Bryan, Tex., told the subcommittee their state committee relied heavily on its full-time staff and knew little or nothing about the type of allotment transfers involved.

Davenport was chairman of the Texas State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee until March 1961, an appointee of former Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. Price is his Democratic successor.

Davenport said that, while he was chairman, the committee made no effort to check out a warning that the cotton acreage transfers by Estes might be illegal.

He said he couldn't remember whether his group ever saw a memo from Washington issued Dec. 20, 1960, saying that the cotton deal was a scheme to violate regulations and should be rejected.

Neither could Davenport remember whether he had seen an earlier memo by Estes' lawyers which claimed the transfers were legitimate.

Both Price and Davenport testified they usually devoted only two or three daysa month to their jobs; that they had relied heavily on advice of subordinates, and had not even seen some key memoranda which purportedly had called the Estes cotton allotment deals into question as long ago as December 1960.

Price said that although he knew nothing about the allotments at the time, the machinery for transferring allotments was set up when he took office in late March 1961.

Saskatchewan Calls For 200 British Doctors

REGINA, Sask. (AP)—The Saskatchewan Socialist government sought 200 British doctors Wednesday for temporary practice here during the strike of the province's own physicians against a compulsory medical care plan.

London agents of the Saskatchewan Medical Care Commission were sent orders to expand the recruiting campaign beyond the 50 to 100 British doctors originally sought. Sixty have been recruited so far out of 300 applicants.

The British doctors are being offered $900 to $1,800 a month, about twice their average earnings at home.

Meanwhile, thousands of citizens from all parts of the province converged on this provincial capital for a demonstration against the medical care plan. The demonstration is sponsored by Keep Our Doctors Committee, most vocal group backing the doctors' strike that began July 1.

Nine British doctors arrived from London on Monday night and officials said at least two dozen more are expected later this week.

Negroes Seized As They Protest Jailing Of King

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — Negro demonstrators protested on Wednesday the jailing of integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., with a prayer march that landed them in jail.

The group of 32 Negroes, headed for a prayer session at City Hall, was arrested and herded into the police station after marching three blocks.

This southern Georgia city's police force remained on standby alert for possible new 'emonstrations over the jailing of King and the Rev. Ralph Abernathy for an identical march last December.

Police Chief Laurie Pritchett repeated his warning that any demonstrators would be jailed.

In sending out the marchers, King's aide, the Rev. Wyatt T. Walker of Atlanta, said, "You are the first wave to make the initial confrontation with evil."

"You have the honor of joining Dr. King and Abernathy," he said.

King earlier issued a statement in which he called the 45-day jail sentence imposed on him unjust and said if he and Abernathy paid $178 fines levied on them "we would be partners in the crime of whittling away our freedom."

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference president ended a 24-hour fast he started on entering the jail. The police chief quoted King as saying he always fasted the first day in jail. He has been arrested several times in Alabama and has been jailed three times in Georgia.

Pritchett said King ate heartily at lunch and had made no comment about being assigned to the clean-up detail in the city jail. Prisoners are assigned either to a street work detail or to scrubbing jail cells.

Indications were that the Negroes might stage a series of protest marches.

Two-Man Moon Landing Via Lunar Orbit Planned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The space agency said Wednesday it hopes to send two men on a four-day moon exploration expedition months ahead of previously announced schedules.

It plans to do this, officials said, by means of a special lunar ferry operating from a mother ship launched directly from earth into orbit around the moon.

Original plans called for landing three men on the moon before 1970. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said the new two-man plan "promises mission success some months earlier" at a saving of 10 to 15 per cent in costs. Cost of the three-man program had been variously estimated at $20 to $40 billion.

At the same time, NASA announced that:

—Exhaustive studies will begin at once on development of an unmanned freight rocket to transport supplies from earth to support moon exploration teams.

—Development of the super giant Nova rocket, once considered for direct manned flight to the moon, will be deferred at least two years. Nova, expected to develop 12 to 20 million pounds of booster thrust, is scheduled now for missions beyond the moon, possibly to Mars and Venus in the 1970's.

—Consideration will be given to the possibility of launching two men directly to the moon, without using rendezvous methods, with an advanced Saturn. This rocket, far less powerful than the Nova, will generate 7.5 million pounds of thrust in its booster stage and will be capable of hurling 45 tons to the moon.

Vice Premier Is Acclaimed By Algerians

Ben Bella Returns In Triumph; Talks Apparently Fold

MARNIA, Algeria (AP)—Dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed ben Bella returned in triumph to this frontier city of his birth Wednesday and was given a hero's welcome.

In Algiers, about 300 miles to the east, the regime of Premier Youssef ben Khedda was reported watching the progress of Ben Bella with growing uneasiness.

Already the deputy premier was believed to command the loyalty of most of the Algerian nationalist army, and he set out from Morocco showing no disposition to mend his quarrel with Ben Khedda.

Talks Apparently Collapse

The basic issue appears to be Ben Bella's opposition to Ben Khedda's policy of working with France to build Algeria. Ben Bella, long jailed by the French, wants an Arab brand of socialism.

The tall, deputy premier stepped across the border from Morocco at an isolated post on the parched North African plain. He was flanked by high officers of the guerrilla army's Military District 5, who have firmly installed pro-Ben Bella forces in western Algeria.

He shook hands with noncommissioned officers who wore no insignia in accordance with the custom of the Algerian People's Army.

Smile Brings Applause

He then reviewed 120 men lined up in front of the modern, war-damaged frontier post.

A couple of hundred spectators were silent until Ben Bella turned to them with a broad smile. Then applause broke out.

Ben Bella, who had been brought to the border in a car convoy from Rabat, then stepped into an open car and was sped behind motorcycle escort into Marnia, a town of 12,000, mostly Moslems, six miles to the east.

A-Shot Creates Nevada Crater

NEVADA TEST SITE (UPI) — A low-yield nuclear weapons device was exploded Wednesday from an underground site, gouging a huge crater in the Nevada desert and blasting a fiery debris-laden cloud as high as 11,000 feet into the sky.

The shot signaled resumption of the so-called backyard nuclear testing program, delayed repeatedly because of unpredictable desert winds which might carry radioactive particles to inhabited areas.

The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) said the cloud from Wednesday's underground blast rose to a height of about 11,000 feet, moved northeastward, and dissipated in about an hour.

An AEC spokesman said most of the radioactive particles fell back to earth harmlessly within the confines of this huge test base.

A companion shot, scheduled to be detonated above ground, was put on a 24-hour hold because of adverse winds. It had been scheduled for Wednesday afternoon in a back-to-back display of weapons testing.

President Engulfed By Foreign Students

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy greeted Wednesday some 2,200 cheering foreign high school students who have been living in this country for a year.

When he started to shake hands with some of them on the south lawn of the White House, the students broke through restraining ropes and engulfed him, trying to touch him or shake his hand.

One girl caught in the crush fainted, but, attended by two policemen, revived quickly.

The students from 50 countries have been attending American high schools, living with American families around the country, for a year. They are sponsored by the American Field Service, a private educational organization.

The youths gathered here Monday for a sightseeing visit before departing for their homelands Saturday.

Tax Break Given Industry By JFK

Depreciation Procedures Liberalized

BUSINESS 'TAX CUT' — Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon talks to reporters yesterday at a news conference at which he announced a $1.5 billion "tax cut" for American business. Dillon said the plan was approved by President Kennedy and shows that the administration is pro-business. Under the program, firms would be allowed larger deductions to keep their plants up to date. (AP Photofax)

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $1½-billion "tax cut" for American business was announced Wednesday by President Kennedy, who said it will spur economic growth and create jobs. The action permits larger tax deductions for firms that keep their plants up to date.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon pointed to the move as evidence that the Kennedy administration is pro-business. And he predicted an immediate upward impact on the economy.

The steel industry, which had a notable falling-out with the administration over an April attempt to raise prices, will be among the principal beneficiaries of the tax changes.

However, the effects will be felt by all businesses—big and little—and by all professional people and farmers.

Vanishing with the announcement were whatever slim hopes might have remained for a balanced federal budget in the 1963 fiscal year, which began July 1. The revenue loss from the tax changes will, in itself, more than wipe out the $500-million surplus which Kennedy forecast in January.

Some Of Loss Seen Offset

However, Dillon emphasized that the Treasury expects much of the loss to be offset after the first year. He said part, if not all, of the loss would be recouped "as higher depreciation charges increase the flow of cash to corporations and this money finds its way directly into new investment, thus creating jobs and taxable income for business and individuals."

The purpose of depreciation deductions is to enable business to set aside each year funds which will be used to replace machine or other business assets when they wear out or become obsolete.

In essence, the revised system involves three key facets:

1. The average business will be able to increase by 17 per cent the amount it deducts from taxable income to cover its investment in business equipment. This will be accomplished by reducing the length of time during which productive assets are depreciated through annual deductions. To replace time guides issued in 1942, the Treasury published a brand new set of more liberal guides.

Can Speed Depreciation

2. If a businessman is replacing old assets faster than they are being depreciated, he can speed up the depreciation process by compressing deductions into fewer years. However, in order to claim more liberal deductions, a businessman will have to show, after a three-year transition period, that his replacement practices are in line with his deductions.

3. The Treasury, for the first time, is giving businessmen—and tax agents—a uniform formula for determining whether an individual company is depreciating its equipment at an acceptable rate. This is expected to reduce squabbling between businessmen and the Internal Revenue Service.

India, Red China Swap Charges Of Aggression

NEW DELHI (AP)—India and Red China accused each other Wednesday of waging a campaign of encirclement of each other's outposts in a snowy three-mile high valley in their Himalayan borderland.

In an exchange of urgent notes, each charged the other with aggression in the narrow Galwan Valley and each warned the other of the responsibility if shooting war breaks out over the disputed border.

From the New Delhi account an Indian detachment was caught by surprise when 25 Chinese soldiers who had infiltrated the valley without detection suddenly appeared only 200 yards from the Indian defense position.

Military sources said 400 Chinese eventually moved up to positions only 50 to 70 yards from the Indians on the east, west and south.

There was no change in the situation at dusk, and the military sources said the Indian sentinels faced a second all-night watch for Chinese encircling maneuvers in the snowy moonlit landscape.

The scene, the Indian note charged, was in the Ladakh area near the junction of the borders of Kashmir, China's Sinkiang Province and Chinese-held Tibet.

The Indians said the post is 10½ miles west of even the line that China claimed as its territory in 1956.

'Deke' Slayton Taken Off Space Astronaut Team

WASHINGTON (AP) — The irregular heart action that robbed him of the role of second U.S. man in orbit took Donald K. (Deke) Slayton off the seven-man space astronaut team Wednesday.

"Naturally I'm greatly disappointed," Slayton said.

With "regret," Dr. Robert R. Gilruth, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Manned Spacecraft Center, made the announcement. He said the Air Force major will continue to perform ground duties in the man-in-space program.

The announcement said the stresses of current manned space flight are too great to recommend that Slayton "should make a one-man solo space flight."

Slayton had been picked to make the second orbital flight, but it was decided to switch because of a periodic lack of rhythm in his heart action. So Malcolm Scott Carpenter made the flight. Slayton manned a tracking station in Australia during the three orbits of his back-up pilot.

Slayton, now in seclusion with his family in the woods of Wisconsin, sent this message which NASA made public here:

"For more than three years I have been training and looking forward to an early flight assignment. But I am ready to do whatever is needed.

"I'll work wherever management feels I can best contribute to the program."

Gilruth said Slayton will assume new engineering and operational planning duties at the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex., on all programs including Mercury, the two-man Gemini and three-man Apollo spacecraft projects.

Paris, London Relay Shows Via Telstar

Britain Counters French Program With "Live" Test

NEW YORK (UPI) — France sent taped television scenes of Parisian night life via the tiny Telstar satellite into the homes of America Wednesday night, but Britain quickly outdid the feat with the first "live" east-west transatlantic television in history.

The French-British competition in bouncing television pictures off the U.S. satellite boiled up Wednesday when France announced it was not waiting for a scheduled joint European program later this month.

The lively—but totally canned—French show came on the satellite's 15th orbit at 7:32 p.m. EDT. It flooded TV sets in homes from Manhattan to California with the first direct telecast from the old world to the new.

Britain angrily charged France jumped the gun with its Gallic encore to America's history-making West-East transatlantic television broadcast Tuesday night. And the British General Post Office, in charge of the nation's communications, refused to take it lying down.

British Picture Excellent

At 10:18 p.m. EDT, on Telstar's 16th orbit at 16,000 miles per hour around the earth, the General Post Office television sending station at Goonhilly Downs in Cornwall broke into space with a program beamed to America which the announcer proudly stresses was "live." As he spoke, the screen showed an excellent picture of the seal of the general post office bearing the British crown.

Observers in America were in general agreement that the British live program—although not as animated as the earlier French program—was far better technically both in sound and picture.

The British program was principally a panel discussion by three television officials of the mechanics of international television.

U. S. Congratulated

"Good morning ... Charles Boothe speaking here ... May I be the first to congratulate you in the United States ..." said the General Post Office deputy chief engineer. "We in the United Kingdom know" that this program "represents a major step in communications."

Technicians at Andover, Maine, America's space television command center, were more obviously gleeful about the British performance:

"By george, they've done it," cried one technician.

British post officials would not comment when asked if the British decision to go on the air live Wednesday night was influenced by the French action. But it was pointed out that the decision came suddenly—just at about the time the successful French test was made.

Owen D. Young Dies At Age 87

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—Owen D. Young, 87, an industrial leader whose skill as a monetary expert brought him international recognition, died Wednesday.

The former head of two giant American corporations succumbed at his Florida home where he had spent the winters for many years. He had been ill several weeks.

Young and Charles G. Dawes in 1923 and 1924 were unofficial U.S. representatives on a committee of experts assembled by the Allied reparations committee to devise a formula for fixing war damages to be paid by Germany.

Young was coauthor of what became known as the Dawes Plan and supervised the start of its operation. Five years later he was a member of another committee of experts in Paris which drew up a revised plan for German fiscal rehabilitation and war damage payments.

As a tribute to his diplomacy and leadership, it was named the Young Plan.

The farm boy from Van Hornesville, N.Y., voluntarily retired in 1939 as board chairman of General Electric Co., the world's largest maker of electrical products.

While at General Electric, he gave impetus to America's industrial stride and was the founder of the Radio Corp. of America and its first board chairman.

The shot signaled resumption of the so-called backyard nuclear testing program, delayed repeatedly because of unpredictable desert winds which might carry radioactive particles to inhabited areas.

The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) said the cloud from Wednesday's underground blast rose to a height of about 11,000 feet, moved northeastward, and dissipated in about an hour.

An AEC spokesman said most of the radioactive particles fell back to earth harmlessly within the confines of this huge test base.

A companion shot, scheduled to be detonated above ground, was put on a 24-hour hold because of adverse winds. It had been scheduled for Wednesday afternoon in a back-to-back display of weapons testing.

President Engulfed By Foreign Students

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy greeted Wednesday some 2,200 cheering foreign high school students who have been living in this country for a year.

When he started to shake hands with some of them on the south lawn of the White House, the students broke through restraining ropes and engulfed him, trying to touch him or shake his hand.

One girl caught in the crush fainted, but, attended by two policemen, revived quickly.

The students from 50 countries have been attending American high schools, living with American families around the country, for a year. They are sponsored by the American Field Service, a private educational organization.

The youths gathered here Monday for a sightseeing visit before departing for their homelands Saturday.

Tax Break Given Industry By JFK

Depreciation Procedures Liberalized

BUSINESS 'TAX CUT' — Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon talks to reporters yesterday at a news conference at which he announced a $1.5 billion "tax cut" for American business. Dillon said the plan was approved by President Kennedy and shows that the administration is pro-business. Under the program, firms would be allowed larger deductions to keep their plants up to date. (AP Photofax)

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $1½-billion "tax cut" for American business was announced Wednesday by President Kennedy, who said it will spur economic growth and create jobs. The action permits larger tax deductions for firms that keep their plants up to date.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon pointed to the move as evidence that the Kennedy administration is pro-business. And he predicted an immediate upward impact on the economy.

The steel industry, which had a notable falling-out with the administration over an April attempt to raise prices, will be among the principal beneficiaries of the tax changes.

However, the effects will be felt by all businesses—big and little—and by all professional people and farmers.

Vanishing with the announcement were whatever slim hopes might have remained for a balanced federal budget in the 1963 fiscal year, which began July 1. The revenue loss from the tax changes will, in itself, more than wipe out the $500-million surplus which Kennedy forecast in January.

Some Of Loss Seen Offset

However, Dillon emphasized that the Treasury expects much of the loss to be offset after the first year. He said part, if not all, of the loss would be recouped "as higher depreciation charges increase the flow of cash to corporations and this money finds its way directly into new investment, thus creating jobs and taxable income for business and individuals."

The purpose of depreciation deductions is to enable business to set aside each year funds which will be used to replace machine or other business assets when they wear out or become obsolete.

In essence, the revised system involves three key facets:

1. The average business will be able to increase by 17 per cent the amount it deducts from taxable income to cover its investment in business equipment. This will be accomplished by reducing the length of time during which productive assets are depreciated through annual deductions. To replace time guides issued in 1942, the Treasury published a brand new set of more liberal guides.

Can Speed Depreciation

2. If a businessman is replacing old assets faster than they are being depreciated, he can speed up the depreciation process by compressing deductions into fewer years. However, in order to claim more liberal deductions, a businessman will have to show, after a three-year transition period, that his replacement practices are in line with his deductions.

3. The Treasury, for the first time, is giving businessmen—and tax agents—a uniform formula for determining whether an individual company is depreciating its equipment at an acceptable rate. This is expected to reduce squabbling between businessmen and the Internal Revenue Service.

India, Red China Swap Charges Of Aggression

NEW DELHI (AP)—India and Red China accused each other Wednesday of waging a campaign of encirclement of each other's outposts in a snowy three-mile high valley in their Himalayan borderland.

In an exchange of urgent notes, each charged the other with aggression in the narrow Galwan Valley and each warned the other of the responsibility if shooting war breaks out over the disputed border.

From the New Delhi account an Indian detachment was caught by surprise when 25 Chinese soldiers who had infiltrated the valley without detection suddenly appeared only 200 yards from the Indian defense position.

Military sources said 400 Chinese eventually moved up to positions only 50 to 70 yards from the Indians on the east, west and south.

There was no change in the situation at dusk, and the military sources said the Indian sentinels faced a second all-night watch for Chinese encircling maneuvers in the snowy moonlit landscape.

The scene, the Indian note charged, was in the Ladakh area near the junction of the borders of Kashmir, China's Sinkiang Province and Chinese-held Tibet.

The Indians said the post is 10½ miles west of even the line that China claimed as its territory in 1956.

'Deke' Slayton Taken Off Space Astronaut Team

WASHINGTON (AP) — The irregular heart action that robbed him of the role of second U.S. man in orbit took Donald K. (Deke) Slayton off the seven-man space astronaut team Wednesday.

"Naturally I'm greatly disappointed," Slayton said.

With "regret," Dr. Robert R. Gilruth, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Manned Spacecraft Center, made the announcement. He said the Air Force major will continue to perform ground duties in the man-in-space program.

The announcement said the stresses of current manned space flight are too great to recommend that Slayton "should make a one-man solo space flight."

Slayton had been picked to make the second orbital flight, but it was decided to switch because of a periodic lack of rhythm in his heart action. So Malcolm Scott Carpenter made the flight. Slayton manned a tracking station in Australia during the three orbits of his back-up pilot.

Slayton, now in seclusion with his family in the woods of Wisconsin, sent this message which NASA made public here:

"For more than three years I have been training and looking forward to an early flight assignment. But I am ready to do whatever is needed.

"I'll work wherever management feels I can best contribute to the program."

Gilruth said Slayton will assume new engineering and operational planning duties at the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex., on all programs including Mercury, the two-man Gemini and three-man Apollo spacecraft projects.

Paris, London Relay Shows Via Telstar

Britain Counters French Program With "Live" Test

NEW YORK (UPI) — France sent taped television scenes of Parisian night life via the tiny Telstar satellite into the homes of America Wednesday night, but Britain quickly outdid the feat with the first "live" east-west transatlantic television in history.

The French-British competition in bouncing television pictures off the U.S. satellite boiled up Wednesday when France announced it was not waiting for a scheduled joint European program later this month.

The lively—but totally canned—French show came on the satellite's 15th orbit at 7:32 p.m. EDT. It flooded TV sets in homes from Manhattan to California with the first direct telecast from the old world to the new.

Britain angrily charged France jumped the gun with its Gallic encore to America's history-making West-East transatlantic television broadcast Tuesday night. And the British General Post Office, in charge of the nation's communications, refused to take it lying down.

British Picture Excellent

At 10:18 p.m. EDT, on Telstar's 16th orbit at 16,000 miles per hour around the earth, the General Post Office television sending station at Goonhilly Downs in Cornwall broke into space with a program beamed to America which the announcer proudly stresses was "live." As he spoke, the screen showed an excellent picture of the seal of the general post office bearing the British crown.

Observers in America were in general agreement that the British live program—although not as animated as the earlier French program—was far better technically both in sound and picture.

The British program was principally a panel discussion by three television officials of the mechanics of international television.

U. S. Congratulated

"Good morning ... Charles Boothe speaking here ... May I be the first to congratulate you in the United States ..." said the General Post Office deputy chief engineer. "We in the United Kingdom know" that this program "represents a major step in communications."

Technicians at Andover, Maine, America's space television command center, were more obviously gleeful about the British performance:

"By george, they've done it," cried one technician.

British post officials would not comment when asked if the British decision to go on the air live Wednesday night was influenced by the French action. But it was pointed out that the decision came suddenly—just at about the time the successful French test was made.

Owen D. Young Dies At Age 87

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—Owen D. Young, 87, an industrial leader whose skill as a monetary expert brought him international recognition, died Wednesday.

The former head of two giant American corporations succumbed at his Florida home where he had spent the winters for many years. He had been ill several weeks.

Young and Charles G. Dawes in 1923 and 1924 were unofficial U.S. representatives on a committee of experts assembled by the Allied reparations committee to devise a formula for fixing war damages to be paid by Germany.

Young was coauthor of what became known as the Dawes Plan and supervised the start of its operation. Five years later he was a member of another committee of experts in Paris which drew up a revised plan for German fiscal rehabilitation and war damage payments.

As a tribute to his diplomacy and leadership, it was named the Young Plan.

The farm boy from Van Hornesville, N.Y., voluntarily retired in 1939 as board chairman of General Electric Co., the world's largest maker of electrical products.

While at General Electric, he gave impetus to America's industrial stride and was the founder of the Radio Corp. of America and its first board chairman.

Powder Puff Derby Won By Sisters

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Mrs. Frances S. Bera of Long Beach, Calif., and her sister co-pilot, Edna Bower of Seal Beach, Calif., were declared Wednesday night the official winners of the 16th annual Powder Puff Transcontinental Air Race for Women.

Mrs. Bera, winning the derby for the sixth time as a pilot, and her sister will receive about $1,200 in prize money.

Scotland Yard Asks Aid In Hunt For Art Thieves

35 Paintings Worth Million Stolen

LONDON (AP)—Scotland Yard called for international police assistance Wednesday to track down a gang of deft burglars who lifted 35 valuable impressionist paintings in London's biggest art theft.

Jacques O'Hana, owner of the looted private gallery, said the stolen works by such modern masters as Picasso, Renoir, Cezanne, Utrillo and Toulouse Lautrec, were worth at least $700,000 but might bring over a million on an open market.

An insurance broker, who offered a $56,000 reward for return of the paintings, said they were insured for $560,000 and that this was only about half their value.

Only hours after the raid on the O'Hana gallery was discovered at daybreak, a new alarm was sounded at the Dulwich College Art Gallery in Dulwich Park, southeast London.

Two men attempted to steal a valuable painting, believed to be a Rembrandt, it was disclosed. They escaped.

The O'Hana theft was an expert operation. It cleared out nearly the entire exhbition that had been arranged for the summer, the owner said.

Some of the works were taken, frames and all. Others were neartly cut from their frames.

"They knew exactly what they were doing," O'Hana said. "It is a terrible thing to happen. I can't see any point in this theft. These paintings will be useless to the thieves since they have all been classified and catalogued."

He was convinced they could not be sold in France, Switzerland England or possible other Western countries. But an effort might be made to sell them in South America or behind the Iron Curtain, he said.

The thieves were believed to have climbed over the roof of an adjoining building in London's fashionable Mayfair district, and forced a rear door of the gallery at a time when the streets were thronged with homegoing theater and dining-out crowds.

When the looting was discovered a worldwide police alarm was sent out. Scotland Yard ordered a special watch at all ports and airfields to block smuggling the works out of the country.

Churchill Feels He Is On Mend

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill, puffing a cigar and sipping brandy, indicated Wednesday he feels he is on the mend.

His doctors appeared to agree. They reported he is making satisfactory progress and they do not intend even to issue the usual medical bulletin until Friday. That in itself is a good indication. A medical bulletin would be issued if he were not doing well.

The 87-year-old wartime prime minister who broke his left thighbone in Monte Carlo June 28, appeared cheerful despite the blood clot that developed in his leg this week.

His son Randolph Churchill reported after a 15-minute visit he found his father enjoying a smoke and a drink and wiggling his toes as an exercise. Added Randolph:

"When I left I said: 'I'll come and see you again soon.' He replied: 'I hope you'll come and see me in the House of Commons.'"

The famed statesman usually has visited his beloved House of Commons after bouts of illness. It is his way of letting everyone know that he is back to form.

Anti-U.N. Move Gets Tentative House Support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House in a surprise move tentatively voted Wednesday to tack an anti - United Nations amendment onto the administration's foreign aid bill which already has been battered in the Senate.

By a unrecorded vote of 124 to 112, the House approved a move that would bar the U.S. purchase of U.N. bonds, or any loans or grants to the world organization, until other nations have paid up their back debts.

The U.N. amendment however is subject to reconsideration later. Administration leaders were expected to seek a reversal of the action.

The surprise development came as the administration was mustering up bipartisan backing for an effort to eliminate from the $4.6 billion foreign aid authorization bill Senate amendments limiting President Kennedy in extending aid to Communist Poland and Yugoslavia.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee, shortly before floor action began on the bill, agreed to fight to give Kennedy the discretion of continuing U.S. aid to the two Red-dominated countries if he felt it vital to American interests.

The House put off until Thursday action on aid to Yugoslavia and Poland and final passage of the bill.

Among the amendments adopted Wednesday was one which would force the President to cut off aid to countries which seize American property and fail to take reasonable steps within six months toward fair compensation. The amendment, proposed by Rep. E. Ross Adair, R-Ind., was adopted on a standing vote of 153 to 120.

Adair included language making the coverage retroactive to Jan. 1, 1962 so that it would apply to the seizure of a subsidiary of the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. by the Brazilian state of Rio Grande do Sul last Feb. 16.

The U.N. restriction was sponsored by Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, who pointed out to the House that other countries owed $93.9 million in back payments to the United Nations.

Hearing To Review Auto Insurance Rate Boosts

BALTIMORE (AP) — F. Douglass Sears, state insurance commissioner, announced Wednesday that a hearing will be held July 23 to reconsider increased automobile insurance rates he approved last month.

The higher premiums on collision and comprehensive insurance affect more than 200 companies affiliated with the National Automobile Underwriters Association, and some motorists would be required to pay up to 11 per cent more annually.

Sears said his department had carefully examined and considered the rate filing before approving the increase, but the new hearing would be granted to assure the public that every consideration was given in the matter.

The request for a hearing was made by Baltimore attorney Hyman Pressman. Sears said he was exercising his discretion in granting the hearing, on the assumption that Pressman might present new facts or evidence bearing on the subject.

At a hearing before the Motor Vehicle Committee of the Legislative Council last week, Sears contended the higher insurance rates were justified.

Representatives of insurance firms said the request for higher rates was made because of higher repair costs for automobiles and the increased number of claims filed by Maryland motorists last year.

Thieves Flee With $8,390

BALTIMORE (AP) — Thieves made off with $8,390 Wednesday in a downtown holdup of a check cashing firm and three yokings of bill collectors in West Baltimore.

The biggest haul, $6,890, was taken from the Ace Currency Exchange by a bandit who appeared to have a gun in his pocket. He escaped after taping the ankles of a clerk, Mrs. Martha LeBrun, 23.

Mrs. LeBrun was alone in the office at the time. The owner, Benjamin Burkowitz, was serving as a pallbearer at a funeral and had been away from the office about 30 minutes.

A total of $1,500 was taken in three yokings, and police said two of them may have been staged by the same persons. One victim told police that five adults stood by and watched as two youths attacked him and took $150 from his pockets.

Governor's Car Whizzed By But It Wasn't Tawes

BALTIMORE (AP)—That might have been a governor's limousine which whizzed past James E. Cooper Jr. of Richmond, Va., on U.S. 301 in Maryland July 4, but it wasn't carrying Gov. Tawes.

The more likely guess is it was Gov. Albertis S. Harrison Jr. of Virginia. In Richmond, Gov. Harrison confirmed he returned from the governors' conference at Hershey, Pa., along U.S. 301, but added:

"I was certainly not aware we were travelling at an excessive rate of speed."

Cooper, in a letter to the editor of the Baltimore Sun, said "a black Cadillac limousine bearing the Maryland state tag No. 1 passed me while southbound on U.S. 301 south of Upper Marlboro" about 4:45 p.m. July 4.

"Not only was the car making repeated lane changes, but the vehicle was traveling in excess of 75 miles an hour when I gave up trying to see just how fast it was traveling," the Richmond man wrote.

"This was certainly a fine example to be set by your chief executive and the Maryland State Police on July 4 holiday. Obviously, the speeding laws only apply to the common folk."

Cooper said the car was driven by "a Maryland State Police sergeant and contained a number of passengers, one of whom I would assume to be your governor."

Gov. Tawes reacted with surprise when the letter appeared in the Baltimore Sun. He said his limousine was not in Southern Maryland on July 4. Besides, the Maryland executive car bears a license with the word "governor" on it and not No. 1 as is issued to governors in most other states.

Sgt. N. W. Johnson, driver for Gov. Harrison, confirmed he drove the governor's party soutbound on U.S. 301 as far as Bowling Green, Va. But he said that "not to my knowledge" was he doing 75 miles per hour or more at any time.

State Jaycees To Make Plans

BALTIMORE (AP) — Junior Chamber of Commerce members from throughout Maryland will gather at the Statehouse in Annapolis this weekend to review the last year and plan for the coming one.

Richard W. McJilton of suburban Dundalk, president of the organization, said Wednesday about 250 Jaycees are expected to attend the annual planning session Friday night through Sunday.

George Hubley, executive director of the State Economic Development Commission will address a Saturday luncheon. Otherwise, the Jaycees will devote the meeting to forums for planning in 10 areas of the organization's activities.

McJilton's administration took office Tuesday. Among other things the new officers must decide is who will be chosen for the group's distinguished service awards to five outstanding young men in Maryland. Recipients are chosen statewide from outside the Jaycees.

Jaycees at the Annapolis meeting also will make plans for the annual Miss Maryland pageant, scheduled for July 28 this year. At that time, Maryland's representative in the Miss America contest will be chosen.

Thant Condemns Space A-Blasts

OSLO, Norway (UPI) — United Nations acting Secretary General Thant Wednesday condemned high altitude nuclear tests by the United States or any other country. He said they were as risky as "a child playing with a naked razor blade."

Thant told a news conference here he considered such tests "most undesirable" because they run counter to U.N. Assembly resolutions and to agreements between powers to use outer space for peaceful purposes.

He said even scientists are split on the high-level tests because their full implications are not known.

"I will compare the explosions of high altitude tests with a child playing with a naker razor blade," the U.N. chief told reporters two days after the United States set off a thermonuclear blast 200 to 400 miles above the Pacific.

Hopkins Cleared Of Discrimination

BALTIMORE (AP) — A state agency cleared the Johns Hopkins Medical School Wednesday of racial discrimination in refusing to admit a student from Nigeria.

Rabbi Israel M. Goldman, vice chairman of the Maryland Commission on interracial Problems and Relations, said an investigation made it clear that Olatungi Sodipo, 27, of Oshodi, Lagos, was turned down because he was unqualified for admission.

Goldman said there was no evidence that racial discrimination was involved.

Sodipo appeared before the commission earlier in the day to complain he was denied admittance to the medical school because of his color.

Woman Questioned In Embezzlement

ELKTON, Md. (AP) — A 34-year-old woman wanted for questioning in connection with an alleged $5,000 embezzlement from a canning firm has been arrested in Utah, the Cecil County sheriff's office said Wednesday.

Officers said Mrs. Lorraine Church, formerly of North East, Md., was arrested in Salt Lake City.

A warrant sworn out by Leon Durand, owner of United Canners Corp., has been forwarded to Salt Lake City, where an extradition hearing will be held for Mrs. Church.

State Jaycees To Make Plans

BALTIMORE (AP) — Junior Chamber of Commerce members from throughout Maryland will gather at the Statehouse in Annapolis this weekend to review the last year and plan for the coming one.

Richard W. McJilton of suburban Dundalk, president of the organization, said Wednesday about 250 Jaycees are expected to attend the annual planning session Friday night through Sunday.

George Hubley, executive director of the State Economic Development Commission will address a Saturday luncheon. Otherwise, the Jaycees will devote the meeting to forums for planning in 10 areas of the organization's activities.

McJilton's administration took office Tuesday. Among other things the new officers must decide is who will be chosen for the group's distinguished service awards to five outstanding young men in Maryland. Recipients are chosen statewide from outside the Jaycees.

Jaycees at the Annapolis meeting also will make plans for the annual Miss Maryland pageant, scheduled for July 28 this year. At that time, Maryland's representative in the Miss America contest will be chosen.

Woman Questioned In Embezzlement

ELKTON, Md. (AP) — A 34-year-old woman wanted for questioning in connection with an alleged $5,000 embezzlement from a canning firm has been arrested in Utah, the Cecil County sheriff's office said Wednesday.

Officers said Mrs. Lorraine Church, formerly of North East, Md., was arrested in Salt Lake City.

A warrant sworn out by Leon Durand, owner of United Canners Corp., has been forwarded to Salt Lake City, where an extradition hearing will be held for Mrs. Church.

Thieves Flee With $8,390

BALTIMORE (AP) — Thieves made off with $8,390 Wednesday in a downtown holdup of a check cashing firm and three yokings of bill collectors in West Baltimore.

The biggest haul, $6,890, was taken from the Ace Currency Exchange by a bandit who appeared to have a gun in his pocket. He escaped after taping the ankles of a clerk, Mrs. Martha LeBrun, 23.

Mrs. LeBrun was alone in the office at the time. The owner, Benjamin Burkowitz, was serving as a pallbearer at a funeral and had been away from the office about 30 minutes.

A total of $1,500 was taken in three yokings, and police said two of them may have been staged by the same persons. One victim told police that five adults stood by and watched as two youths attacked him and took $150 from his pockets.

Thant Condemns Space A-Blasts

OSLO, Norway (UPI) — United Nations acting Secretary General Thant Wednesday condemned high altitude nuclear tests by the United States or any other country. He said they were as risky as "a child playing with a naked razor blade."

Thant told a news conference here he considered such tests "most undesirable" because they run counter to U.N. Assembly resolutions and to agreements between powers to use outer space for peaceful purposes.

He said even scientists are split on the high-level tests because their full implications are not known.

"I will compare the explosions of high altitude tests with a child playing with a naker razor blade," the U.N. chief told reporters two days after the United States set off a thermonuclear blast 200 to 400 miles above the Pacific.

Governor's Car Whizzed By But It Wasn't Tawes

BALTIMORE (AP)—That might have been a governor's limousine which whizzed past James E. Cooper Jr. of Richmond, Va., on U.S. 301 in Maryland July 4, but it wasn't carrying Gov. Tawes.

The more likely guess is it was Gov. Albertis S. Harrison Jr. of Virginia. In Richmond, Gov. Harrison confirmed he returned from the governors' conference at Hershey, Pa., along U.S. 301, but added:

"I was certainly not aware we were travelling at an excessive rate of speed."

Cooper, in a letter to the editor of the Baltimore Sun, said "a black Cadillac limousine bearing the Maryland state tag No. 1 passed me while southbound on U.S. 301 south of Upper Marlboro" about 4:45 p.m. July 4.

"Not only was the car making repeated lane changes, but the vehicle was traveling in excess of 75 miles an hour when I gave up trying to see just how fast it was traveling," the Richmond man wrote.

"This was certainly a fine example to be set by your chief executive and the Maryland State Police on July 4 holiday. Obviously, the speeding laws only apply to the common folk."

Cooper said the car was driven by "a Maryland State Police sergeant and contained a number of passengers, one of whom I would assume to be your governor."

Gov. Tawes reacted with surprise when the letter appeared in the Baltimore Sun. He said his limousine was not in Southern Maryland on July 4. Besides, the Maryland executive car bears a license with the word "governor" on it and not No. 1 as is issued to governors in most other states.

Sgt. N. W. Johnson, driver for Gov. Harrison, confirmed he drove the governor's party southbound on U.S. 301 as far as Bowling Green, Va. But he said that "not to my knowledge" was he doing 75 miles per hour or more at any time.

Hopkins Cleared Of Discrimination

BALTIMORE (AP) — A state agency cleared the Johns Hopkins Medical School Wednesday of racial discrimination in refusing to admit a student from Nigeria.

Rabbi Israel M. Goldman, vice chairman of the Maryland Commission on interracial Problems and Relations, said an investigation made it clear that Olatungi Sodipo, 27, of Oshodi, Lagos, was turned down because he was unqualified for admission.

Goldman said there was no evidence that racial discrimination was involved.

Sodipo appeared before the commission earlier in the day to complain he was denied admittance to the medical school because of his color.

Hearing To Review Auto Insurance Rate Boosts

BALTIMORE (AP) — F. Douglass Sears, state insurance commissioner, announced Wednesday that a hearing will be held July 23 to reconsider increased automobile insurance rates he approved last month.

The higher premiums on collision and comprehensive insurance affect more than 200 companies affiliated with the National Automobile Underwriters Association, and some motorists would be required to pay up to 11 per cent more annually.

Sears said his department had carefully examined and considered the rate filing before approving the increase, but the new hearing would be granted to assure the public that every consideration was given in the matter.

The request for a hearing was made by Baltimore attorney Hyman Pressman. Sears said he was exercising his discretion in granting the hearing, on the assumption that Pressman might present new facts or evidence bearing on the subject.

At a hearing before the Motor Vehicle Committee of the Legislative Council last week, Sears contended the higher insurance rates were justified.

Representatives of insurance firms said the request for higher rates was made because of higher repair costs for automobiles and the increased number of claims filed by Maryland motorists last year.

Firms Indicted For Pulpwood Price Squeeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government accused seven pulp and paper manufacturers and three of their officers Wednesday of putting an illegal price squeeze on small Michigan pulpwood suppliers.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said an indictment charging unlawful conspiring to hold down the prices they pay to loggers and wood dealers was returned against the 10 defendants by a federal grand jury in Grand Rapids, Mich.

He said the indictment paralleled criminal and civil antitrust actions filed June 28 against Wisconsin pulp and paper manufacturers. The Michigan criminal indictment was coupled with the filing of a civil anti-trust suit. The courts were asked to prohibit the defendants from engaging in any future conspiracy to restrain price competition for pulpwood.

Kennedy said the defendants in both the Michigan indictment and civil suit were:

Packaging Corp. of America, Evanston, Ill., and Gordon B. Bonfield, a vice president and director.

American Excelsior Corp., Chicago, and Edgar W. Habighorst, a vice president and director.

Menasha Wooden Ware Corp., Menasha, Wis., and Roman L. Suess, manager of its mill at Otsego, Mich.

Scott Paper Co., Philadelphia.

S. D. Warren Co., Boston.

Hammermill Paper Co., Erie, Pa.

Abitibi Corp., Alpena, Mich.

Kennedy said the civil action also named these six defendants:

Charles G. Allen, of Scott Paper; Arthur F. Koller, Packaging Corp.; James B. Watters, Menasha; John N. Fields, S. D. Warren; John Hanson, Hammermill; and A. J. Audan Abitibi.

The government accused the defendants and six other companies, which were named as co-conspirators but not as defendants, of conspiring since at least 1951 to hold down prices they have paid for pulpwood used in their Lower Michigan Peninsula mills.

The indictment also said the defendants conspired to prevent mills outside of Michigan from getting wood from the same producers supplying the defendants.

The maximum penalty for conviction on the criminal charges would be one year in prison and a $50,000 fine for each individual, and a $50,000 fine for each firm.

News From Maryland In Capsule Form

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Legislative Council's Budget and Finance Committee has agreed to visit Assateague Island, south of Ocean City, in August. The purpose is to investigate the island's development potential.

William E. Green of Snow Hill has, for the past 10 years, championed using a public authority to develop the island. At the urging of Green, the only person to testify at a Tuesday night hearing, the committee agreed to go to Assateague.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A contractor halted work on the ceiling of Baltimore's $14 million Civic Center Wednesday. Several chunks of freshly applied asbestos had fallen 80 feet to the floor of the building.

Paul K. Hampshire, vice president of a contracting firm which bears his name, said any one of a number of things could be causing the asbestos material to drop from the metal lathing on which it was sprayed. He said work would not resume until the cause is determined or his firm is absolved from responsibility.

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Theodore R. McKeldin, former Republican governor of Maryland, says he favors the federal medicare bill to provide medical care for the aged through Social Security.

"I congratulate President Kennedy for sponsoring this important piece of legislation," McKeldin said. "That such care must come is beyond doubt, and the sooner the better."

McKeldin expressed his views Tuesday while taking part in the dedication of a new home for the aging in Hagerstown.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dr. Gustave H. Faubert, medical examiner of Anne Arundel County, was reported in fair condition Wednesday after suffering an apparent stroke.

He was stricken in his Glen Burnie office and was hurried to Mercy Hospital in Baltimore Tuesday by ambulance after treatment at the scene.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A record 17,580 mental patients were treated in Maryland's five mental hospitals last year.

But assistant commissioner Thurman Mott Jr. of the Department of Mental Hygiene said Wednesday the number did not mean an increased incidence of mental illness in the state.

Rather, he said, it meant a growing acceptance by the public of the mental hospital as an important part in psychiatric treatment. Mott said more than 5,000 patients were discharged from the mental hospitals last year, also a record figure.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — The University of Maryland has 4,642 students enrolled in its summer session this year. Of the total, 1,616 are graduate students and 3,026 are undergraduates.

University officials said Wednesday the figures at the end of the first week of classes June 29 showed an enrollment 4.2 per cent higher than last summer.

OLNEY, Md. (AP)—More than 200 sirens will be sounded for a period of one minute in the Washington metropolitan area Saturday as Civil Defense officials make a regular test of the warning devices.

W. L. Scarborough, acting director of Region 2, Office of Civil Defense, said the bell and light systems which give interior warning in most federal buildings will be activated simultaneously.

BALTIMORE (AP) — James W. Curran, the acting commissioner of correction, said Wednesday two prison trusties escaped from the penitentiary Saturday because a guard exercised poor judgment.

Louis W. Schech, 23, and Jerry C. Rush, 27, both of Baltimore, are still at large. They walked away from a garage where they had taken a truck to be lubricated. Curran said no action was planned against the guard criticized in a report from Warden Vernon L. Pepersack.

Schech was serving 25 years for assault with a deadly weapon and Rush 17½ years for assault with intent to murder.

BALTIMORE (AP) — As a $10 million cargo-liner was launched Wednesday, Rep. Thor C. Tollefson, R-Wash., said Russia may become the greatest maritime nation in the world.

Tollefson said the Soviet Union now has a fleet of more than five million deadweight tons and the United States must not retreat from its seapower concept, but must do more to implement a strong merchant marine.

The ship launched, the Sheldon Lykes, is the eighth of a dozen such liners being built at Sparrows Point for the Lykes Bros. Steamship Co. of New Orleans.

Colombian Leader, Wife Leave Hopkins

BALTIMORE (AP) — The president-elect of Colombia and his wife left Johns Hopkins Hospital Wednesday to return via New York to their homeland.

Guillermo Leon Valencia, who will be inaugurated Aug. 7, arrived at Johns Hopkins July 2 for a medical examination. One of his physicians, Dr. Gerardo Paris of Popayan, Colombia, said Wednesday that Valencia was in good condition.

Valencia's wife, Susana, 51, was admitted to the hospital June 21 for treatment of a stroke. Dr. Paris said "she is much better now and will continue treatment in Colombia."

Valencia arrived in the United States June 20. His visit included a talk with President Kennedy and he also addressed the Organization of American States in Washington June 25.

Troops Fight Off "Guerrillas" In Training Exercise

CAMP A.P HILL, Va. (AP(— Headquarters troops of the 29th Division successfully fought off guerrilla attackers Tuesday night, then wearily resumed other training exercises Wednesday.

"I couldn't sleep all night," complained one member of the 295h, the Maryland-Virginia National Guard infantry division.

The attacks of the guerrillas lasted all night.

Wednesday the headquarters personnel ran through more drills intended to train them in anti-guerrilla warfare and how to disperse in case of nuclear attack.

While the 175th Mortar Company bombarded a densely forested hill, the 1st Battle Group of Baltimore's 175th Infantry hustled through drills involving pop-up targets and ambush fire.

Rosenbaum's

now! EASY HAIR STYLING is yours!

with the all NEW Twirl-A-Curl

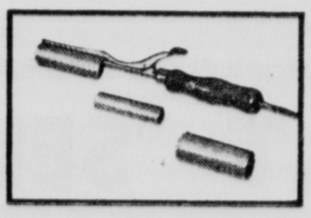
AMAZINGLY LOW $7.98 DELUXE MODEL

Complete with illustrated instructions and three sizes of interchangeable rollers, medium, large and jumbo.



Twirl-A-Curl is the answer to today's hair problems.

An electric curler that reproduces roller-perfect curls in seconds, permits you to go from the swimming pool to the country club, from a trim office-type hair style to a more glamourous coiffure for the theater, and will keep ends neat between shampoos. In minutes you create a BOUFFANT, WING, CLEOPATRA, or your own favorite style without time wasting hair sets. It's a perfect traveling companion for vacations and out-of-town weekends. It puts an end to sleeping on uncomfortable rollers forever. Soft curls, flattering waves, the beautiful "natural" look, can be yours with Twirl-A-Curl.

- Cord is UL approved!
- Safe for all types of hair.
- Excellent for childrens hair.
- Can be used safely on bleached or dyed hair.
- Will last a lifetime.

Patricia Allen Is Bride Of Emmett L. Jones III

Ceremony Performed In Virginia

Miss Patricia Ann Allen, granddaughter of Mrs. A. D. Allen, 946 East Colter Street, Phoenix, Ariz., became the bride of Emmett L. Jones III, Washington, son of Dr. and Mrs. Emmett L. Jones Jr., 560 National Highway, LaVale, June 23.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized at 3 p.m. in the rectory of St. Charles Church, Arlington, Va., with Rev. Father Sikora officiating.

Miss Maureen Yvonne Durst was the bride's maid of honor and only attendant; while Roland Unzueta served as Mr. Jones' best man.

The bride was attired in an ice blue linen, sleeveless, unfitted dress, with which she wore a bone colored taffeta hat and white accessories. A corsage of white gardenias completed her costume.

Her attendant's dress was of brown cotton voile, fashioned with a full skirt, and floral print bodice. She wore white accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations.

Mrs. Jones chose a midnight blue two-piece suit with white accessories for her son's wedding. She had a white orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Arizona State College, Tempe, Ariz., and is employed as secretary for A. D. Ring and Associates in Washington.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, and is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity. He served in the Army from 1954 to 1956 and is employed at Consultants and Designers, Inc., Arlington.

An informal wedding reception was held at the Jefferson Club in Arlington Towers. Music was provided by Nat Bader, accompanist-pianist.

Following a wedding trip to Ocean City, Mr. and Mrs. Jones will reside in Apartment 218, Potomac Plaza Terraces, 730 24th Street, NW, Washington.

Out-of-town guests included Philip Jones, Mrs. Philippa Townsend, Gaylord Brooks, Shirley Simmons, Dr. and Mrs. B. O. Coberly, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Peskin, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Luke, Peter Bratton, Miss Sue Mullins, Blair Lottig, Marlin B. Smith, John Ambrose; Charles Brown, Capt. and Mrs. J. Denton, Edward Goetz and others from the Washington area.

VFW Auxiliary Honors Only Charter Member

Henry Hart Auxiliary 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars honored its only charter member at the meeting Tuesday evening at the post home. Mrs. Clara Mantheiy presided. Mrs. Lillian Zimmerman, District 3 secretary, reported a district meeting will be held at Henry Hart Auxiliary July 29 beginning at 2 p.m. Mrs. Elizabeth Nave will be chairman for refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Violet Karns and Mrs. Mantheiy.

Following prayer by Mrs. Nave, the pledge to the flag was given, and routine reports given. Mrs. Julia Rishler, District 3 hospital chairman wrote to the auxiliary thanking it for the money for cakes for the July birthdays of patients at Baker VA center. Mrs. Rosalee Sites reported on the trip to the hospital which is to be made soon, and asked members to donate writing paper and envelopes and good, used ties that are clean. The ties may be left at her home, 420 Goethe Street or at the home of Mrs. Chloe Reynolds, 101 Park Street. Reports on the VFW convention, held in Baltimore June 21-24, were given by Mrs. Mary Moore and Mrs. Goldie Martin. The latter also announced the auxiliary had received several awards. One was a large trophy for the highest gain in membership, also a gift of cash; and a citation for second place in selling most poppies.

Mrs. Sadie Smith, the only living charter member, was presented a pin by Mrs. Reynolds in recognition of her 35 years of continual service. Mrs. Smith served as president in 1931, was color bearer for 15 years and held various other offices. Mrs. Reynolds also gave a brief history of the 35 years of the auxiliary.

A large cake decorated the table. It was in pink and white and inscribed, "Sadie 35 Years Member, VFW Auxiliary 1411." Mrs. Mantheiy presented a yellow rosebud corsage to Mrs. Smith. Refreshments were served under the chairmanship of Mrs. Martin. The prize for the evening was won by Mrs. Mary Henry. There were 23 members present.

Federated Women To Aid Immigrants, Refugees

Following the usual custom of cooperating with the programs of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Benjamin R. Lewis Jr., president of the Woman's Civic Club, said last evening she expects the club to participate in the nationwide program "to help create the social climate that will make it possible for immigrants and refugees to become participating members of the communities in which they live."

The General Federation program launched by Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold, of Concord, N. H., prsident, will be presented at the board meeting of the Woman's Civic Club, either in August or on September 13.

Mrs. Arnold points out that every year 250,000 immigrants are admitted to this country and they come, as our forefathers did, in search of 'life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness'. A program to welcome these newcomers and aid in their Americanization process is sorely needed and will assist our nation in building a true image of the United States.

"In making this contribution to American foreign policy we shall be implementing the principle of 'Unity in Diversity' adopted by the General Federation when it was founded in 1890. This recognizes the importance of cultural differences within a framework of social unity and encourages the new American to accept the customs, standards and institutions of the United States while retaining pride in his own cultural heritage," said Mrs. Arnold.

Following the summer recess, the first general meeting of the local club will be held September 20, in the form of a luncheon.

To Celebrate Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. John Marlock, 1300 Oldtown Road, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on July 17.

They will hold open house for relatives and friends at their home from 7 until 9 p. m.

Club Receives Invitation

The Bowling Green Homemakers Club will entertain with a picnic at the summer cottage of Mrs. John S. Cook Sr., Patterson Creek, July 29. It is to be from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m.

Plans were made at a meeting, with Mrs. Glenn Johnson and Mrs. Ralph Isiminger hostesses. Harry Miller was guest speaker. His topic was horticulture. It was decided to present a demonstration at the Fair. It will be given by Mrs. Lakin Root and her committee. The collect was read by Mrs. Harrison Shanholtz. Mrs. Root gave the history of the hymn of the month, which was sung by the group. A routine report was given by Mrs. Richard Bucy.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING — Mr. and Mrs. George Grove were honored at a surprise party in celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary. It was given by their children, Mrs. Bernard McKenzie, Potomac Park, and Austin Grove, Baltimore, at their home, Potomac Park, in the form of an open house. The former Miss Pearl Robison, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Robison, Avilton, became the bride of Mr. Grove, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Norman Grove, Summerfield, Pa., June 30, 1912. The ceremony was solemnized in the Frostburg Lutheran Church, with Rev. L. H. Crissman officiating. The couple has two other children, Harold of Frostburg and Cecil, at home. Mr. Grove is a retired employe of the Celanese Corporation.

Marriage Announced

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Sheila Vessels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Cameron, RD 1, Westport, N. Y., to George Robert McCoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mertens, 1020 Ella Avenue.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank Fratto in Central Assembly of God Church. Mrs. Alberta Fratto and Rev. Wendel Cover were the attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. McCoy will reside in Rochester, N. Y.

To Wed Saturday

Mr and Mrs. Harry Hackett, 108 Railroad Street, Westernport, have announced the forthcoming wedding of their daughter, Miss Linda C Hackett, to Donald H. Ludwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ludwick, Third Street, Keyser. The wedding will be Saturday.

The bride-elect was graduated in June from Bruce High School, and her fiance from Keyser High School. He is employed by the United States Department of Agriculture, Beltsville.

Soroptimists Honor Fellowship Winner

The Soroptimist Club of Cumberland makes donations each year to the fellowship program of the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas, Inc., Mrs. Blanche Mantell, immediate past president of the local club said last evening.

A 28-year-old Irish physicist, Dr. Anne Kernan of Dublin, recent winer of a Soroptimist Fellowship, will be an honor guest during the Soroptimist convention now being held in San Francisco. One of three young women granted $3,000 fellowships for studies in countries other than their own, Dr. Kernan is engaged in research at the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory at the University of California in Berkeley.

She took part in the annual fellowship luncheon at the Fairmont Hotel on yesterday, during the six-day, 17th biennial convention of the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas, Inc.

Dr. Joyce Kaufman, 33, of Baltimore, another fellowship winner, is using her award for research in quantum chemistry in Paris, at the Sorbonne-affiliated Centre de Mechanique Ondulatoire Applique. She holds a Ph.D. in chemistry from Johns Hopkins University.

The third fellowship is enabling Miss H. Elizabeth Lynch, a journalism professor at Marygrove College, Detroit, to help establish departments of journalism and public relations at the University of Brazil.

In addition to the fellowships two special grants-in-aid were given by the Soroptimist Foundation. One grant of $700 went to Dr. Takako Kitamura, who came to the United States on a Soroptimist fellowship a year ago, to enable her to complete studies in orthodontia at Columbia University School of Dentistry. The other, of $800, will help Miss Sheila Mookherjee of Delhi, India, complete her courses in social work in New York City.

The fellowships and grants-in-aid are given annually by the Soroptimists after studying many applications from young women in many parts of the world.

Last year, Bonnie Vogel, Clarysville, student at Girls Central High School, was local winner of the national citizen award, and received a $25 bond. She placed second in the regional contest. The national award will be made at the convention.

Following the summer recess, the local club will resume meetings September 11.

The Semper Fidelis Class of First EUB Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Grace Wolford, 37 Browning Street, tomorrow at 8 o'clock. There will be election of officers.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Banish Boredom

If you are tired much of the time, barring real illness, the cause is not likely to be work or lack of strength, but boredom, worry, a sense of inferiority, fear, indecision, oversensitivity or pusillanimity (weakness of spirit). These are the real thieves of energy! And all are conquerable.

Instead of grimly seeing every task through to its finish, break up your stints by alternating between two or three tasks in any given stretch. A change is as good as a rest and the energy you thus generate or save will help you complete the two or three tasks all in a much shorter time than if boredom had crept in and slowed you down with fatigue.

Or, When you must stick with some taxing job, take frequent brief respites — they relieve tension almost as much as a change. During rush periods, get up earlier to gain time for such relaxing periods during the day.

Worry is often due to lack of organization. Write down the tasks you plan for the day, neither under-nor over-estimating your ability. Worry over the day's accomplishments leads to doubts about long-term results. Then fatigue is sure to be yours.

There isn't space to take up each of the causes of fatigue, but indecision may be a major cause of your fatigue. Get the habit of positive action. Remember action, even though now and then you make an error, will in the long run achieve far greater accomplishment. Why should you always expect to be perfect? No one else is. And no one expects you to be. So go ahead and act!

Another secret of tirelessness is learning to make the most of even the smallest rest period. A handsome and charming career woman I know whose accomplishments are enough for several people, tells me this is the whole secret of her sustained energy. She cat-naps whenever possible. You should, too. Put your feet up, close your eyes and close all thoughts out of your mind.

Pamper yourself whenever you can. A warm fragrant bath before dinner is a balm to body and spirit. A facial (just the whipped-up white of an egg works fine) will pick your looks up and your spirits with it and in little more than a trice!

Penn Ave. Pack Visits Gettysburg

Two of the three recent activities of Pack 2 of Penn. Avenue School, were for family participation and the other was a supervised trip to Gettysburg, Pa. With Paul Thrasher, cubmaster; Pack 2 took the visitors' tour and visited the recently opened wax museum at Gettysburg.

The family groupings were a wiener roast at Constitution Park and an "olympics" held at Marydale. Following the contests at Marydale, scouting awards were given to the cubs who had earned them. The awards were made by Wayne Portmess, pack advancement man.

Denner stripes were given to Gordon Babcock and Steven Ketterman; assistant denner stripes to Terry Largent and Steven Mackereth; three year pins to Timothy Largent and Delas Rice; a wolf badge to Denzil Largent; bobcat badge to Daniel White; bear badge to William Squires, Scott Rowan and Vernon Swauger; gold arrows to John Berkenbaugh, William Norris and William Squires. John Berkenbaugh also received three silver arrows.

Auxiliary Has Outing

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Baltimore Pike Fire Company held a picnic and swimming party at the DeHaven cottage at Capon Bridge Tuesday evening. Fourteen members attended.

Another outing is planned for July 31.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Nine of ♠

Failure to count out declarer's distribution led West into a fatal blunder in defending against today's four spade contract. The bidding was routine. When North responded with one no trump, indicating possession of at least six high card points, South was unwilling to quit below game and proceeded directly to four spades. If partner produced as little as an ace, there should be a reasonable play for the contract.

West was not certain where to attack, so he decided to open the nine of spades in the hope that a trump lead would not cost anything. East put up the ace of spades and shifted to a low heart. Declarer's queen of hearts drove out the ace and the ten of hearts return was taken in the closed hand by the king.

Another lead of trump cleared the suit, but now South was confronted with a hopeless situation, for he had already lost two tricks, and a diamond and a heart were apparently still due the opponents. While the dummy's ace of clubs would provide a much needed discard, there was no quick means of entry to the North hand.

The only slight chance was to hoodwink a careless opponent. Declarer therefore cashed the king of clubs and then led the five of diamonds. West automatically followed with the deuce and, when dummy's queen held the trick, the rest was smooth sailing. South's losing heart was discarded on the ace of clubs, and a diamond was conceded graciously to the defenders.

Had West paused momentarily to count declarer's distribution, he would have become aware of the necessity to put up the ace of diamonds when South led that suit. When declarer ceases drawing trump after the second round, it is reasonable to play him for seven spades. East's deuce of hearts shift at trick two marks South with at least three cards in that suit. When he cashes the king of clubs, it is obvious that he has, at most, only two diamonds. If one of them is the king, West must play the ace to block declarer's attempt to reach the dummy. If it develops that East has the king of diamonds, then the defenders can routinely cash two tricks in the suit.

LaVale Lions Club Has Outing, Special Program

A special program featured the first outdoor meeting of the season of the LaVale Lions Club, held Tuesday evening in the LaVale Lions Park. Harry White presided.

Shortly after 6:30 sirens were heard approaching the picnic area. A sheriff's deputy had in his custody three members of the LaVale Lions, who were late arrivals and had been "arrested" for not being on time. The "prisoners" were handcuffed and there was a "trial," over which Judge W. Earle Cobey presided. Al Tosh served as bailiff; Donald Mason, prosecuting attorney, and Leslie Clark, counsel for the defense. The "prisoners" were William McCullough, Lorimer Twigg and Robert Laffert.

Charges were read by the "prosecuting attorney" and the prisoners were found guilty and sentenced to bread and water, while the other Lions and their wives and guests had grilled steaks, prepared by Walter Brock and his committee.

Announcement was made that the LaVale Lions, as part of its service projects, is supplying 200 barbecue chickens for the Deep Creek Yacht Club regatta August 2.

A special meeting of the LaVale Lions Foundation has been called for tonight at 8 p.m. at The Bowler.

Oldtown Methodist WSCS will meet at 8 tonight at the church hall.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING — Mr. and Mrs. George Grove were honored at a surprise party in celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary. It was given by their children, Mrs. Bernard McKenzie, Potomac Park, and Austin Grove, Baltimore, at their home, Potomac Park, in the form of an open house. The former Miss Pearl Robison, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Robison, Avilton, became the bride of Mr. Grove, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Norman Grove, Summerfield, Pa., June 30, 1912. The ceremony was solemnized in the Frostburg Lutheran Church, with Rev. L. H. Crissman officiating. The couple has two other children, Harold of Frostburg and Cecil, at home. Mr. Grove is a retired employe of the Celanese Corporation.

Marriage Announced

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Sheila Vessels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Cameron, RD 1, Westport, N. Y., to George Robert McCoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mertens, 1020 Ella Avenue.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank Fratto in Central Assembly of God Church. Mrs. Alberta Fratto and Rev. Wendel Cover were the attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. McCoy will reside in Rochester, N. Y.

To Wed Saturday

Mr and Mrs. Harry Hackett, 108 Railroad Street, Westernport, have announced the forthcoming wedding of their daughter, Miss Linda C Hackett, to Donald H. Ludwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ludwick, Third Street, Keyser. The wedding will be Saturday.

The bride-elect was graduated in June from Bruce High School, and her fiance from Keyser High School. He is employed by the United States Department of Agriculture, Beltsville.

Soroptimists Honor Fellowship Winner

The Soroptimist Club of Cumberland makes donations each year to the fellowship program of the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas, Inc., Mrs. Blanche Mantell, immediate past president of the local club said last evening.

A 28-year-old Irish physicist, Dr. Anne Kernan of Dublin, recent winer of a Soroptimist Fellowship, will be an honor guest during the Soroptimist convention now being held in San Francisco. One of three young women granted $3,000 fellowships for studies in countries other than their own, Dr. Kernan is engaged in research at the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory at the University of California in Berkeley.

She took part in the annual fellowship luncheon at the Fairmont Hotel on yesterday, during the six-day, 17th biennial convention of the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas, Inc.

Dr. Joyce Kaufman, 33, of Baltimore, another fellowship winner, is using her award for research in quantum chemistry in Paris, at the Sorbonne-affiliated Centre de Mechanique Ondulatoire Applique. She holds a Ph.D. in chemistry from Johns Hopkins University.

The third fellowship is enabling Miss H. Elizabeth Lynch, a journalism professor at Marygrove College, Detroit, to help establish departments of journalism and public relations at the University of Brazil.

In addition to the fellowships two special grants-in-aid were given by the Soroptimist Foundation. One grant of $700 went to Dr. Takako Kitamura, who came to the United States on a Soroptimist fellowship a year ago, to enable her to complete studies in orthodontia at Columbia University School of Dentistry. The other, of $800, will help Miss Sheila Mookherjee of Delhi, India, complete her courses in social work in New York City.

The fellowships and grants-in-aid are given annually by the Soroptimists after studying many applications from young women in many parts of the world.

Last year, Bonnie Vogel, Clarysville, student at Girls Central High School, was local winner of the national citizen award, and received a $25 bond. She placed second in the regional contest. The national award will be made at the convention.

Following the summer recess, the local club will resume meetings September 11.

The Semper Fidelis Class of First EUB Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Grace Wolford, 37 Browning Street, tomorrow at 8 o'clock. There will be election of officers.

Secrets Of Charm

Banish Boredom

If you are tired much of the time, barring real illness, the cause is not likely to be work or lack of strength, but boredom, worry, a sense of inferiority, fear, indecision, oversensitivity or pusillanimity (weakness of spirit). These are the real thieves of energy! And all are conquerable.

Instead of grimly seeing every task through to its finish, break up your stints by alternating between two or three tasks in any given stretch. A change is as good as a rest and the energy you thus generate or save will help you complete the two or three tasks all in a much shorter time than if boredom had crept in and slowed you down with fatigue.

Or, When you must stick with some taxing job, take frequent brief respites — they relieve tension almost as much as a change. During rush periods, get up earlier to gain time for such relaxing periods during the day.

Worry is often due to lack of organization. Write down the tasks you plan for the day, neither under-nor over-estimating your ability. Worry over the day's accomplishments leads to doubts about long-term results. Then fatigue is sure to be yours.

There isn't space to take up each of the causes of fatigue, but indecision may be a major cause of your fatigue. Get the habit of positive action. Remember action, even though now and then you make an error, will in the long run achieve far greater accomplishment. Why should you always expect to be perfect? No one else is. And no one expects you to be. So go ahead and act!

Another secret of tirelessness is learning to make the most of even the smallest rest period. A handsome and charming career woman I know whose accomplishments are enough for several people, tells me this is the whole secret of her sustained energy. She cat-naps whenever possible. You should, too. Put your feet up, close your eyes and close all thoughts out of your mind.

Pamper yourself whenever you can. A warm fragrant bath before dinner is a balm to body and spirit. A facial (just the whipped-up white of an egg works fine) will pick your looks up and your spirits with it and in little more than a trice!

PAT BAYNE AND FEATHERED FRIENDS

Miss With Magic

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — "Children are not the easiest audiences," says a part-time magician from Shelton, Conn.

Pat Bayne, 21, says the imagination of children "knows no bounds. They don't see the impossibilities of an act and they imagine in their own way how it should be performed."

Specializing in children's magic shows, the blue-eyed, dark-haired miss with turned up nose and dimples, has performed in practically every state in the U. S., mostly at hotels and shunning night club work until she became of age."

Watching her dad perform as an amateur magician when she was 10 and assisting as his prop man, Miss Bayne was so intrigued with the are of fooling people that within six months she was giving her own performances. "And my father, a retired captain in the fire department, was carrying the props," she says.

Capturing honors in numerous competitions, Miss Bayne won the teenage championships and the women's championships at the International Brotherhood of Magicians and the Society of American Magicians conference in Chicago two years ago.

Besides her many children's programs, Miss Bayne offers special shows "for women." These are restricted primarily to the use of silks, flowers and birds. She owns 11 Java doves and spends several months training them for use in the shows.

A clerk at an industrial engineering firm, Miss Bayne attends college classes in the evening and eventually hopes to become an industrial engineer.

The pert, ambitious young magician is serious about the world of magic. "Most people think of it only in terms of entertainment," she says. "But you should know the many sales promotion departments of business organizations who use magic as an important gimmick to create interest in business."

Marriage Announced

The marriage of Miss Nancy M. Faulconer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson A. Faulconer, Tallahassee, Fla., to Robert H. Downing, Bel Air, near Triple Lakes, son of William A. Downing, Wheeling, was performed July 7 in First Methodist Church of Cresaptown by Rev. William Balderson.

Mrs. Charles William Hurt, Charlottesville, was matron of honor while B. Aubrey Huffman, also of Charlottesville, served as best man.

The bridegroom is vice president of the Virginia Land Company, Charlottesville; and the Allegany Land Company and manager of the Bel Air project.

Following a reception at the home of the bridegroom, a dinner was served at the Cumberland Country Club.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The trouble started when I was pregnant with our second child. My husband borrowed money to buy a motorcycle. Believe me, it was the last thing we needed. He lied and said the motorcycle belonged to a fellow he worked with, but I learned different.

He started to stay out late and claimed he was working. I learned he was chasing around with a young motorcycle crowd. I told him to grow up and behave like a father or get out. He improved a lot after that.

Now it is two babies and three motorcycles later. He doesn't run around any more but he's a compulsive spender. He has borrowed money from everybody we know. Our credit rating is disgraceful. I'm afraid to answer the telephone or the doorbell.

He makes good money but we're always robbing Peter to pay Paul. What can a mother of four children do with a nut like this? —BROKE AND IN HOCK

DEAR BROKE: Tell the nut to hand over his paycheck — uncashed — and settle for a pocket allowance.

Insist that he close all charge accounts. Follow through after one week has passed. If he hasn't closed them — YOU do it.

Get a list of everyone he owes. Start to chip away at each bill, no matter how small the payments. Any show of good faith will be appreciated.

If he refuses to cut out his irresponsible, adolescent behavior tell him to get out and stay out. The law says a man must support his family.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 12-year-old daughter showed up at the dinner table with a bouffant hair-do and black pencil outlining her eyes. I told her to leave the table and come back when she looked like a human being.

Her mother said I was too hard on the child and that all kids like to play at being grown up. She also said it's good for young girls to experiment with make-up and hairdos because it's something they will need to know when they are older.

Since I was outshouted and outnumbered I decided to keep quiet until I wrote to you. Do you believe it's all right for a 12-year-old girl to practice adult hairdos and make-up this way? — ONLY A FATHER

DEAR ONLY: And pray tell, what is she practicing to be — a house-haunter? The only time it's fitting for a 12-year-old to frizz out her hair and pencil-line her eyes is on Halloween.

Your wife is doing the child a grave injustice by encouraging this premature primping. Too many youngsters are robbed of their childhood by over-anxious mothers who can't wait to push their daughters into the boy-girl ratrace.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am engaged to a man whose first wife died four years ago. She was a lovely person and a good friend of mine.

Last night Ben asked me if I would like her set of rings. They are beautiful and I always admired them so much when she wore them.

To be frank about it, I'd love to have the rings but I am afraid others will remember them as having belonged to his first wife, as I do. This might make me feel uncomfortable.

Am I being foolish? Please help me decide. — WILMA

DEAR WILMA: Your indecision suggests you would not be comfortable wearing the rings which belonged to your husband's first wife. Why not have the rings reset in another mounting? They will then seem new to you and to others as well.

CONFIDENTIAL TO AS CLOSE AS A QUARTER AFTER THREE: Reset your watch, Sister. Half-past twelve would make for a more lasting relationship.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to ... in care of this newspaper ... a stamped, self-addressed, envelope.

DEAR BROKE: Tell the nut to hand over his paycheck — uncashed — and settle for a pocket allowance.

Insist that he close all charge accounts. Follow through after one week has passed. If he hasn't closed them — YOU do it.

Get a list of everyone he owes. Start to chip away at each bill, no matter how small the payments. Any show of good faith will be appreciated.

If he refuses to cut out his irresponsible, adolescent behavior tell him to get out and stay out. The law says a man must support his family.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 12-year-old daughter showed up at the dinner table with a bouffant hair-do and black pencil outlining her eyes. I told her to leave the table and come back when she looked like a human being.

Her mother said I was too hard on the child and that all kids like to play at being grown up. She also said it's good for young girls to experiment with make-up and hairdos because it's something they will need to know when they are older.

Since I was outshouted and outnumbered I decided to keep quiet until I wrote to you. Do you believe it's all right for a 12-year-old girl to practice adult hairdos and make-up this way? — ONLY A FATHER

DEAR ONLY: And pray tell, what is she practicing to be — a house-haunter? The only time it's fitting for a 12-year-old to frizz out her hair and pencil-line her eyes is on Halloween.

Your wife is doing the child a grave injustice by encouraging this premature primping. Too many youngsters are robbed of their childhood by over-anxious mothers who can't wait to push their daughters into the boy-girl ratrace.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am engaged to a man whose first wife died four years ago. She was a lovely person and a good friend of mine.

Last night Ben asked me if I would like her set of rings. They are beautiful and I always admired them so much when she wore them.

To be frank about it, I'd love to have the rings but I am afraid others will remember them as having belonged to his first wife, as I do. This might make me feel uncomfortable.

Am I being foolish? Please help me decide. — WILMA

DEAR WILMA: Your indecision suggests you would not be comfortable wearing the rings which belonged to your husband's first wife. Why not have the rings reset in another mounting? They will then seem new to you and to others as well.

CONFIDENTIAL TO AS CLOSE AS A QUARTER AFTER THREE: Reset your watch, Sister. Half-past twelve would make for a more lasting relationship.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper with a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Strangles On Bait

SEOUL (UPI)—Witness told police Wednesday that amateur fisherman Jongsoo Park, 30, strangled when a three-inch minnow he planned to use as bait leaped down his throat and lodged in his windpipe.

Tours U.S.S.R.

MOSCOW (UPI) — Cuban defense minister Raul Castro arrived in Leningrad from Moscow Wednesday on a tour of the Soviet Union and was received by a guard of honor, the Soviet Tass news agency said.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Take an auto trip and you learn something about the location of towns in these United States.

Signs on the highway tell you when you're entering a new county or town — however small the population.

But take a train trip and lots of times figuring the name of a town your train's passing through rates as an exercise in frustration.

The same county and town officials who broke out the paints and brushes to inform the motoring public in many cases overlooked the folks who rattle through their pride and joy on a train.

The lament isn't based on a fleeting experience. Rather, it stems from having run up more than 150,000 miles as a train passenger during the last five years.

On short hops and long hops, the basic frustration remains. You have to strain the eye-balls and do mental gymnastics to figure the names of towns the train passes through when the route is an unfamilar one. Lots of times, you draw a blank.

What you see most often when a train passes through the unmentionable part of a town housing railroad tracks usually is an assortment or rear-ends of buildings.

Signs on the buildings and grounds nearby tell you all sorts of interesting facts about the business life in the town — and then forget to name the town.

Typical signs give this type of information:

—"Home of Baker's Better Biscuits."

—"Little Muffit's Dresses made here."

—"Superior Bicycle Pedal Inc., main factory."

On occasion when a train lazies through a town you get a chance to see some of the business sections.

You see a service station, a drug store, a laundromat, a grocery store.

You peer, hoping to catch the name of the town on a sign. And what do you get? "Joe's Gaseteria," "Smith's Ethical Pharmacy," "Quick 'n Clean Laundry," "Central Groceries" — and so it goes.

Perhaps the matter of upping signs to help train riders identify towns will come about as a joint effort:

—Let the town fathers give permission to women's clubs to execute the project with money donated by the folks who own the buildings that back on the railroad tracks.

Court Upholds Big Libel Award

NEW YORK (UPI) — A move to set aside as excessive the $3.5 million libel award to John Henry Faulk was turned down Tuesday in state Supreme Court.

Justice Abraham N. Geller turned down the motion by attorneys for Aware, Inc., and its two directors against whom the award was made.

Faulk charged his career as a radio and television commentator was ruined when an Aware publication accused him of pro-Communist sympathies.

Geller said the award was "unprecedented" but "was evidently intended to express the conscience of the community represented by this jury . . ."

The award was made, he said, in a case dealing with "fundamental rights deemed of great importance to the general public and to the country."

"On such an issue," Geller said, "I believe that a jury's composite assessment more accurately reflects the sense of decency and moral values of the community than the estimate of an individual judge."

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Each reduction in margin requirements has been followed, eventually by a higher stock market, comments an analyst who studied his history after Monday's margin reduction announcement.

The analyst, Sidney B. Lurie of Josephthal and Co., isn't saying that the cuts necessarily brought a climb.

He terms it instead a matter of almost uncanny timing by the Federal Reserve Board.

"All but one of the previous reductions in margin regulations took place at or near the bottom of a major downswing," he said. "The only time the board's timing was really poor was in 1953—and then it was only a question of time before the action was vindicated."

He charted six reductions before the one that Monday cut from 70 to 50 per cent the amount credit purchasers must pay down on initial purchases of listed stocks.

The last three—July 28, 1960; Jan. 16, 1958, and Feb. 20, 1953—brought an immediate rally, as the one this week did.

A month after each of these three previous reductions, the market still was higher. Six months later, the market remained higher on all but the 1953 cut—and a three-year rise began within a year after that reduction.

The three reductions before that—March 30, 1949; Feb. 1, 1947, and Nov. 1, 1937—the market response was not as immediate. But six months after each of those cuts, however, the market had gained or was in the foothills of a major climb.

Whether this week's cut also comes near the depths of a stock market valley remains a prime topic of Wall Street speculation.

Radioiodine Hazard Cited

LOGAN, Utah (UPI)—Physicist Ralph E. Lapp said Tuesday that atmospheric nuclear tests at the Nevada proving ground should be banned to hold down the hazard of radioactive iodine to children.

He also said the underground test program in Nevada should be curtailed.

Lapp, who was associated with the World War II atomic project and now devotes much of his time to writing and lecturing on nuclear matters, made his recommendations in a speech at Utah State University.

He said explosion of a small atomic weapon, equal in power to no more than 1,000 tons of TNT, produces 100,000 curies of radioactive idoine 131. So-called permissible radiation levels are measure in millionths of a millionth of a curie.

Iodine-131 has a short radioactive life, losing half of its activity in eight days. This compares with 28 years for such long-lived and more publicized hazards of bomb testing as strontium-90 and cesium-137.

It tends to concentrate in the thyroid gland, where it may cause cancer. Because their thyroid glands are smaller, infants and young children are more vulnerable to radioactive iodine, scientists say.

Soviet Frees Japanese

TOKYO (AP)—The Soviet Union Tuesday released 31 Japanese fishermen, 19 of whom it detained May 16 on charges of violating Russian waters and 12 rescued from rough seas June 18. Two Japanese patrol ships picked up the fishermen in northern Japan.

Business Tabs

DETROIT (UPI)—Evans Products Co. announced it has bought the assets of Gulf States Plywood Co. of New Orleans for cash. Gulf States does about $2 million a year in business. It is a plywood distributor in Louisiana and Mississippi. Evans produces and distributes plywood.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Electrada Corp. said Tuesday it has bought control of Arnoux Corp. of Los Angeles, a maker of electronic missile components, with sales of about $3 million a year. Terms of the purchase were not disclosed. Raymond L. Bixson will continue as president of Arnoux, which is involved in a number of aerospace programs.

KANSAS CITY (UPI)— Interstate Bakeries Corp. announced it has bought Sweetheart Associated Co., which produces and markets Sweetheart bread in the north central states. Sweetheart has bakeries in Bismarck and Minot, N.D., and Billings, Mont., and has sales of about $7 million a year. Price was not disclosed.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Glenoit Mills Inc. announced the start of construction on an addition to its Tarboro, North Carolina manufacturing plant.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Union Carbide Corp. has been awarded a $1.3 million contract by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for liquid hydrogen handling facilities to be built at Cape Canaveral, it was announced Tuesday. Union Carbide will design, fabricate and install the equipment on a cost plus fixed fee basis.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — American Building Maintenance Industries announced the acquisition of four janitorial service companies located in California, Florida, Indiana and Texas through an exchange of stock.

Dedication Postponed

PARCHMAN, Miss. (UPI) — Dedication of a new chapel in the state penitentiary here has been postponed again.

The dedication has been postponed since April 29 because of unrest among prisoners following the firing of Supt. Fred Jones.

Officials said they'll try again on July 22.

UAR Gets Polish Aid

WARSAW (UPI) — Poland has signed an agreement to lend the United Arab Republic $20 million repayable in eight years, the newspaper Zycie Warsawz said Wednesday.

Renounces Medals

PARIS (UPI)—Former French cabinet minister Jacques Soustelle Wednesday voluntarily renounced his Legion of Honor and World War II resistance medal because France gave Algeria its independence. Soustelle, a long-time partisan of a French Algeria, accused France in a letter published in the parliamentary journal of "quitting and cowardice."

Refugees Arrive

TAIPEI (UPI)—A group of 108 Chinese refugees from Hong Kong arrived at the northern port of Keelung Wednesday for resettlement on Formosa.

It was the second group of refugees to arrive here from Hong Kong since the nationalist government announced its decision to admit all those who want to come two months ago.

By DARDEN CHAMBLISS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Each reduction in margin requirements has been followed, eventually by a higher stock market, comments an analyst who studied his history after Monday's margin reduction announcement.

The analyst, Sidney B. Lurie of Josephthal and Co., isn't saying that the cuts necessarily brought a climb.

He terms it instead a matter of almost uncanny timing by the Federal Reserve Board.

"All but one of the previous reductions in margin regulations took place at or near the bottom of a major downswing," he said. "The only time the board's timing was really poor was in 1953—and then it was only a question of time before the action was vindicated."

He charted six reductions before the one that Monday cut from 70 to 50 per cent the amount credit purchasers must pay down on initial purchases of listed stocks.

The last three—July 28, 1960; Jan. 16, 1958, and Feb. 20, 1953—brought an immediate rally, as the one this week did.

A month after each of these three previous reductions, the market still was higher. Six months later, the market remained higher on all but the 1953 cut—and a three-year rise began within a year after that reduction.

The three reductions before that—March 30, 1949; Feb. 1, 1947, and Nov. 1, 1937—the market response was not as immediate. But six months after each of those cuts, however, the market had gained or was in the foothills of a major climb.

Whether this week's cut also comes near the depths of a stock market valley remains a prime topic of Wall Street speculation.

Radioiodine Hazard Cited

LOGAN, Utah (UPI)—Physicist Ralph E. Lapp said Tuesday that atmospheric nuclear tests at the Nevada proving ground should be banned to hold down the hazard of radioactive iodine to children.

Pelts Usher In Great Fur Piece Era For Fall And Winter Fashions

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Welts of pelts, belts of pelts, linings, buttons and pockets of pelts Tuesday ushered in the great fur piece era for fall and winter fashion.

Pelts on dresses, suits and coats shown during the opening sessions of the New York Coiture group's annual fashion press week ranged from sleek to shaggy.

The fur blurs the eyes through a day's fashion shows. Taken a costume or dress or coat at a time, the fur touches make for an elegant, feminine trend the designers hope most women will warm up to.

Philippe Tournaye went for furs unlimited when he designed the Marquise collection. The manufacturer summed it up this way:

"Lift the hem of a coat, fur. Expose a suit jacket lining, fur. An independent jacket over a dress, fur. Inside a raincoat, fur. Furs carpet the collection—wall to wall."

Furs included sable-dyed baum marten, chinchilla-like opossum, sable-dyed fitch, bleached civet cat, new tones of nutria, let-out fisher, Persian lamb dyed in the wool, hair seal, jaguar, spotted kid, hamster—and even skunk!

Other highlights of collections the nation's pace-setting designers showing their newest Tuesday include the following:

—Patullo-Jo Copeland went for long-haired furs. Canadian lynx was the favorite trimming used by designer Joe Copeland for fitted jacket costumes. Pet colors: red, green, brown. Opulent nighttime outfits included a green chiffon with waterfall beading on the bodice.

—Harvey Berin put forth the pared down, lean silhoutte, usually belted at the waistline, for day. Variation from this look, long the trademark of designer Karen Stark, included the "dapper" silhoutte. This was a lean skirt topped by a hip-length jacket double-breated.

—Edward Abbott collection accented figure hugging clothes. The firm's designer, Wilson Folmar, continued his cocktail sheaths for fall and winter in black crepe, black jersey, black velvet and a whole trunk of overall jeweled fabrics. Indian influence detected in short evening coat copies of the tunic Prime Minister Nehru wore on his visit to the United States. This featured narrow, standup collar, single - breasted and buttoned down the front. The fabric: printed jeweled brocade or lush silk treated to look like it was quilted in a scroll pattern.

Boy Swallows Stolen Money

An unusual situation developed in Police Headquarters Tuesday while an officer was questioning a 14-year-old local youth concerning the theft of $20.

After extensive quizzing the youth continued to deny taking the money. Finally the officer demanded: "You better cough up the money."

The youth answered: "I wish I could. You see I swallowed the $20."

The case was referred to Juvenile Court and dismissed when the youth's sister made restitution.

Urges English Study

HONG KONG (UPI)—The study of English is being popularized by the Communists in China, according to reports reaching here. The Peiping newspaper Kwang Ming has told its readers: "We must try to master the English language and make use of it to serve socialism."

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 139 This, 1962, is the centennial of the earliest ready-made albums for postmarks, postal stationery and wrappers. The French innovator catered to devotees of a hobby that originated before postage stamps were introduced in 1840. There were countless addicts on both sides of the Atlantic in 1861.

Demand arose immediately among these collectors for "covers," "stamps" and postmarks of the Confederacy. The stamps issued by the Rebel government remained in short supply, and numerous substitutes were issued by local postmasters, often with their own names inserted.

A few examples which command high prices are reproduced here. Others will be shown tomorrow.

Union Grove Camp Meeting To Open

The annual summer meeting of the Union Grove Camp Meeting Association opens today and will continue through Sunday, July 22, with services nightly at 7:45 p.m., and Sundays at 11 a.m., 2:30 p.m. and 7:45 p.m.

Rev. E. Drew Wolcott, pastor of the 11th Avenue Methodist Church, Birmingham, Ala., will be the visiting evangelist.

Rev. Mr. Wolcott was born of missionary parents in Brooklyn, N. Y., worked in the journalism field for some time, and then dedicated his life to the church. He served as a chaplain in the Army during World War II and by the end of the war was administrative chaplain, Fourth Army Headquarters. He was discharged from the Army as a lieutenant colonel.

He joined the North Alabama Conference of the Methodist Church, and also served as associate to Bishop Clare Purcell, and other conference appointments in 1940.

REV. E. DREW WOLCOTT

He organized and built Union Church of Monterrey, Mexico, and served as its pastor for ten years. During this time he also established other churches in the Mexicc territory.

He has been pastor of the 11th Avenue Methodist Church, Birmingham, since 1956.

Gene Street, choir director at Melvin Methodist Church, will direct the tabernacle platform choir made up of singers from various churches in the tri-state area, Rev. Paul R. O'Brien pastor of the Union Grove Methodist Circuit, will direct the congregational singing.

Conservative Attire

NEW YORK (UPI)—A full-page advertisement in the current issue of the National Review, a conservative journal, offers readers a chance to buy "Barry Goldwater Sweatshirts."

"Be the first in your precinct to own a Barry Goldwater sweatshirt," the ad says. "You'll delight in watching liberals recoil in terror when they see you. . ."

Frosty Belles Present Reports

FROSTBURG — J. Glenn Beall Jr., chairman of the recent sesquicentennial celebration, announced that the following chapters of Frosty Belles have submitted proceeds derived prior to the observance:

Juliette Lowe, $145; Belle Blossoms, $5; Clarysville Belles, $12; Rambling Nita Belles, $100 and McGuires Belles, $10.

Announces Candidacy

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Salt Lake Mayor J. Bracken Lee, the former governor of Utah who once refused to pay his income taxes because he opposed foreign aid, has announced his candidacy for the U.S. Senate.

Lee, who bolted the party in 1956 when it refused to nominate him for a third term as governor, will run as a Republican. Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, a conservative Republican with two terms in the Senate, will oppose Lee in the GOP primary.

Midland Clinic Planned Friday

MIDLAND — The regular well baby and pre-school children's clinic will be held Friday from 9:30 a. m. until noon at the medical center on Railroad Street.

Dr. Frank Harrat, Frostburg, will conduct examinations. He will be assisted by Mrs. Thelma Inskeep, Lonaconing, and Mrs. Elizabeth Rosenmerkel, Cumberland, public health nurses; Mrs. Pearl Blair, Mrs. Gertrude Smith and Mrs. Margaret Blair, lay health workers.

As long as a honeycomb is kept dry, the honey will keep for many years.

CBs Complete Girl Scout Camp Work

Combining civic efforts with training, Naval Reserve Construction Battalion 5-7 (Seabees) applied the final touches over the weekend to a three-troop kitchen at Camp Tioga, Shawnee Council Girl Scouts' summer camping site near Flintstone.

The Girl Scouts, who have begun their camping sessions there, showed their appreciation to the Seabees Sunday by presenting them with a gaily-decorated cake that carried the confectioned message, "Thanks, Seabees."

With a $4,500 gift from Cumberland Lions Club providing the impetus, the Seabees undertook the construction project as part of its training during their June and July weekend drills.

Cmdr. Paul Arbogast was in command of the unit when the task was undertaken. He since completed his assignment in that post. Cmdr. Gerard P. Calhoun, teacher and athletic coach at Beall High School, is acting commanding officer.

Lt. Winfield H. Adam (USCGR), the division training officer, said the project provided the men in the unit with not only the opportunity to lend civic assistance, but also they were able to acquire inrate training so that they would be better prepared for advancement. Many practical factors required for advancement were obtained by men in the unit, Lt. Adam said.

During the division's last drill in June, a visit to Camp Tioga was made by Cmdr. J. B. Wyble, of Jones Point, Alexandria, commanding officer of Mobile Construction Battalion 23, of which the local unit is a part. With him was Lt. Cmdr. Allen Cywin, operations officer for MCB23.

Cmdr. Wyble commended the division for the team training project and offered that it was "good preparation for these men in their role in MCB23 in the event of mobilization."

Chief Russell G. Robeson, a member of CB 5-7 since its founding here in 1949 by Rear Adm. J. Paul Blundon (CEC, ret.) of Keyser, was in charge of construction.

Division officers of the CB unit who co-ordinated the project are Lt. Robert F. Varney (CEC), of Landover Hills, the executive officer who travels roughly 145 miles here for each drill; Lt. William C. Hall (CEC), a 1949 graduate of the Naval Academy, Annapolis, a recent addition to the officer roster; Lt. (j.g.) Thomas R. Kahl, (USNR), of LaVale, assistant training officer; CWO Paul M. Catherman, (USNR), of Frostburg, chief instructor, and Lt. Adam.

Men of the division presented Cmdr. Arbogast, outgoing commanding officer, with a fishing rod and reel following completion of the three-troop kitchen Sunday.

Boy Swallows Stolen Money

An unusual situation developed in Police Headquarters Tuesday while an officer was questioning a 14-year-old local youth concerning the theft of $20.

After extensive quizzing the youth continued to deny taking the money. Finally the officer demanded: "You better cough up the money."

The youth answered: "I wish I could. You see I swallowed the $20."

The case was referred to Juvenile Court and dismissed when the youth's sister made restitution.

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 140 Continuing from the previous instalment, reproductions of local stamps issued in Confederate States, 1861-65, in some instances with the responsible postmaster's name.

Stamp collectors now outnumber any other group of collector-hobbyists. With old American issues in greatest demand among them, such rarities as Confederate local issues are highly prized by their owners. So are surviving examples of the stamps issued by the Confederate government itself. Counterfeiters have exploited this fact, and many fakes exist.

The 60-year-old periodical from which these were reproduced listed the originals as worth up to $750 each when on the original envelopes. It can be guessed how much their monetary values have been inflated since then. Substantial rewards await discoveries of any originals upon old family envelopes.

Hearing Slated In Crash Of Motorboats On Lake

A hearing is set in Oakland Saturday as a result of a near headon crash of two powerful motorboats on Deep Creek Lake Sunday evening. Leo Friend, game warden at the lake, reported.

Friend said one boat was damaged beyond repair while the other was badly damaged.

Eight persons in the two craft, with only one of them being slightly injured. All were shaken up badly, Friend said.

One boat powered with a 75 horsepower motor was operated by Robert Warnick, 20 Mullen Avenue, Luke, and the other, with a 70 horsepower motor, by Benjamin Mamolen, 100 Spruce Street, Westernport.

The mishap occurred in the Hazelhurst area just off Moran's Point, about 50 yards from shore.

Neither of the craft sank, and the operators managed to get them to shore. Warnick had three stitches in his right arm to close a laceration.

A physician who had been vacationing in the area attended to him and examined the others.

Warnick had five young girls in his boat, while Mamolen had his 15-year-old son with him.

Friend said neither could give any reason for not seeing the other boat in time to avert the collision. He said the operators saw each other when they were about 15 feet apart.

Charges have been filed against both operators.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 140 Continuing from the previous instalment, reproductions of local stamps issued in Confederate States, 1861-65, in some instances with the responsible postmaster's name.

Stamp collectors now outnumber any other group of collector-hobbyists. With old American issues in greatest demand among them, such rarities as Confederate local issues are highly prized by their owners. So are surviving examples of the stamps issued by the Confederate government itself. Counterfeiters have exploited this fact, and many fakes exist.

The 60-year-old periodical from which these were reproduced listed the originals as worth up to $750 each when on the original envelopes. It can be guessed how much their monetary values have been inflated since then. Substantial rewards await discoveries of any originals upon old family envelopes.

President Ernest Hitt will give a detailed outline of the program of the club for the new year.

Watches Television

LONDON (UPI)—The Evening Standard Wednesday printed a cartoon by Vicky showing a haggard-looking man sitting alone in the rubble of his nuclear-devastated home. He is watching a telecast of an atomic blast on his television set, which is the only piece of furniture left.

Hearing Slated In Crash Of Motorboats On Lake

A hearing is set in Oakland Saturday as a result of a near headon crash of two powerful motorboats on Deep Creek Lake Sunday evening. Leo Friend, game warden at the lake, reported.

Friend said one boat was damaged beyond repair while the other was badly damaged.

Eight persons in the two craft, with only one of them being slightly injured. All were shaken up badly, Friend said.

One boat powered with a 75 horsepower motor was operated by Robert Warnick, 20 Mullen Avenue, Luke, and the other, with a 70 horsepower motor, by Benjamin Mamolen, 100 Spruce Street, Westernport.

The mishap occurred in the Hazelhurst area just off Moran's Point, about 50 yards from shore.

Neither of the craft sank, and the operators managed to get them to shore. Warnick had three stitches in his right arm to close a laceration.

A physician who had been vacationing in the area attended to him and examined the others.

Warnick had five young girls in his boat, while Mamolen had his 15-year-old son with him.

Friend said neither could give any reason for not seeing the other boat in time to avert the collision. He said the operators saw each other when they were about 15 feet apart.

Charges have been filed against both operators.

Pictures Available At Frostburg Library

FROSTBURG — Persons having pictures at the Frostburg Public Library which were displayed during the Sesquicentennial Art Exhibit are asked to call at the library immediately and pick them up.

The room where the pictures were displayed has been scheduled for meetings and must be cleared. The library is open daily from 1-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m.

Deaths And Funeral Notices In The Tri-State Area

DR. ISAAC L. RITTER

Retired Frostburg Dentist Dies

Dr. Isaac L. Ritter, 94, retired Frostburg dentist and a longtime figure in banking circles, died Tuesday at Miners Hospital, following an illness of several years.

Before retiring from the practice of dentistry at age 75, Dr. Ritter maintained his office on Broadway, at two different locations. He resided at 8 Broadway.

Dr. Ritter was among the first directors of Fidelity Bank, his election to the board coming shortly after the bank organized in 1902. He served as a director until last year when he retired because of ill health.

He continued, however, as a member of the board and vice president of the bank. In recognition of his long service, stockholders of Fidelity Bank elected him director emeritus.

Also, Dr. Ritter was a member of the 50-Year Club of Maryland Bankers Association, an honorary association.

As a young man, Dr. Ritter took active interest in Equitable Savings and Loan Society and became one of its board members 50 years ago. He served as society president for 30 years until retiring from the post in 1959 because of ill health. He was an honorary director after his retirement.

A graduate of the Maryland School of Dentistry, Baltimore, Dr. Ritter was associated with a dentist brother, Dr. Phillip Ritter, in Meyersdale for a short time after coming to this area.

Dr. Ritter and his wife, Katherine (Hartig) Ritter, were among the early residents along Deep Creek Lake, and they maintained a summer home there for many years.

Following his retirement from dentistry, he pursued his hobby of shop work.

He was a charter member of BPO Elks Lodge in Frostburg, and he belonged to Salem Church of Christ.

A native of Edinburg, Va., Dr. Ritter was born February 29, 1868, a son of the late Isaac and Amanda (Grandstaff) Ritter.

Surviving, in addition to his widow, are a daughter, Mrs. Jean McEwin, Amarillo, Tex., and four grandchildren.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home, 60 West Main Street, Frostburg, where the family will receive friends from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Services will be conducted at the funeral home Friday by Rev. George L. Wehler. Interment will be in Frostburg Memorial Park.

COLLINS INFANT

OAKLAND—The infant daughter of Kenneth and Shirley (Friend) Collins was pronounced dead at birth yesterday at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Also surviving are two half-brothers and a half-sister, Robert and Douglas Helbig and Roberta Helbig, all at home; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Leota Lewis, Terra Alta, and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Collins, Cleveland.

Services will be conducted this afternoon at Garrett County Memorial Gardens. The body is at the Minnich Funeral Home.

ROY C. BEAN

MOOREFIELD — Roy C. Bean, 72, of Bean's Settlement, died Tuesday in Grant County Memorial Hospital. Born in Hardy County October 24, 1889 he was a son of the late Lemuel C. and Ethel (Doman) Bean.

A retired school teacher and farmer he was a member of Moorefield Masonic Lodge 29; the Odd Fellows; Modern Woodmen of America, and Bean's Settlement Ruratan Club.

Surviving are his wife, Ora (Park) Bean; two sons, Rolfe Bean, Front Royal, Va., and Richard D. Bean, Rockville, Md.; one daughter, Mrs. June Rogers, Jacksonville, Fla., and six grandchildren.

The body is at the Thrush Funeral Home. A service will be conducted tomorrow at 1 p.m. at Asbury Methodist Church. Rev. B. F. Wright will officiate and interment will be in the church cemetery. The body will be taken to the church at noon.

MRS. HERMAN WAGNER

FROSTBURG—Mrs. Agnes F. Wagner, 87, a former resident, died yesterday at Green Lake Rest Haven, Union Lake, Mich., where she had been a patient since November.

Born in Eckhart Mines, July 9, 1875, she was a daughter of the late Alexander and Margaret (Fergusn) Close. Her husband Herman Wagner preceded her in death.

She was a member of First Methodist Church and the WSCS and Van Dyke Class of the church; honorary member of Eckhart Homemakers Club and Miners Hospital Auxiliary.

Surviving are three sons, Carl A. Wagner, Pontiac, Mich., William A. Wagner, Dearborn, Mich., and Herman P. Wagner, Vadosta, Ga.; a step-daughter, Mrs. James B. Elias, Frostburg; one sister, Miss Elizabeth Close, LaVale; a brother Alex G. Close, Frostburg, nine grandchildren and one great grandchild, and a number of nieces and nephews.

The body will be brought to the Durst Funeral Home.

KELLEY FUNERAL

Services for Del. Estel C. Kelley, 60, local attorney and veteran Republican legislator who died here Tuesday following a lingering illness, will be conducted Friday at 1 p. m. at Centre Street Methodist Church.

Rev. B. F. Hartman, assistant pastor, will officate, with Rev. Frederick W. Simmel, pastor of Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church, Westernport, assisting.

Interment will be in Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

The body is at the George Funeral Home, where a memorial service will be held today at 7:30 p.m. by BPO Elks Lodge 63.

The family will receive friends from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m. at the funeral home. The body will be taken to Centre Street Methodist Church one hour before services Friday.

Active pallbearers will be Horace P. Whitworth Jr., John M. Robb, Simon F. Reilly, Peter J. Carpenti, Harold E. Naughton and Milton Gerson.

Honorary pallbearers will be Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris, Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey, Maryland Attorney General Thomas B. Finan, Del. Lester B. Reed, Del. Noel Speir Cook, Del Thomas F. Conlon, Jr., William Walsh, George R. Hughes, David Williams, Thomas N. Berry, Robert B. Kimble, and other members of the Allegany County Bar Association.

BROTEMARKLE SERVICE

A service for Mrs. Maude Brotemarkle, 68, of 820 East Oldtown Road, who died Monday at Memorial Hospital, will be conducted at 2 p. m. tomorrow at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Rev. Russell E. Fink, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, will officiate and interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park. The body will be taken to the church at noon.

The body is at the residence.

ALLEE SERVICES

Services for William Henry Allee, 64, former local resident who died Monday at Veterans Administration Hospital, Oteen, N. C., will be conducted today at 2 p.m. at the Silcox Funeral Home by Rev. H. M. Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

Interment will be in Sunset Memorial Park.

Pallbearers will be George E. Collins, Paul K. Collins, Albert E. Beckman, Ervin Thomas, Charles F. Hare, John Fike and R. F. King.

Retired Frostburg Dentist Dies

Dr. Isaac L. Ritter, 94, retired Frostburg dentist and a longtime figure in banking circles, died Tuesday at Miners Hospital, following an illness of several years.

Before retiring from the practice of dentistry at age 75, Dr. Ritter maintained his office on Broadway, at two different locations. He resided at 8 Broadway.

Dr. Ritter was among the first directors of Fidelity Bank, his election to the board coming shortly after the bank organized in 1902. He served as a director until last year when he retired because of ill health.

He continued, however, as a member of the board and vice president of the bank. In recognition of his long service, stockholders of Fidelity Bank elected him director emeritus.

Also, Dr. Ritter was a member of the 50-Year Club of Maryland Bankers Association, an honorary association.

As a young man, Dr. Ritter took active interest in Equitable Savings and Loan Society and became one of its board members 50 years ago. He served as society president for 30 years until retiring from the post in 1959 because of ill health. He was an honorary director after his retirement.

A graduate of the Maryland School of Dentistry, Baltimore, Dr. Ritter was associated with a dentist brother, Dr. Phillip Ritter, in Meyersdale for a short time after coming to this area.

Dr. Ritter and his wife, Katherine (Hartig) Ritter, were among the early residents along Deep Creek Lake, and they maintained a summer home there for many years.

Following his retirement from dentistry, he pursued his hobby of shop work.

He was a charter member of BPO Elks Lodge in Frostburg, and he belonged to Salem Church of Christ.

A native of Edinburg, Va., Dr. Ritter was born February 29, 1868, a son of the late Isaac and Amanda (Grandstaff) Ritter.

Surviving, in addition to his widow, are a daughter, Mrs. Jean McEwin, Amarillo, Tex., and four grandchildren.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home, 60 West Main Street, Frostburg, where the family will receive friends from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Services will be conducted at the funeral home Friday by Rev. George L. Wehler. Interment will be in Frostburg Memorial Park.

COLLINS INFANT

OAKLAND—The infant daughter of Kenneth and Shirley (Friend) Collins was pronounced dead at birth yesterday at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Also surviving are two half-brothers and a half-sister, Robert and Douglas Helbig and Roberta Helbig, all at home; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Leota Lewis, Terra Alta, and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Collins, Cleveland.

Services will be conducted this afternoon at Garrett County Memorial Gardens. The body is at the Minnich Funeral Home.

ROY C. BEAN

MOOREFIELD — Roy C. Bean, 72, of Bean's Settlement, died Tuesday in Grant County Memorial Hospital. Born in Hardy County October 24, 1889 he was a son of the late Lemuel C. and Ethel (Doman) Bean.

A retired school teacher and farmer he was a member of Moorefield Masonic Lodge 29; the Odd Fellows; Modern Woodmen of America, and Bean's Settlement Ruratan Club.

Surviving are his wife, Ora (Park) Bean; two sons, Rolfe Bean, Front Royal, Va., and Richard D. Bean, Rockville, Md.; one daughter, Mrs. June Rogers, Jacksonville, Fla., and six grandchildren.

The body is at the Thrush Funeral Home. A service will be conducted tomorrow at 1 p.m. at Asbury Methodist Church. Rev. B. F. Wright will officiate and interment will be in the church cemetery. The body will be taken to the church at noon.

MRS. HERMAN WAGNER

FROSTBURG—Mrs. Agnes F. Wagner, 87, a former resident, died yesterday at Green Lake Rest Haven, Union Lake, Mich., where she had been a patient since November.

Born in Eckhart Mines, July 9, 1875, she was a daughter of the late Alexander and Margaret (Fergusn) Close. Her husband Herman Wagner preceded her in death.

She was a member of First Methodist Church and the WSCS and Van Dyke Class of the church; honorary member of Eckhart Homemakers Club and Miners Hospital Auxiliary.

Surviving are three sons, Carl A. Wagner, Pontiac, Mich., William A. Wagner, Dearborn, Mich., and Herman P. Wagner, Vadosta, Ga.; a step-daughter, Mrs. James B. Elias, Frostburg; one sister, Miss Elizabeth Close, LaVale; a brother Alex G. Close, Frostburg, nine grandchildren and one great grandchild, and a number of nieces and nephews.

The body will be brought to the Durst Funeral Home.

KELLEY FUNERAL

Services for Del. Estel C. Kelley, 60, local attorney and veteran Republican legislator who died here Tuesday following a lingering illness, will be conducted Friday at 1 p. m. at Centre Street Methodist Church.

Rev. B. F. Hartman, assistant pastor, will officate, with Rev. Frederick W. Simmel, pastor of Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church, Westernport, assisting.

Interment will be in Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

The body is at the George Funeral Home, where a memorial service will be held today at 7:30 p.m. by BPO Elks Lodge 63.

The family will receive friends from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m. at the funeral home. The body will be taken to Centre Street Methodist Church one hour before services Friday.

Active pallbearers will be Horace P. Whitworth Jr., John M. Robb, Simon F. Reilly, Peter J. Carpenti, Harold E. Naughton and Milton Gerson.

BROTEMARKLE SERVICE

A service for Mrs. Maude Brotemarkle, 68, of 820 East Oldtown Road, who died Monday at Memorial Hospital, will be conducted at 2 p. m. tomorrow at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Rev. Russell E. Fink, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, will officiate and interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park. The body will be taken to the church at noon.

The body is at the residence.

ALLEE SERVICES

Services for William Henry Allee, 64, former local resident who died Monday at Veterans Administration Hospital, Oteen, N. C., will be conducted today at 2 p.m. at the Silcox Funeral Home by Rev. H. M. Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

Interment will be in Sunset Memorial Park.

Invigorating The Thesaurus

A new edition of Roget's Thesaurus of English words and phrases is being published, and it must be causing the shade of old Peter Mark Roget to shudder. The thing's full of Americanisms.

In his introduction to the original work, published in 1852, Dr. Roget showed what he would have thought about letting in the likes of "beatnik" and "smear campaign."

This "vicious practice" of "fabricating new words," he said, "implies an ignorance or neglect of the riches in which the English language already abounds and which would have supplied them with words of recognized legitimacy, conveying precisely the same meaning as those they so recklessly coin in the illegal mint of their own fancy."

In short, Dr. Roget would have been most unsympathetic with the views of his successor editor, Robert A. Dutch, an Oxford scholar, who insists "Americanisms invigorate our language."

Still less would he have agreed with the new edition's publisher, who subscribes to the heretical notion that "correctness is determined by usage."

But some of Dr. Roget's "riches" have grown tarnished. He welcomed scores of phrases modern writers reject as appalling cliches. He offered "old as Methuselah," "without a leg to stand on," "flea in one's ear," "let the grass grow under one's feet," "making mountains of mole hills" and hundreds of others equally dated now and probably then.

One trusts the current editor, while taking on the new and vigorous, also has pensioned the old and tired.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Conservative Party

In New York State, the Conservative Party has not only appeared on the scene but has actually named a candidate to oppose Jacob Javits for United States Senator. The candidate is Robert Thompson Pell of Ticonderoga.

Pell will, of course, not be elected. Nevertheless, this is a declaration of policy and purpose and the new party will have some influence upon the coming election.

Pell is a career diplomat who has served in the State Department in many important positions. His war record is enviable. He is presently professor of international relations at Fordham University.

Regarding his candidacy, Pell said:

"The Conservative Party of New York State has asked me to be their candidate for United States Senator. I have accepted their call. As a man who has spent most of his mature life in the service of our country, I believe passionately in democracy. I believe equally vigorously that democracy can survive only if there is discussion and debate of the fundamental issues of our time in the foreign and domestic fields. Now there can be no discussion and there is less debate if the Republican Party becomes the craven image of the Democratic Party as it has become in New York with Nelson Rockefeller in Albany and Jacob Javits in the United States Senate."

This is a challenge to the emptiness of the Republican position in New York State, where there is no ideological difference between the Republican and Democratic parties. In fact, it seems to make no sense to hold an election because the candidates of both parties say the same thing, differing only in that each wants to be elected and the voters can only choose one of them.

Robert Thompson Pell, in his statement, made the point:

"I am the first to agree that there must be certain decencies and some decorum in the debate of foreign issues. But I do not accept for one single minute that this means that a Republican Legislator should, as Jacob Javits has during his entire Congressional career, join the vanguard of radical Democrats in urging the United States upon a course of suicidal appeasement."

This, then, is the crux of the Conservative position. It attacks "suicidal appeasement." It will appeal to those Americans who do not believe in tacit surrender to Soviet Russia. Should such a party, in 1962, gather 300,000 votes, it will undoubtedly dominate the Republican Party in 1964, much as the Liberal Party in New York State now dominates the Democratic Party.

The question arises as to whether the Conservative Party will develop enough political know-how during the 1962 campaign to achieve this goal or even better. It is to be noted that many of the Liberal Party leaders had had some political experience either in the Socialist Party or in trade unions or in the New Deal. However, none of its leaders were technicians in local politics. Nevertheless, Alex Rose, its strategist, is regarded in New York City as one of the most astute political leaders this city has known in years.

The Conservatives therefore have a right to assume that they can build a similar type of leadership during the 1962 campaign to carry them forward in 1964.

In their formative period, the Conservatives were advised to give up their party and work within the Republican Party. This made very little sense because they would be absorbed in the Republican Party and forgotten. They could only gain strength within the Republican Party by being outside of it, by bringing pressure upon Republican leaders if they produced enough votes to be important.

It is most interesting that the attack is made on Senator Javits. This obviously is to give the Conservative Party an immediate platform to deal with national rather than parochial politics.

Pell made the point:

"Under their Demo-Republican rule, the conservative voters of New York State are deprived of a place to go. Like the voters behind the iron curtain, they have the choice of voting 'yes' or 'yes.'"

There can be no question but that Republican politicians are worried by the appearance of the Conservative Party. The Republican candidates will be Nelson Rockefeller for Governor and Jacob Javits for Senator; the Democrats have not yet named their candidates. The Liberal Party will not endorse the Republican candidates. If the Conservatives draw off enough Republicans from Rockefeller and Javits, they are bound to be defeated.

Will We Provide Food For Communist China?

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

As of today, the United States government stands at least three-quarters committed to give massive aid in food to the Chinese Communists, on conditon that the Peking government asks for this aid, and on other conditions not publicly stated.

This is a deeply important though little understood governmental posture; and it will be useful to begin by showing how the government got into this posture.

Some time ago, in brief, West Coast grain dealers, apparently acting on speculative impulse, asked whether they could enter into contracts to sell American surplus grain to Communist China, on the pattern of the existing Canadian, Australian, and French contracts. This inquiry touched off a round of the usual governmental committee meetings.

The meetings included the Assistant Secretary of State for Politcal Affairs, George McGhee, the Assistant Secretary for the Far East, Averell Harriman, and other interested and quasi-interested parties. The meetings produced a negative answer to the West Coast grain dealers. But they also revealed some sentiment, for providing grain for China in response to a direct request from the Chinese government, and under conditons controlling the grain's distribution and the attendant publicty which the Chinese Communists would find very hard to meet.

Subsequently, the President at a press conference was asked whether he would provide grain for China. He answered, quite simply, that we had not been asked to do so. Leading American and foreign newspapermen at once inquired what was behind this answer. On the basis of information from the highly placed officals who favor feeding China, these newspapermen then published the flat, unqualifed report that we would indeed feed China at China's request. And this report has not been denied to this day.

For the Communists, this kind of undenied publication constitutes an invitation. For the rest of the world, it constitutes, as noted above, at least a three-quarters commitment. The President and the other top policy makers did not intend getting into this posture. But they have got into it, and the question thus arises whether it is a good posture to be in.

In this connection, another series of government meetings last December is decidedly relevant. In these rallies, the representatives of the huge intelligence apparatus joined with other policy makers to consider a crucial question. The question was whether the Chinese Communist system might break down under the strain of its own cruelties and follies.

At that time, the fearful character of the present situation in China was hardly begining to be appreciated in government circles. In governmental, offical estimates made in the past, however deeply erroneous, always exercise much influence on present offical opinon. Hence the December rallies reached the judgment that the Chinese Communist regime could not and would not break down under any circumstances.

In the subsequent grain-for-China meetings, this high powered (but wholly illogical) December judgment had much influence. Government being government, any judgment by any highly-placed committee is always assumed to be as true as Holy Writ, until, as so often happens, it is proved to be laughably incorrect.

On the basis of the December judgment, therefore, the grain-for-China advocates could argue, and did argue, that "we know that the Chinese Communist system is not going to break down anyway. So nothing will be lost, no opportunity will be sacrificed, if we feed Communist China at Communist China's request. And we shall also gain by doing the big-hearted, humane thing before all the world."

The December judgment was illogical, simply because human ingenuity has never constructed a system of government which is immune to final breakdown if the government's follies, failures, and cruelties pass a certain point. This feat of political design may perhaps be accomplished in the H-bomb age, but it has not been accomplished yet, in Communist China or anywhere else. For instance, if the Chinese Communist army suddenly sides with the people, as the Hungarian Communist army did, the regime of Mao Tse-tung will come to an end, there and then.

What is more important, however, is the fact that the grounds for the December judgment have been drastically altered in the interval. Under pressure of new and better statistics from Hong Kong, the experts have reluctantly retreated (for all experts hate changing estimates) from an estimated Chinese diet-leve of 1,800 calories per person per day, to an estimated diet-level of about 1,500 calories per person per day.

This is a difference between general misery and potential catastrophe. Furthermore, the experts are veering towards a tentative forecast of another deficient harvest in China this year, which means, if correct, that China's downward spiral will continue. Hence there is now a clear possibility (though nothing like a certainty) that the Communist regime may suffer some kind of final breakdown. nI this light, the question of grain-for-China will be examined in a final report.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

BIRTHDAYS — Most people we know celebrate their birthdays and other important dates on the anniversaries of their occurrences. Not so in diplomatic circles.

Along Embassy Row in this capital, as well as in other capitals of the world, party-giving is an important social function of the diplomatic set. Of course, the "best" parties are given to observe anniversaries of a country's founding, or the birthday of its monarch, ruler, or what have you.

A recent Saturday was a big day for the embassy of Luxembourg in Washington. It was the scene of a gala gathering of diplomats and their ladies to help celebrate the 66th birthday of Grand Duchess Charlotte.

As the cream of Washington diplomatic society gathered for the drinks, canapes and conversation, a curious guest asked for the actual birth date of the grand duchess. A small bit of research disclosed that it occurred on January 23.

However, explained the Luxembourg ambassador to the United States, Georges Heisbourg, the weather both in Washington and Luxembourg is somewhat less than conducive to party-giving at that time of year. So it was decided to hold the celebration over until the balmy season arrived.

Lest you think there's something unusual about this, it was pointed out that only a week previous, the British Embassy celebrated the birthday of Queen Elizabeth, whose actual natal day is April 21.

And, a few weeks ago when our relations with the Philippines were undergoing some strain, President Diosdado Macapagal threatened to change the annual day of observance of Philippine Independence to some other date than July 4, which had been decided upon in the first place as a mark of respect to the U. S. which had given independence to that country.

Seven Men Hold Up Legislation On Bills Which Affect Millions

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — If the Communists ever decided to make use of it, they could really do a job propagandawise on our system of democracy under which a handful of old men hold up the money and the laws of 180,000,000 people.

Right now seven men, two of them over 80, have brought the legislative wheels of the United States almost to a standstill on issues affecting millions — which is one way of defeating capitalism.

Here is the roll call of the seven willful men:

1. Sen. Carl Hayden of Arizona, aged 84, and Rep. Clarence Cannon of Missouri, aged 83, both Democrats, have held up all appropriation bills for the government, first because they could not agree to walk a short distance across the capitol building to meet in joint conference; later because of disagreement on procedural matters.

2. Rep. Howard Smith, the Virginia Republicrat, Chairman of the House Rules Committee, is still holding up aid-to-education, and various other bills which he doesn't want Congress to vote on. He is putting his one-man rule above the right to vote on the part of 437 members of Congress, duly elected by the people—which is the same criticism we make of the Communists.

On one of these bills, aid-to-education, Smith is supported by Rep. J. J. Delaney of New York, friend of Cardinal Spellman of New York, both of whom oppose money for public school children unless there is aid to Catholic schools. Possibly they are right, but the fact that they will not permit the rest of Congress a chance to vote, as authorized by the Constitution, is not right.

Cardinal Spellman has been one of the most vigorous critics of Communism; yet, by using his friend Delaney, he employs the same tactics as Communism — no right to vote.

3. Rep. Harold Cooley, D., N. C., as Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee delayed action on the sugar bill until it was so late that only a polyglot, inequitable sugar bill could be passed. Meanwhile, Cooley had taken time off from his Congressional duties to try a law case in North Carolina, then gone off to Italy; also had permitted his sister, Mrs. Mabel Downey, and his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Cooley, to accept expensive favors from Dictator Trujillo while he pushed Trujillo's sugar quota.

Promoting dictatorships is what we accuse the Communists of doing.

4. Rep. Wilbur Mills, D., Ark., Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, is sitting on medical aid for the aged, a bill which will vitally affect about 15,000,000 people in the twilight of their lives.

Mills, an able Congressman who opposes Communism, would indignantly deny this, but in real fact he is using the same tactics we charge to the Communists — refusal to let others vote.

In other words, while we criticize the Communists for not holding free elections, we hold elections, then let a handful of men stymie the results of those elections.

Against YCC Camps

An interesting backstage conversation took place when Rep. Carl Perkins, D., Ky., and Rep. John Blatnik, D., Minn., sponsors of a bill to establish the Youth Conservation Corps, tackled Rep. Howard Smith, Chairman of the Rules Committee urging him to permit a vote on their bill, similar to Roosevelt's plan of CCC camps.

"You cant' convince me that this legislation is necessary," growled Smith. "It looks to me like just another scheme to waste the taxpayers' money.

"How about letting the full membership of the House decide that?" shot back Blatnik. "Many young men between 16 and 21 years of age in Minnesota have had to drop out of school because of the recession, but they can't find jobs to help themselves or their destitute families."

Blatnik added that thousands of the school drop-outs in Minnesota and elsewhere eventually would resume their education if given temporary youth conservation jobs now. The YCC, he pointed out, would be financed in part by a reduction in federal relief payments, which, he said, had cost the taxpayers over $13,000,000,000 in the last ten years.

"You seem to think that this employment of our youth in useful work is socialistic, for some reason," argued Blatnik. "I strongly disagree with you. But even if you were right, isn't it better to pay men to work than to give relief for not working?"

"Now, John, it isn't a question of that at all," replied Smith. "We've got to stop government spending somewhere."

"Well, Mr. Chairman, replied the Congressman from Minnesota, "if we have a Peace Corps abroad, what is wrong with a similar youth program at home to keep our young people gainfully occupied in jobs that need to be done? It will cost only $73,000,000, the first year, compared with the many billions we are spending for defense and foreign aid.

Talking to Rep. Perkins, Smith revealed the real reason he opposes the YCC program:

"Do you contemplate racially integrated camps?" he asked.

"I don't think it is proper to raise this issue," angrily replied Perkins. "It is completely extraneous."

"There is no way to remove the issue," snapped Virginia's Smith. "I'm tired of locking the door after the horse has been stolen."

The Fabulous Invalid

By Arthur Cantor

(While John Crosby is on vacation, his column will be written by guests. Today's contributor is Arthur Cantor, co-producer of "The Tenth Man," "Gideon," and "A Thousand Clowns.")

By 1980 it became agonizingly apparent that the living theater in New York was really sick.

The boom-and-bust economics of Broadway had been playing hob, as they say, with stage production for many years. As production costs became higher, ticket prices were raised. As tickets became more costly, fewer shows were produced and fewer theaters were needed to house them. Wrecking crews demolished the dingy old intimate playhouses. Audiences dwindled as ticket prices rose. Only musical productions could survive. Straight plays vanished, except for an occasional bootleg revival on the lower West Side or compulsory Chekov in some trade-union hiring-hall.

When the only remaining New York newspaper (The New York Herald - Tribune - Times - Mirror-News - Journal - American - Post-World-Telegram & Sun) fired its critic because there was not enough work to keep him busy, the city's Mayor, Gracer Narr, decided to take action. He railroaded a bill through the New York City Council sternly informing real estate interests that they must retain the names of all theaters on the buildings which succeeded them. It was a shrewd and sentimental gesture.

Thus it was in the spring of 1980 that the casual wayfarer surveying streets once clogged with avid theater-goers could spy with teary nostalgia the Ethel Barrymore Pizza Parlor, the Helen Hayes Garage, and the Brooks Atkinson Bowling Alley. On the site of old Shubert Alley, a vast chromium castle was erected, with a seven-story winking neon sign—"Try the Shubert for Cheesier Cheeseburgers." This impressive marquee became a Manhattan landmark; on clear nights, you could see it from Newark.

By 1983, there were only four shows in New York, all musicals. Suddenly a major crisis hove into view. The theatrical craft unions, justifiably concerned about employment, struck for job security. Simultaneously the U. S. Congress legalized the no-hour week all over America. Henceforth, there was to be no straight time; everything was overtime. The old double-time became quadruple-time, with quintuple-time for lunch periods and coffee breaks. It was truly a new era.

Promptly the last four theaters on Broadway announced their imminent transformation into combination self-service delicatessens and laundromats. It was a mortal threat to the fabulous invalid, but a group of fearless, civic-minded realtors-turned-producers tackled the problem head-on. Within a fortnight they subsidized and built a mammoth playhouse "to save the living theater."

The Ice Palace—for that is what they called the only theater in New York in 1984—was a brilliant example of logistical, social, and theatrical engineering. It had 11,000 seats, was a quarter-of-a-mile deep from proscenium arch to rear balcony hall, and was equipped with radio-telescopes for all mezzanine and balcony patrons. In addition, the Ice Palace had automated ticket-selling machines which argued with customers even more effectively than mere human treasurers.

The Ice Palace signed a concordat with labor that was a model of statesmanship. It guaranteed full employment for all members of all crafts, and supplied unique non-working conditions for those employes who did not actually work.

Backstage, in an elaborate complex that ranged over two acres of choice Manhattan real estate, the non-working employes — actors, musicians, stagehands, and other technicians—were housed in compact fun-and-games units, with swimming pools, real feather beds, five therapists to assuage guilt feelings, and a little theater of their own to put on plays in their spare time.

It was, as you may gather, a magnificent solution to the problem of the Fabulous Invalid. The Ice Palace opened in March, 1984, with a new inspirational musical, "The Critique of Pure Reason, Baby," based on the best-selling novel.

The response was electric. Business zoomed. Promptly, the producers raised ticket prices to a flat $1,000 per seat for all performances. Record million-dollar grosses were totted up in the first fortnight.

Then, without warning, the shrinking audience shrank to nothing. Business plummeted. Five people were in the Ice Palace audience on Saturday night of the third week. The show played to absolute zero capacity the following Monday, and Tuesday was even worse.

Where had the audience gone? Nobody knew, nobody could find out. Colossal advertising campaigns failed to unearth a single customer. The League of New York Theater called a panic meeting, but nobody came to the meeting. The Dramatists Guild convoked, and unanimously voted higher royalties for its members as a stop-gap measure. In desperation the Ice Palace owners decided to cut prices in half—the old two-for-one gimmick — from $1,000 per ticket to $500—but even at this low price there were no buyers. From "two-fers" they went to "four-fers," "eight-fers," and finally "free-fers," absolutely free seats. Still nobody came.

On April 15, 1984, the Ice Palace owners surrendered to reality. The last theater on Broadway was sold and dismantled. A sleek, gleaming parking lot replaced it. At long last, and in the fateful year of 1984, the Fabulous Invalid was dead. Nobody gives a damn.

Pressure On Veins May Produce Phlebitis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A new type of brassiere may be responsible for an increase in thrombophlebitis of the breast. Phlebitis is inflammation of a vein and occurs most frequently in the veins of the lower extremities. But it is noted occasionally in those of the arm, pelvis, and abdomen.

Involvement of the breast is unusual. The veins in the upper and outer aspect of the gland usually are affected. A firm, fibrous, and relatively non-tender cord forms, extending from the edge to the areola.

This cord represents a clot in the vein and explains why the condition was called "string phlebitis of the chest wall" by one physician. A second sign of phlebitis is elicited when the arm is raised. A fold or crease is noted in the breast as the vein is pulled in an upward direction.

The condition is not serious but it worries the victim because of the fear of cancer. According to Dr. Harry J. Warthen, editor of the Virginia Medical Monthly, a likely cause is the new type of brassiere that presses on the upper and outer quadrant of the breast and also furnishes support from below.

The contour is improved but snug supports have been incriminated before, especially when used on large breasts. Phlebitis usually begins along the point of maximum pressure exerted by the elastic band that runs along the upper rim of the brassiere. Now and then the only explanation is over-stretching of the tissues when the arms are raised.

Thrombophlebitis of this type usually subsides spontaneously, provided pressure is removed. The blood clot in the vein (thrombus) is replaced in time with scar tissue which shrinks down until it becomes imperceptible. This functionless blood vessel is not missed because other veins take over the job.

Clots that develop in an inflamed surface rarely break up and shoot into the general circulation, in contrast to thrombi in the larger and deeper veins, especially of the legs. These are the potential troublemakers.

NIGHT PAIN

Mrs. S. writes: Could pain in the chest that wakes you up at night be due to gall bladder inflammation?

REPLY

Yes, but there are better possiblites, dependng upon the location of the pain. Distress from the gall bladder usually is noted in the upper right abdomen.

HIVES FROM ASPIRIN

J. E. writes: Why is it when I take aspirn because of nervousness or a cold I break out with hives?

REPLY

You are allergic to aspirn and ought to heed the warning because the next reaction may be more serious than hives.

COMFORTERS

A. B. writes: Do all psychiatrists give psychotherapy?

REPLY

Yes, but so does everyone, according to Dr. Alex Arieff, who helps a disturbed person or supplies the answers to his problems. This includes the comfort and reassurance given by the clergy, the family doctor, friends, and relatives. The psychiatrist differs only in his ability to give a more specialized type of advice.

TOMORROW: Bulk for constipation.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

A Soviet dignitary died and found himself at the entrance to Hell. The demon in charge of admissions said magnanimously, "I'll give you a choice. Do you want to enter the world of perdition through the Capitalist or the Communist gates?"

"The Communist gate, of course," said the experienced Soviet gent without hesitation. "There's bound to be a fuel shortage in that sector."

A young mother, discussing little Billy with her doctor, made no effort to control her son, who, despite the remonstrances of the doctor's secretary, was raising cain in the waiting room. Finally, a crash of bottles disclosed the fact that he had reached the doctor's cabinet of supplies.

"I hope," simpered the mother, "that Billy's mischievous ways are not distracting you."

"Not a bit," replied the doctor grimly. "Besides, he'll be quiet in a minute when he gets to the next shelf. That's where I keep the poisons."

Jayne Mansfield recently was asked directions for finding her Hollywood home by a couple she had invited to dinner. "Turn off Sunset Boulevard," said Miss M. airily, "and you won't be able to miss it. It's the house that sticks out furthest on the street."

Invigorating The Thesaurus

A new edition of Roget's Thesaurus of English words and phrases is being published, and it must be causing the shade of old Peter Mark Roget to shudder. The thing's full of Americanisms.

In his introduction to the original work, published in 1852, Dr. Roget showed what he would have thought about letting in the likes of "beatnik" and "smear campaign."

This "vicious practice" of "fabricating new words," he said, "implies an ignorance or neglect of the riches in which the English language already abounds and which would have supplied them with words of recognized legitimacy, conveying precisely the same meaning as those they so recklessly coin in the illegal mint of their own fancy."

In short, Dr. Roget would have been most unsympathetic with the views of his successor editor, Robert A. Dutch, an Oxford scholar, who insists "Americanisms invigorate our language."

Still less would he have agreed with the new edition's publisher, who subscribes to the heretical notion that "correctness is determined by usage."

But some of Dr. Roget's "riches" have grown tarnished. He welcomed scores of phrases modern writers reject as appalling cliches. He offered "old as Methuselah," "without a leg to stand on," "flea in one's ear," "let the grass grow under one's feet," "making mountains of mole hills" and hundreds of others equally dated now and probably then.

One trusts the current editor, while taking on the new and vigorous, also has pensioned the old and tired.

These Days

The Conservative Party

In New York State, the Conservative Party has not only appeared on the scene but has actually named a candidate to oppose Jacob Javits for United States Senator. The candidate is Robert Thompson Pell of Ticonderoga.

Pell will, of course, not be elected. Nevertheless, this is a declaration of policy and purpose and the new party will have some influence upon the coming election.

Pell is a career diplomat who has served in the State Department in many important positions. His war record is enviable. He is presently professor of international relations at Fordham University.

Regarding his candidacy, Pell said:

"The Conservative Party of New York State has asked me to be their candidate for United States Senator. I have accepted their call. As a man who has spent most of his mature life in the service of our country, I believe passionately in democracy. I believe equally vigorously that democracy can survive only if there is discussion and debate of the fundamental issues of our time in the foreign and domestic fields. Now there can be no discussion and there is less debate if the Republican Party becomes the craven image of the Democratic Party as it has become in New York with Nelson Rockefeller in Albany and Jacob Javits in the United States Senate."

This is a challenge to the emptiness of the Republican position in New York State, where there is no ideological difference between the Republican and Democratic parties. In fact, it seems to make no sense to hold an election because the candidates of both parties say the same thing, differing only in that each wants to be elected and the voters can only choose one of them.

Robert Thompson Pell, in his statement, made the point:

"I am the first to agree that there must be certain decencies and some decorum in the debate of foreign issues. But I do not accept for one single minute that this means that a Republican Legislator should, as Jacob Javits has during his entire Congressional career, join the vanguard of radical Democrats in urging the United States upon a course of suicidal appeasement."

This, then, is the crux of the Conservative position. It attacks "suicidal appeasement." It will appeal to those Americans who do not believe in tacit surrender to Soviet Russia. Should such a party, in 1962, gather 300,000 votes, it will undoubtedly dominate the Republican Party in 1964, much as the Liberal Party in New York State now dominates the Democratic Party.

The question arises as to whether the Conservative Party will develop enough political know-how during the 1962 campaign to achieve this goal or even better. It is to be noted that many of the Liberal Party leaders had had some political experience either in the Socialist Party or in trade unions or in the New Deal. However, none of its leaders were technicians in local politics. Nevertheless, Alex Rose, its strategist, is regarded in New York City as one of the most astute political leaders this city has known in years.

The Conservatives therefore have a right to assume that they can build a similar type of leadership during the 1962 campaign to carry them forward in 1964.

In their formative period, the Conservatives were advised to give up their party and work within the Republican Party. This made very little sense because they would be absorbed in the Republican Party and forgotten. They could only gain strength within the Republican Party by being outside of it, by bringing pressure upon Republican leaders if they produced enough votes to be important.

It is most interesting that the attack is made on Senator Javits. This obviously is to give the Conservative Party an immediate platform to deal with national rather than parochial politics.

Pell made the point:

"Under their Demo-Republican rule, the conservative voters of New York State are deprived of a place to go. Like the voters behind the iron curtain, they have the choice of voting 'yes' or 'yes.'"

There can be no question but that Republican politicians are worried by the appearance of the Conservative Party. The Republican candidates will be Nelson Rockefeller for Governor and Jacob Javits for Senator; the Democrats have not yet named their candidates. The Liberal Party will not endorse the Republican candidates. If the Conservatives draw off enough Republicans from Rockefeller and Javits, they are bound to be defeated.

Will We Provide Food For Communist China?

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

As of today, the United States government stands at least three-quarters committed to give massive aid in food to the Chinese Communists, on conditon that the Peking government asks for this aid, and on other conditions not publicly stated.

This is a deeply important though little understood governmental posture; and it will be useful to begin by showing how the government got into this posture.

Some time ago, in brief, West Coast grain dealers, apparently acting on speculative impulse, asked whether they could enter into contracts to sell American surplus grain to Communist China, on the pattern of the existing Canadian, Australian, and French contracts. This inquiry touched off a round of the usual governmental committee meetings.

The President and the other top policy makers did not intend getting into this posture. But they have got into it, and the question thus arises whether it is a good posture to be in.

In this connection, another series of government meetings last December is decidedly relevant. In these rallies, the representatives of the huge intelligence apparatus joined with other policy makers to consider a crucial question. The question was whether the Chinese Communist system might break down under the strain of its own cruelties and follies.

At that time, the fearful character of the present situation in China was hardly begining to be appreciated in government circles. In governmental, offical estimates made in the past, however deeply erroneous, always exercise much influence on present offical opinon. Government being government, any judgment by any highly-placed committee is always assumed to be as true as Holy Writ, until, as so often happens, it is proved to be laughably incorrect.

On the basis of the December judgment, therefore, the grain-for-China advocates could argue, and did argue, that "we know that the Chinese Communist system is not going to break down anyway. So nothing will be lost, no opportunity will be sacrificed, if we feed Communist China at Communist China's request. And we shall also gain by doing the big-hearted, humane thing before all the world."

The December judgment was illogical, simply because human ingenuity has never constructed a system of government which is immune to final breakdown if the government's follies, failures, and cruelties pass a certain point. Along Embassy Row in this capital, as well as in other capitals of the world, party-giving is an important social function of the diplomatic set. Of course, the "best" parties are given to observe anniversaries of a country's founding, or the birthday of its monarch, ruler, or what have you.

A recent Saturday was a big day for the embassy of Luxembourg in Washington. It was the scene of a gala gathering of diplomats and their ladies to help celebrate the 66th birthday of Grand Duchess Charlotte.

As the cream of Washington diplomatic society gathered for the drinks, canapes and conversation, a curious guest asked for the actual birth date of the grand duchess. A small bit of research disclosed that it occurred on January 23.

However, explained the Luxembourg ambassador to the United States, Georges Heisbourg, the weather both in Washington and Luxembourg is somewhat less than conducive to party-giving at that time of year. So it was decided to hold the celebration over until the balmy season arrived.

Lest you think there's something unusual about this, it was pointed out that only a week previous, the British Embassy celebrated the birthday of Queen Elizabeth, whose actual natal day is April 21.

And, a few weeks ago when our relations with the Philippines were undergoing some strain, President Diosdado Macapagal threatened to change the annual day of observance of Philippine Independence to some other date than July 4, which had been decided upon in the first place as a mark of respect to the U. S. which had given independence to that country.

Seven Men Hold Up Legislation On Bills Which Affect Millions

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — If the Communists ever decided to make use of it, they could really do a job propagandawise on our system of democracy under which a handful of old men hold up the money and the laws of 180,000,000 people.

Right now seven men, two of them over 80, have brought the legislative wheels of the United States almost to a standstill on issues affecting millions — which is one way of defeating capitalism.

Here is the roll call of the seven willful men:

1. Sen. Carl Hayden of Arizona, aged 84, and Rep. Clarence Cannon of Missouri, aged 83, both Democrats, have held up all appropriation bills for the government, first because they could not agree to walk a short distance across the capitol building to meet in joint conference; later because of disagreement on procedural matters.

2. Rep. Howard Smith, the Virginia Republicrat, Chairman of the House Rules Committee, is still holding up aid-to-education, and various other bills which he doesn't want Congress to vote on. He is putting his one-man rule above the right to vote on the part of 437 members of Congress, duly elected by the people—which is the same criticism we make of the Communists.

On one of these bills, aid-to-education, Smith is supported by Rep. J. J. Delaney of New York, friend of Cardinal Spellman of New York, both of whom oppose money for public school children unless there is aid to Catholic schools. Possibly they are right, but the fact that they will not permit the rest of Congress a chance to vote, as authorized by the Constitution, is not right.

Cardinal Spellman has been one of the most vigorous critics of Communism; yet, by using his friend Delaney, he employs the same tactics as Communism — no right to vote.

3. Rep. Harold Cooley, D., N. C., as Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee delayed action on the sugar bill until it was so late that only a polyglot, inequitable sugar bill could be passed. Meanwhile, Cooley had taken time off from his Congressional duties to try a law case in North Carolina, then gone off to Italy; also had permitted his sister, Mrs. Mabel Downey, and his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Cooley, to accept expensive favors from Dictator Trujillo while he pushed Trujillo's sugar quota.

Promoting dictatorships is what we accuse the Communists of doing.

4. Rep. Wilbur Mills, D., Ark., Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, is sitting on medical aid for the aged, a bill which will vitally affect about 15,000,000 people in the twilight of their lives.

Mills, an able Congressman who opposes Communism, would indignantly deny this, but in real fact he is using the same tactics we charge to the Communists — refusal to let others vote.

In other words, while we criticize the Communists for not holding free elections, we hold elections, then let a handful of men stymie the results of those elections.

Against YCC Camps

An interesting backstage conversation took place when Rep. Carl Perkins, D., Ky., and Rep. John Blatnik, D., Minn., sponsors of a bill to establish the Youth Conservation Corps, tackled Rep. Howard Smith, Chairman of the Rules Committee urging him to permit a vote on their bill, similar to Roosevelt's plan of CCC camps.

"You cant' convince me that this legislation is necessary," growled Smith. "It looks to me like just another scheme to waste the taxpayers' money.

"How about letting the full membership of the House decide that?" shot back Blatnik. "Many young men between 16 and 21 years of age in Minnesota have had to drop out of school because of the recession, but they can't find jobs to help themselves or their destitute families."

Blatnik added that thousands of the school drop-outs in Minnesota and elsewhere eventually would resume their education if given temporary youth conservation jobs now. The YCC, he pointed out, would be financed in part by a reduction in federal relief payments, which, he said, had cost the taxpayers over $13,000,000,000 in the last ten years.

"You seem to think that this employment of our youth in useful work is socialistic, for some reason," argued Blatnik. "I strongly disagree with you. But even if you were right, isn't it better to pay men to work than to give relief for not working?"

"Now, John, it isn't a question of that at all," replied Smith. "We've got to stop government spending somewhere."

"Well, Mr. Chairman, replied the Congressman from Minnesota, "if we have a Peace Corps abroad, what is wrong with a similar youth program at home to keep our young people gainfully occupied in jobs that need to be done? It will cost only $73,000,000, the first year, compared with the many billions we are spending for defense and foreign aid.

Talking to Rep. Perkins, Smith revealed the real reason he opposes the YCC program:

"Do you contemplate racially integrated camps?" he asked.

"I don't think it is proper to raise this issue," angrily replied Perkins. "It is completely extraneous."

"There is no way to remove the issue," snapped Virginia's Smith. "I'm tired of locking the door after the horse has been stolen."

The Fabulous Invalid

By Arthur Cantor

(While John Crosby is on vacation, his column will be written by guests. Today's contributor is Arthur Cantor, co-producer of "The Tenth Man," "Gideon," and "A Thousand Clowns.")

By 1980 it became agonizingly apparent that the living theater in New York was really sick.

The boom-and-bust economics of Broadway had been playing hob, as they say, with stage production for many years. As production costs became higher, ticket prices were raised. As tickets became more costly, fewer shows were produced and fewer theaters were needed to house them. Wrecking crews demolished the dingy old intimate playhouses. Audiences dwindled as ticket prices rose. Only musical productions could survive. Straight plays vanished, except for an occasional bootleg revival on the lower West Side or compulsory Chekov in some trade-union hiring-hall.

When the only remaining New York newspaper (The New York Herald - Tribune - Times - Mirror-News - Journal - American - Post-World-Telegram & Sun) fired its critic because there was not enough work to keep him busy, the city's Mayor, Gracer Narr, decided to take action. He railroaded a bill through the New York City Council sternly informing real estate interests that they must retain the names of all theaters on the buildings which succeeded them. It was a shrewd and sentimental gesture.

Thus it was in the spring of 1980 that the casual wayfarer surveying streets once clogged with avid theater-goers could spy with teary nostalgia the Ethel Barrymore Pizza Parlor, the Helen Hayes Garage, and the Brooks Atkinson Bowling Alley. On the site of old Shubert Alley, a vast chromium castle was erected, with a seven-story winking neon sign—"Try the Shubert for Cheesier Cheeseburgers." This impressive marquee became a Manhattan landmark; on clear nights, you could see it from Newark.

By 1983, there were only four shows in New York, all musicals. Suddenly a major crisis hove into view. The theatrical craft unions, justifiably concerned about employment, struck for job security. Simultaneously the U. S. Congress legalized the no-hour week all over America. Henceforth, there was to be no straight time; everything was overtime. The old double-time became quadruple-time, with quintuple-time for lunch periods and coffee breaks. It was truly a new era.

Promptly the last four theaters on Broadway announced their imminent transformation into combination self-service delicatessens and laundromats. It was a mortal threat to the fabulous invalid, but a group of fearless, civic-minded realtors-turned-producers tackled the problem head-on. Within a fortnight they subsidized and built a mammoth playhouse "to save the living theater."

The Ice Palace—for that is what they called the only theater in New York in 1984—was a brilliant example of logistical, social, and theatrical engineering. It had 11,000 seats, was a quarter-of-a-mile deep from proscenium arch to rear balcony hall, and was equipped with radio-telescopes for all mezzanine and balcony patrons. In addition, the Ice Palace had automated ticket-selling machines which argued with customers even more effectively than mere human treasurers.

The Ice Palace signed a concordat with labor that was a model of statesmanship. It guaranteed full employment for all members of all crafts, and supplied unique non-working conditions for those employes who did not actually work.

Backstage, in an elaborate complex that ranged over two acres of choice Manhattan real estate, the non-working employes — actors, musicians, stagehands, and other technicians—were housed in compact fun-and-games units, with swimming pools, real feather beds, five therapists to assuage guilt feelings, and a little theater of their own to put on plays in their spare time.

It was, as you may gather, a magnificent solution to the problem of the Fabulous Invalid. The Ice Palace opened in March, 1984, with a new inspirational musical, "The Critique of Pure Reason, Baby," based on the best-selling novel.

The response was electric. Business zoomed. Promptly, the producers raised ticket prices to a flat $1,000 per seat for all performances. Record million-dollar grosses were totted up in the first fortnight.

Then, without warning, the shrinking audience shrank to nothing. Business plummeted. Five people were in the Ice Palace audience on Saturday night of the third week. The show played to absolute zero capacity the following Monday, and Tuesday was even worse.

Where had the audience gone? Nobody knew, nobody could find out. Colossal advertising campaigns failed to unearth a single customer. The League of New York Theater called a panic meeting, but nobody came to the meeting. The Dramatists Guild convoked, and unanimously voted higher royalties for its members as a stop-gap measure. In desperation the Ice Palace owners decided to cut prices in half—the old two-for-one gimmick — from $1,000 per ticket to $500—but even at this low price there were no buyers. From "two-fers" they went to "four-fers," "eight-fers," and finally "free-fers," absolutely free seats. Still nobody came.

On April 15, 1984, the Ice Palace owners surrendered to reality. The last theater on Broadway was sold and dismantled. A sleek, gleaming parking lot replaced it. At long last, and in the fateful year of 1984, the Fabulous Invalid was dead. Nobody gives a damn.

Pressure On Veins May Produce Phlebitis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A new type of brassiere may be responsible for an increase in thrombophlebitis of the breast. Phlebitis is inflammation of a vein and occurs most frequently in the veins of the lower extremities. But it is noted occasionally in those of the arm, pelvis, and abdomen.

Involvement of the breast is unusual. The veins in the upper and outer aspect of the gland usually are affected. A firm, fibrous, and relatively non-tender cord forms, extending from the edge to the areola.

This cord represents a clot in the vein and explains why the condition was called "string phlebitis of the chest wall" by one physician. A second sign of phlebitis is elicited when the arm is raised. A fold or crease is noted in the breast as the vein is pulled in an upward direction.

The condition is not serious but it worries the victim because of the fear of cancer. According to Dr. Harry J. Warthen, editor of the Virginia Medical Monthly, a likely cause is the new type of brassiere that presses on the upper and outer quadrant of the breast and also furnishes support from below.

The contour is improved but snug supports have been incriminated before, especially when used on large breasts. Phlebitis usually begins along the point of maximum pressure exerted by the elastic band that runs along the upper rim of the brassiere. Now and then the only explanation is over-stretching of the tissues when the arms are raised.

Thrombophlebitis of this type usually subsides spontaneously, provided pressure is removed. The blood clot in the vein (thrombus) is replaced in time with scar tissue which shrinks down until it becomes imperceptible. This functionless blood vessel is not missed because other veins take over the job.

Clots that develop in an inflamed surface rarely break up and shoot into the general circulation, in contrast to thrombi in the larger and deeper veins, especially of the legs. These are the potential troublemakers.

NIGHT PAIN

Mrs. S. writes: Could pain in the chest that wakes you up at night be due to gall bladder inflammation?

REPLY

Yes, but there are better possiblites, dependng upon the location of the pain. Distress from the gall bladder usually is noted in the upper right abdomen.

HIVES FROM ASPIRIN

J. E. writes: Why is it when I take aspirn because of nervousness or a cold I break out with hives?

REPLY

You are allergic to aspirn and ought to heed the warning because the next reaction may be more serious than hives.

COMFORTERS

A. B. writes: Do all psychiatrists give psychotherapy?

REPLY

Yes, but so does everyone, according to Dr. Alex Arieff, who helps a disturbed person or supplies the answers to his problems. This includes the comfort and reassurance given by the clergy, the family doctor, friends, and relatives. The psychiatrist differs only in his ability to give a more specialized type of advice.

TOMORROW: Bulk for constipation.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A Soviet dignitary died and found himself at the entrance to Hell. The demon in charge of admissions said magnanimously, "I'll give you a choice. Do you want to enter the world of perdition through the Capitalist or the Communist gates?"

"The Communist gate, of course," said the experienced Soviet gent without hesitation. "There's bound to be a fuel shortage in that sector."

A young mother, discussing little Billy with her doctor, made no effort to control her son, who, despite the remonstrances of the doctor's secretary, was raising cain in the waiting room. Finally, a crash of bottles disclosed the fact that he had reached the doctor's cabinet of supplies.

"I hope," simpered the mother, "that Billy's mischievous ways are not distracting you."

"Not a bit," replied the doctor grimly. "Besides, he'll be quiet in a minute when he gets to the next shelf. That's where I keep the poisons."

Jayne Mansfield recently was asked directions for finding her Hollywood home by a couple she had invited to dinner. "Turn off Sunset Boulevard," said Miss M. airily, "and you won't be able to miss it. It's the house that sticks out furthest on the street."

You're Telling Me

Biscuit Mix Is Basis For Shortcake

Strawberry season is here again and strawberry shortcake is the preferred dessert in many households at this time of year.

Among strawberry fanciers, many insist that the authentic, traditional way to make this truly American dessert is to use baking powder biscut dough as its basis. They point out that when the juicy crushed berries are poured over flaky biscuits you have a combination of flavors which just can't be beat. When the whole is topped by a generous portion of whipped cream, you have a dessert which is seldom equaled and never surpassed!

Here is an easy way to treat your family to the best kind of shortcake as often as they desire it. The secret is to keep on hand, in the refrigerator, a supply of Homemade Biscuit Mix.

Homemade Biscuit Mix

- 8 cups sifted enriched flour
- ¼ cup baking powder
- 4 teaspoons salt
- 1 cup lard for soft wheat flour or
- 1½ cups lard for hard wheat flour

Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cut in lard until the mixture has a fine even crumb. Cover closely and store in the refrigerator ready for use. This mixture will keep at least a month in the refrigerator. It will yield 10 cups of biscuit mix.

To make biscuits, add ½ cup milk to 2 cups Homemade Biscuit Mix. If you want sugar in the short cake, allow 2 teaspoons for each cup of mix, adding the sugar to the mix before the milk. Turn onto a lightly floured surface and knead gently for one-half minute. Pat or roll ½ inch inch thick. Cut with medium sized biscuit cutter, dipped in flour, for individual servings. Or divide portion to fit an 8-inch round cake pan.

Bake in a hot oven (450° F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Yield: 10 to 12 biscuits. Break the biscuits in half, put butter and strawberries between halves and over the top.

Ham Sloppy Joes

- 1 large onion, chopped
- 1 medium green pepper, chopped
- 2 tablespoons shortening
- 1½ cups thinly sliced canned ham pieces
- 1 cup catchup
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 6 hamburger buns, split and toasted

Cook onion and green pepper in shortening until tender. Add ham, catchup, mustard and salt and pepper; simmer 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serve ham mixture in toasted buns. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Cranfurter Sauce

- 1 (1-lb.) can Jellied Cranberry Sauce
- 5 tablespoons thick meat sauce
- 1 tablespoon salad oil
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- 1 to 2 tablespoons mustard
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onions

Beat cranberry sauce with rotary beater until smooth. Stir in remaining ingredients and serve on hotdogs and hamburgers.

Apple Sauce Squares

Ending a meal on a sweet note leaves the family with a sense of contented well being. This is a bit of know-how every homemaker puts to happy use. So here's a suggestion for a dessert with a bright confection air. Crunchy Apple Sauce Squares are buttery, nutty and apple-tangy. They look fancy. Taste fancy. Are sweet but not over-sweet.

Their tender base is a creaming of dark brown sugar and softened butter mixed with quick oats, pressed down firm in the pan for baking. The topping is the same flavory mixture with chopped walnuts and a whisper of nutmeg added. This is spread in a buttery crumble over the zesty filling of thickened canned apple sauce, brown sugar, grated lemon rind and juice.

You bake the whole lovely affair until it's gently golden. Then slide it out of the oven, brown and apple-fragrant, and let cool. Cut down in great squares. Top each crunchy square with whipped cream if you wish. With the cream or without, however, these big squares smile their invitation. Try them some day soon. You'll find this dessert simple to make, to bake. And certainly a delight to serve and to eat.

Crunchy Apple Sauce Squares

½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup dark brown sugar
¾ cup flour
¾ cup quick oats
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg

Filling:

1½ cups canned apple sauce
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup chopped walnuts

Cream together lightly butter or margarine and ¾ cup brown sugar. Add ¾ cup flour, quick oats and salt. Cut together until crumbly. Press ½ mixture in a 8" x 8" x 1½" greased pan. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, 20 minutes. Pour apple sauce in saucepan. Bring to boil and boil rapidly, stirring constantly for 5 minutes to remove excess moisture. Combine 2 tablespoons flour with remaining ¼ cup brown sugar; add to hot apple sauce. Cook about 5 minutes or until thickened. Remove from heat; add lemon rind and juice. Cool. Spread evenly over baked mixture. Add nuts and nutmeg to remaining ½ cup crumbs; mix well. Sprinkle over apple sauce mixture. Bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes or until crumbs are browned. Cool before cutting. If desired, serve with whipped cream. Makes 9 squares.

Leftover Question

Leftovers needn't be a puzzlement to you. For leftover ham, for instance, simply dice it and combine the meat with chopped green pepper and pimiento. Combine these ingredients with a cheese sauce and serve in a noodle or rice ring.

Poached Egg And Sausage Celeri

Franks In Orbit

If all the frankfurters we Americans ate in 1961 were made into a long chain it would equal 39 of John Glenn's orbits of the earth.

Lunch Meat Quickie

Slices of canned luncheon meat spruce up a quick lunch menu when spread with brown sugar, horseradish and mustard. Broil about 5 minutes.

Stuffed Avocados Delicious

Every cook likes to create something extra special every once in awhile. Baked blue cheese-chicken stuffed avocados, for instance, are a luxurious entree for special occasions.

Creamy American blue cheese adds needed pungency to the somewhat bland combination of avocado and chicken, while a dash of cognac lends an elusive flavor touch.

BAKED BLUE CHEESE-CHICKEN STUFFED AVOCADOS
(Six Servings)

- 1 cup medium cream sauce
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon capers
- 2½ cups chopped cooked chicken
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 3 tablespoons cognac
- ⅓ to ½ cup crumbled American blue cheese (about 2-3 ounces)
- 3 large, ripe avocados
- ¼ cup lemon juice

Add salt and capers to cream sauce and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and add chicken and parsley. Heat 1 minute, then add cognac and ¼ cup blue cheese. Remove from heat at once, stirring to blend well. Cut avocados in half, lengthwise. Remove seeds. Sprinkle edges and cavities with lemon juice. Drain avocados and set, cutside up in shallow baking pan. Fill each with chicken-blue cheese mixture, piling filling high. Bake in pre-heated 350 degree oven for 10 minutes, then sprinkle remaining crumbled cheese on filling and bake 5 minutes longer. Serve at once on toast points.

Crabmeat Puffs

(Serves 4 to 8)

- 1 package (4) English muffins
- 1 cup crabmeat, flaked (6½ oz. can)
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- ½ teaspoon vinegar
- ½ cup mayonnaise

Gently pull English muffins into halves. Toast lightly. Combine remaining ingredients. Top toasted muffin halves with crabmeat mixture. Broil until puffy and golden. Garnish with sliced olives and sliced pitted black olives before serving, if desired. Serve immediately.

Ginger Cranberries

- 4 cups (1-lb.) Fresh Cranberries
- 1 large orange, quartered (remove seeds)
- 1 cup raisins
- ¼ cup honey
- ¾ cup sugar
- 1½ teaspoons ginger

Put cranberries and orange through food chopper. Mix with raisins, honey, sugar, ginger. Chill in refrigerator several hours to allow flavors to blend. Makes 2 pints.

LITTLE WOMEN

"That ear-splitting racket is just the neighbors coming home in their new sports car."

Old Fashioned Baked Beans

- ⅔ cup unsulphured molasses
- ⅓ cup prepared mustard
- ⅓ cup vinegar
- 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- ¼ teaspoon cayenne
- 12 cans (1 pound each) baked beans
- 4 medium onions, sliced

Blend together ulsulphured molasses and mustard. Stir in vinegar, Worcestershire sauce, and cayenne. Turn baked beans into a bean pot or large casserole. Stir in molasses mixture and onion slices. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 1 hour and 15 minutes.

YIELD: 48 servings.

Beat Heat

Beat the heat with unbaked oat cookies. Combine in a medium-sized saucepan: 1 cup of sugar, ⅛ teaspoon of salt, ¼ cup each of milk and butter or margarine, and 2 tablespoons of peanut butter. Bring to rolling boil. Reduce heat to low and cook 3 minutes, stirring often. Stir in 1 cup of uncooked quick rolled oats and ¼ teaspoon of almond extract. Beat until thickened and cool. Drop by teaspoonfuls on waxed paper. Chill well. Makes 2 dozen.

Frozen relish squares: Blend canned apple sauce with prepared horseradish to taste. Stir in a spoonful of chopped parsely or diced red pimento. Pack in ice cube trays to freeze. Cut into cubes for servings with meat.

Liver Sausage Variation

Try serving liver sausage in a different manner by broiling. Slice liver sausage ¼ to ½ inch thick. Place slices on broiler rack and brush with melted butter. Broil until lightly browned; turn and finish broiling on the second side. Total time will be about 5 minutes.

Surprise

Surprise your guests with a meringue covered dessert. Make 6 large pancakes, using a mix. Cool. Spread pancakes liberally with strawberry preserves and stack in 6 layers on a cookie sheet. Make meringue by beating 3 egg whites until frothy. Gradually beat in ¼ cup of sugar and beat until stiff. Cover tops and sides of pancake stack with meringue and bake 12 to 15 minutes in preheated 350-degree oven. Serve hot, cut into 6 wedges.

Crunchy

Crunchy ice cream roll is easy to make. Toast 1 cup of uncooked rolled oats 10 minutes in a shallow pan in a preheated 350-degree oven. Mix oats with ½ cup each of sifted confectioners' sugar and chopped nutmeats and 1-3 cup of melted butter. Press firmly onto all sides of 1 pint of firmly-frozen vanilla ice cream. Return to freezer to chill well. Slice and serve with chocolate sauce, whipped cream and maraschino cherries. Serves 4.

Poached Egg And Sausage Celeri

Franks In Orbit

If all the frankfurters we Americans ate in 1961 were made into a long chain it would equal 39 of John Glenn's orbits of the earth.

Lunch Meat Quickie

Slices of canned luncheon meat spruce up a quick lunch menu when spread with brown sugar, horseradish and mustard. Broil about 5 minutes.

Stuffed Avocados Delicious

Every cook likes to create something extra special every once in awhile. Baked blue cheese-chicken stuffed avocados, for instance, are a luxurious entree for special occasions.

Creamy American blue cheese adds needed pungency to the somewhat bland combination of avocado and chicken, while a dash of cognac lends an elusive flavor touch.

BAKED BLUE CHEESE-CHICKEN STUFFED AVOCADOS
(Six Servings)

- 1 cup medium cream sauce
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon capers
- 2½ cups chopped cooked chicken
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 3 tablespoons cognac
- ⅓ to ½ cup crumbled American blue cheese (about 2-3 ounces)
- 3 large, ripe avocados
- ¼ cup lemon juice

Add salt and capers to cream sauce and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and add chicken and parsley. Heat 1 minute, then add cognac and ¼ cup blue cheese. Remove from heat at once, stirring to blend well. Cut avocados in half, lengthwise. Remove seeds. Sprinkle edges and cavities with lemon juice. Drain avocados and set, cutside up in shallow baking pan. Fill each with chicken-blue cheese mixture, piling filling high. Bake in pre-heated 350 degree oven for 10 minutes, then sprinkle remaining crumbled cheese on filling and bake 5 minutes longer. Serve at once on toast points.

Crabmeat Puffs

(Serves 4 to 8)

- 1 package (4) English muffins

Ginger Cranberries

- 4 cups (1-lb.) Fresh Cranberries
- 1 large orange, quartered (remove seeds)
- 1 cup raisins
- ¼ cup honey
- ¾ cup sugar
- 1½ teaspoons ginger

Put cranberries and orange through food chopper. Mix with raisins, honey, sugar, ginger. Chill in refrigerator several hours to allow flavors to blend. Makes 2 pints.

Luncheon Special

1 can (15 oz.) corned beef hash
2 tablespoons butter
3 firm, ripe tomatoes
1 envelope Light Gravy Sauce Mix
1 cup milk
6 hamburger buns, toasted, buttered
3 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Chill hash for easy slicing. Cut into 6 round slices. In a large skillet lightly brown slices, on both sides, in butter. Cut a thin slice from top and bottom of tomatoes, then cut in halves. Let these warm through in the butter with the hash slices; or saute to heat through in a separate skillet. Meanwhile make light gravy by combining gravy mix and milk in a saucepan. Heat just to boiling, stirring constantly. For each serving top one half of toasted, buttered bun with a slice of browned hash. On other half, place warm tomato half and slices from half an egg. Spoon light gravy over both portions. Sprinkle with parsley. Makes 6 servings.

Peachy Ice Cream Drink Makes A Tasty Dessert

Have you ever thought of serving a refreshing fresh fruit flavored ice cream drink as dessert rather than the usual pie, cake or pudding? There are many delightful possibilities for this type of refreshment and one tasty example is Peachy Cooler. This flavorful combination of fresh or frozen peaches, ice cream, milk and eggs makes this beverage as elegant as the fanciest and most complicated desserts. A butter-rich cookie such as Lemon Coconut Cookies will be the perfect accompaniment with Peachy Cooler.

Milk is a vital food and should be included in everyones diet every day. Each member of the family requires a different amount of milk depending upon his age and body needs. For example children need 3 to 4 cups daily while teenagers should have 4 or more cups. Adults, on the other hand, require 2 or more cups since they are no longer growing yet need the nourishment of milk to maintain healthy bodies and body function.

PEACHY COOLER

4 eggs, separated
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
1 package (12 ounce) frozen sweetened sliced peaches, defrosted, or 1½ cups sweetened sliced fresh peaches, finely chopped in blender or mashed
1 tablespoon lemon juice
⅛ to ¼ teaspoon almond extract
2 cups chilled milk
1 pint vanilla ice cream
Whipped cream
Peach slices, optional

Beat egg whites and salt until they hold soft peaks. Add sugar gradually; continue beating until stiff and glossy. Combine egg yolks, peaches, lemon juice and almond extract; mix well. Add milk and ice cream; beat until smooth. Fold in egg whites. Serve in tall chilled glasses. Garnish with whipped cream and peach slices, if desired. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Lemon Coconut Cookies

1 cup butter
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 cups sifted all purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup coconut flakes (3½ ounce can)

Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg, lemon juice, and rind and beat thoroughly. Add sifted flour and salt and mix well. Stir in coconut. Drop from a teaspoon on ungreased cookie sheets or for pressed cookies chill dough slightly and force through a cookie press. Bake at 325° for about 15 to 18 minutes or until delicately browned. Makes 3-½ to 4 dozen cookies.

NOTE: This is not an unusually sweet cookie.

Base Menu On Meat For Planning

"What shall we have for dinner?" Planning menus not only for dinner but for lunch and breakfast 365 days a year is a puzzling task for many homemakers. Although they may be good cooks, the matter of assembling the different foods to make a well balanced meal is a chore they find frustrating.

A simple rule for menu planning which works well in many households is to build the menu around the meat course.

There are many different cuts of beef, pork, lamb and veal as well as the variety meats such as liver, heart and tongue. When the homemaker becomes familiar with them, she will find a wide variety of menus possible by choosing first the meat, then the foods which go best with it and can be cooked and served with the least effort.

With meat to supply protein and other food essentials, the balance of the menu should include a starchy vegetable (potatoes, rice, macaroni, etc.), yellow or uncooked as in salads, bread or rolls, dessert and beverage.

Flavor and color should be considered in selecting food combinations. Certain foods seem to have natural "affinities," corned beef and cabbage, liver and onions, spareribs and sauerkraut, and tongue and spinach, for instance. However, by acquiring a wide acquaintance with the various meat cuts and the way to cook them, a variety of pleasing combinations of meat, vegetables and fruits may be planned to avoid and menu monotony.

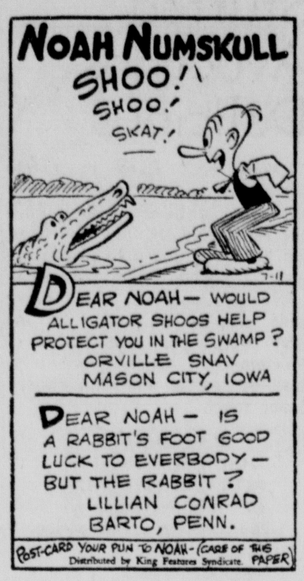
Cranberry Chutney

2 cups Fresh Cranberries, ground
1 cup brown sugar
½ cup white grapes or seedless raisins
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt

Mix thoroughly. Place in refrigerator an hour or more for flavors to blend. Makes 1½ cups.

Patio Party

Start a patio party with tasty meat balls. Combine 1 pound of lean ground beef with ½ cup of uncooked quick or old fashioned rolled oats, ¼ cup each of catsup and finely chopped onion and 1 teaspoon of salt. Shape meat around small cubes of blue cheese to form tiny balls. Pan fry in small amount of melted shortening. Skewer with toothpicks and serve hot from shallow chafing dish. Makes 3½ dozen.



Roasting Know-How

When roasting tender cuts of meat be sure to place the meat on a rack in an open roasting pan. The rack holds the meat up out of the drippings and allows better circulation of the heat. To know exactly when to take the roast from the oven, use a meat thermometer.

Ham Garnish

Kumquat flowers make an attractive and colorful garnish for ham. Cut through the kumquat peel or rind almost to the stem end, making four sections to form petals. Loosen petals and soak in ice water 3 to 4 hours. Drain and place on the platter with the ham.

Shape meat around small cubes of blue cheese to form tiny balls. Pan fry in small amount of melted shortening. Skewer with toothpicks and serve hot from shallow chafing dish. Makes 3½ dozen.

Roasting Know-How

When roasting tender cuts of meat be sure to place the meat on a rack in an open roasting pan. The rack holds the meat up out of the drippings and allows better circulation of the heat. To know exactly when to take the roast from the oven, use a meat thermometer.

Ham Garnish

Kumquat flowers make an attractive and colorful garnish for ham. Cut through the kumquat peel or rind almost to the stem end, making four sections to form petals. Loosen petals and soak in ice water 3 to 4 hours. Drain and place on the platter with the ham.

your suds need the added cleaning power of CLOROX®
Weak bleaches simply can't do the job!

It's hard on a gal's patience... and pride... when neck-rings in collars don't come out in the wash. The fact is, detergents can't remove all that oily body dirt... unless you hand-scrub. Weak bleaches can't get it out either. But Clorox bleach has the added cleaning power needed to dissolve that stubborn dirt right in your washer. For a cleaner family wash, add Clorox every time!

Week's Food Economies

Summer vegetable harvest is really getting under way with increased market offerings. If your menu reflects the best buys on the market you will be serving lots of tender fresh summertime vegetables, says Virginia L. McLuckie, food economist in the Baltimore Office of the University of Maryland Department of Markets.

The current trend is toward the quick cooking of fresh vegetables to the tender-crisp stage with resultant better flavor, brighter color, more pleasing texture and greater nutritive value.

The best buys at the produce counter are largely Maryland-produced. The list includes snap beans, cabbage, squash, cucumbers and beets. Try adding a few raw slivers to your next salad bowl. Beets shredded raw add a blaze of color to a green salad. Sprinkle the beets over the salad after tossing and just before serving.

New potatoes are available at attractive prices. New potatoes do not keep too well. Buy amounts that can be used in a short time.

The first of the Maryland crop of lima beans and tomatoes has reached the market and price tags are high. Some Maryland corn is available.

At the fruit counter the best buys include cantaloupe, peaches and watermelon. Check for maturity and ripeness when you make your selection to be sure of good flavor and sweetness in these fruits. July is the month when we get fresh apricots from California. The first nectarines have reached the market. Blueberries are the best berry buy at present. More seedless grapes are available. There is a record crop of Florida limes. Some early apples are available. These are Lodai variety.

Frozen orange juice concentrate is the best citrus buy. The carryover stock plus this year's record breaking pack is putting packers' stocks 30 per cent above a year ago.

Recommendations at the market include Grade A medium size eggs, turkey, fryers and red meat specials. Crab meat is lower in price.

Marinated Chinese Vegetable Salad

¼ cup French dressing
½ teaspoon ground ginger
1 can (1 lb.) Chinese mixed vegetables, well drained
Crisp lettuce

Combine French dressing and ginger; blend well. Pour dressing over Chinese vegetables; chill in refrigerator 1 hour, tossing occasionally. Serve on crisp lettuce. Makes 4 servings.

Mocha Roll Served With Pungent Demitasse

No matter how informal our entertaining is, who can resist a few touches of elegance? An after-dinner dessert-and-coffee gathering is a perfect example. Even when we're just going to relax and chat, chances are the dessert is a real conversation-maker. And when the dessert is elegant, so is the coffee—fragrant cops of dainty demitasse.

For just such occasions, here's beautiful Frosted Mocha Roll. Working from inside out, there's cream filling, delicate cake and thick, rich frosting. Since coffee flavors both the filling and the frosting, Mocha Roll is an ideal accompaniment for demitasse.

FROSTED MOCHA ROLL

1 small pkg. (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
5 tablespoons strong coffee
5 eggs, separated
⅔ cup sugar
Cocoa (unsweetened)

Combine chocolate pieces and coffee in top of double-boiler. Cook over hot water, stirring often, until blended. Cool. Beat egg yolks until thick. Beat in sugar until mixture is light and fluffy. Combine chocolate mixture with egg yolk mixture. Beat egg whites stiff but not dry. Fold in carefully. Grease jelly-roll pan, line with waxed paper and grease paper. Spread batter evenly in pan. Bake in moderate oven, 350°, 15 minutes. Turn oven off, but leave pan in oven 5 minutes longer. Remove and cover cake with damp towel until cool. Remove towel. Loosen edges and dust top generously with cocoa. Invert on waxed paper. Carefully peel waxed paper from bottom. Spread surface with Coffee Cream Filling. Roll up carefully from narrow end, lifting two corners of waxed paper to start roll. Frost top and sides with Mocha Butter Frosting. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Coffee Cream Filling

½ cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoon cocoa (unsweetened)
2 teaspoons instant coffee powder

Combine all ingredients. Chill thoroughly. Whip.

Mocha Butter Frosting

Cream ⅓ cup butter or margarine. Add 1-½ cups confectioners' sugar, while continuing to cream. Melt 2 squares unsweetened chocolate over hot water. Beat in. Add 1-½ cups confectioners' sugar and enough strong cold coffee to make frosting fluffy and easy to spread.

Evening Snack

An evening snack that goes over well after an exciting game of bridge is a tray of crackers, American blue cheese and fruit served with hot coffee. Let the tangy, sharp cheese stand at room temperature about half an hour before serving, so that it will spread easily on crisp crackers and chilled fruits. This is a sociable kind of refreshment that you can linger over leisurely.

Cranberry Ribbon Salad

¾ cup "red hot" cinnamon candies
1½ cups boiling water
1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
1 pound can Jellied or Whole Berry Cranberry Sauce
1 3-ounce package cream cheese
2 tablespoons heavy cream
2 tablespoons mayonnaise

Dissolve candies in boiling water. Add lemon gelatin and dissolve; cool. Add cranberry sauce. (If jellied cranberry sauce is used, beat with rotary beater.) Pour half of the gelatin mixture in a 1-quart salad mold and chill until firm. Whip cream cheese with cream and mayonnaise. Spread over the gelatin layer. Add rest of gelatin mixture and chill until firm.

A giant Ferris wheel with box-car-size gondolas whirls passengers 210 feet above the Wurstelprater, Vienna's amusement park.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Clothespins will last longer if washed in a salt-water solution before use. They won't freeze on the clothes, either.

Use a little salt in your double-boiler if you want to bring the water to a boil quickly.

Peppers and cucumbers keep best when washed and dried before storage. Keep them in the crisper or in plastic bags in the refrigerator.

It's possible to brew a single cup of coffee by using a special two-section unit which fits on top of the cup, letting drip-grind coffee filter through with boiling water.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD — So hot under the collar is Dino De Laurentiis over Yul Brynner's salary demands to star in "Mussolini" that the Italian producer is taking it out on Hollywood in general.

"It's the American producers who have encouraged this star madness," said Dino at a mass press interview in Rome, "if I never made another picture I would not employ Marlon Brando, Marilyn Monroe, Elizabeth Taylor, Gina Lollobrigida or — Yul Brynner!"

Meanwhile, if Hollwood's Paul Newman wants to play Benito, he can have the part. He doesn't look anything like Mussolini—but De Laurentiis says he's such a good actor he can look like anybody.

Kay (Mrs. Clark Gable lifted eyebrows when she showed up with Efrem Zimbalist at the Vincent Minnellis mid-summer night's dinner dance at Romanoff's. "Efrem's my neighbor in the valley," Kay said when I called her, "the Minnellis just asked him to pick me up."

"What about Bob Prescott, the aviation executive who usually picks you up?" I wanted to know.

"He's nice, too," was the lady's enigmatic answer. You can take it from there.

Beauties abounded at the party. Merle Oberon was showered with compliments on her new hair-do. (Merle looks glorious these days). Martha Hyer came with Jack Lemmon clouting the statuette she had just won as best dressed actress of the year. Another lovely, Shirley Jones, was dancing with her own "Music Man," Jack Cassidy.

And once again, Edie Adams (Ernice Kovac's widow) was with devoted Cy Howard.

The beef of a couple of weeks ago between Elvis Presley's mentor Col. Tom Parker and the du Pont TV show over a clip of Elvis being used without permission, has been settled to the colonel's satisfaction—cash on the line.

Since Elvis really can't use much more moola, a substantial donation was made by the network to the Presley Youth Center at Tupelo, Miss. This should be fair warning to networks, radio programs, etc., that nobody is going to use a free "clip" of the colonel's boy without a little clip from the cash till.

So happy is Marie MacDonald these days she finished singing a little song over the telephone before telling me that she's returning to Broadway this fall to star in Kermit Bloomgarten's new musical, "Nowhere To Go But Up." The title could apply to the way Marie is going.

You have to give her credit for the hard way she's worked to convince producers she means business about her singing career and is not trading on old headlines. Her reviews were poems on her recent enagement at New York's Latin Quarter.

The separation of the Mickey Callans may be only temporary. They've called it off before and then kissed and made up. During one "time out" between Carlyn and Mickey, it was the happily married Tommy Sands who gave them a talking to and convinced them they should stay together.

It's too bad the rift comes right on top of Mickey's big hit in "The Interns." There are sure to be stories that he couldn't take success. Which aren't true. I know he's tried and is trying very hard to hold his marriage together. And so is Carlyn. Keep trying, kids.

Now that Carol Lynley's mother, Mrs. Francies Orlando, has made up her mind to go through with a divorce from Carol's stepfather, Carol has prevailed on her mother to visit here in August. She doesn't want her mother to be alone at this time as she will be when Carol's 18-year-old brother Danny Lee leaves for a trip to Ireland to visit relatives.

The trip is a joint gift from Carol and her mother as a high school graduation present for Danny who wants to become not an actor, but a top photographer.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Moira Shearer, lovely ballerina of "Red Shoes" and other enchantments, underwent abdominal surgery in London.

Claire Trevor and Milton Bren's 18-year-old son "Chuck" is summer-jobbing as a guide around the MGM lot. Also attending acting classes at the studio because he has the yen to follow mother.

More on the Vincente Minnellis party at Romanoff's: Once again Rhonda Fleming was with Rod Taylor—and this has looked serious ever since he and Anita Ekberg dropped their option on each other.

Glynis Johns came with Bob Patten and Annette Cash with Gichard Gully. Vieing for fashion honors were Fran Stark and Shirlee Preissman in magnificent ball gowns. And the stag line was pepped up with the presence of George Hamilton, Peter Mann and John Richardson.

Dina Merrills arm is sore from all the shots she has taken to take bows as the first actress ever invited to Paramaribo, Surinam, Dutch Guiana for the opening of the Dutch government's new hotel. They couldn't have chosen a prettier guest of honor.

Kathryn Grayson's hit tour of the east in "Rosalinda" has convinced her that Americans are in tune for musicals. "I can't tell you how many people have told me how tired they are of message movies and smut and how nice it is to listen to pretty music," Kathryn postcards Miss LOP.

Jack Benny and Mary Livingston are in Las Vegas applauding old pal George Burns and Carol Channing in their smash at the Dunes Hotel. So many stars at other hotels wanted to see Carol and George that they put on a special show, after hours, for the other Vegas headliners.

The strangler fir, which grows in southern Florida, begins life in the top of another tree, grows downward and, when rooted, will choke the life from the other tree.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD — So hot under the collar is Dino De Laurentiis over Yul Brynner's salary demands to star in "Mussolini" that the Italian producer is taking it out on Hollywood in general.

"It's the American producers who have encouraged this star madness," said Dino at a mass press interview in Rome, "if I never made another picture I would not employ Marlon Brando, Marilyn Monroe, Elizabeth Taylor, Gina Lollobrigida or — Yul Brynner!"

Meanwhile, if Hollwood's Paul Newman wants to play Benito, he can have the part. He doesn't look anything like Mussolini—but De Laurentiis says he's such a good actor he can look like anybody.

Kay (Mrs. Clark Gable lifted eyebrows when she showed up with Efrem Zimbalist at the Vincent Minnellis mid-summer night's dinner dance at Romanoff's. "Efrem's my neighbor in the valley," Kay said when I called her, "the Minnellis just asked him to pick me up."

"What about Bob Prescott, the aviation executive who usually picks you up?" I wanted to know.

"He's nice, too," was the lady's enigmatic answer. You can take it from there.

Beauties abounded at the party. Merle Oberon was showered with compliments on her new hair-do. (Merle looks glorious these days). Martha Hyer came with Jack Lemmon cloutching the statuette she had just won as best dressed actress of the year. Another lovely, Shirley Jones, was dancing with her own "Music Man," Jack Cassidy.

And once again, Edie Adams (Ernice Kovac's widow) was with devoted Cy Howard.

The beef of a couple of weeks ago between Elvis Presley's mentor Col. Tom Parker and the du Pont TV show over a clip of Elvis being used without permission, has been settled to the colonel's satisfaction—cash on the line.

Since Elvis really can't use much more moola, a substantial donation was made by the network to the Presley Youth Center at Tupelo, Miss. This should be fair warning to networks, radio programs, etc., that nobody is going to use a free "clip" of the colonel's boy without a little clip from the cash till.

So happy is Marie MacDonald these days she finished singing a little song over the telephone before telling me that she's returning to Broadway this fall to star in Kermit Bloomgarten's new musical, "Nowhere To Go But Up." The title could apply to the way Marie is going.

You have to give her credit for the hard way she's worked to convince producers she means business about her singing career and is not trading on old headlines. Her reviews were poems on her recent enagement at New York's Latin Quarter.

The separation of the Mickey Callans may be only temporary. They've called it off before and then kissed and made up. During one "time out" between Carlyn and Mickey, it was the happily married Tommy Sands who gave them a talking to and convinced them they should stay together.

It's too bad the rift comes right on top of Mickey's big hit in "The Interns." There are sure to be stories that he couldn't take success. Which aren't true. I know he's tried and is trying very hard to hold his marriage together. And so is Carlyn. Keep trying, kids.

Now that Carol Lynley's mother, Mrs. Francies Orlando, has made up her mind to go through with a divorce from Carol's stepfather, Carol has prevailed on her mother to visit here in August. She doesn't want her mother to be alone at this time as she will be when Carol's 18-year-old brother Danny Lee leaves for a trip to Ireland to visit relatives.

The trip is a joint gift from Carol and her mother as a high school graduation present for Danny who wants to become not an actor, but a top photographer.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Moira Shearer, lovely ballerina of "Red Shoes" and other enchantments, underwent abdominal surgery in London.

Claire Trevor and Milton Bren's 18-year-old son "Chuck" is summer-jobbing as a guide around the MGM lot. Also attending acting classes at the studio because he has the yen to follow mother.

More on the Vincente Minnellis party at Romanoff's: Once again Rhonda Fleming was with Rod Taylor—and this has looked serious ever since he and Anita Ekberg dropped their option on each other.

Glynis Johns came with Bob Patten and Annette Cash with Gichard Gully. Vieing for fashion honors were Fran Stark and Shirlee Preissman in magnificent ball gowns. And the stag line was pepped up with the presence of George Hamilton, Peter Mann and John Richardson.

Dina Merrills arm is sore from all the shots she has taken to take bows as the first actress ever invited to Paramaribo, Surinam, Dutch Guiana for the opening of the Dutch government's new hotel. They couldn't have chosen a prettier guest of honor.

Kathryn Grayson's hit tour of the east in "Rosalinda" has convinced her that Americans are in tune for musicals. "I can't tell you how many people have told me how tired they are of message movies and smut and how nice it is to listen to pretty music," Kathryn postcards Miss LOP.

Jack Benny and Mary Livingston are in Las Vegas applauding old pal George Burns and Carol Channing in their smash at the Dunes Hotel. So many stars at other hotels wanted to see Carol and George that they put on a special show, after hours, for the other Vegas headliners.

The strangler fir, which grows in southern Florida, begins life in the top of another tree, grows downward and, when rooted, will choke the life from the other tree.

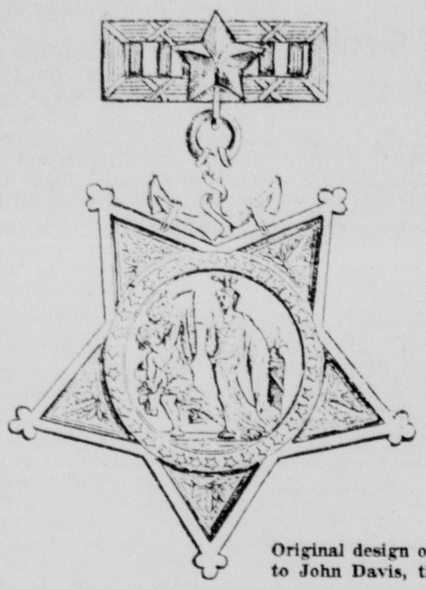
CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 142 Behind an appointment formally signed March 11, 1862, by Secretary of Navy Gideon Welles was a truly extraordinary act of heroism—perhaps the only one performed merely by sitting down.

The hero: John Davis, a native of Finland, who had left a merchant ship crew for the U. S. Navy. He was a gunner's mate on the U.S.S. Valley City when it and 13 other Union vessels were thrust into Albemarle Sound to knock out Confederate defenses protecting it as a blockade-runner haven. (This was part of the sweeping expedition down the coast of North Carolina of Army and Navy forces under Brig. Gen. Ambrose Burnside and Commodore Laird Goldsborough, to which references were made earlier in this series.)



Original design of Navy Medal of Honor such as was presented to John Davis, the "sitting down" hero of U.S.S. Valley City.

A shot from a Rebel shore battery started a fire on the main deck of the wooden-hulled Valley City. An open keg of powder, from which cannon were being charged, stood near advancing flames. Davis, seeing the immediate danger, ran to the keg and covered it effectually against sparks or overturning. He sat there with the keg still in danger of being exploded by heat, while fellow seamen manned pumps and buckets till the blaze was under control and the keg could be removed.

The Valley City's captain and Commodore Goldsborough commended Davis in dispatches. The secretary of the Navy not only signed an appointment of the sit-down hero to warrant rank of gunner, with a tripling of his pay, but made him one of the first recipients of the newly authorized Medal of Honor. His was inscribed: Personal Valor. John Davis, Gunner's Mate, U.S.S. Valley City, Albemarle Sound, Feb. 10, 1862.

Upon reading of Davis' exploit, admirers in New York were moved to raise a purse of $1,100 for Davis.

CUF Planning Budget For Campaign

The allocations committee of the 1962 County United Fund has begun studying budget requests by 31 participating agencies in order to help determine the goal for the next campaign.

With William A. Cook, who is chief accountant at Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Works 7, serving as chairman, the committee already has conducted its orientation meeting and has set its schedule for budget conferences.

Monday night, committee members met at the Board of Directors room of the National Bank of Keyser to air the financial needs of four participating agencies in the Keyser area: United Charities of Keyser, Mineral County—W. Va. YMCA, Mineral County Chapter of the American Red Cross, and United Organizations of McCoole.

A Friday meeting will convene at 7:30 p. m. in the council chamber at Frostburg City Hall. Here, representatives of United Family Service of the Frostburg area, Midland Medical Center, and Lonaconing Health Center will gather to present their needs for 1963.

Then a whole business day session is scheduled for Monday, July 16, in the Board of Directors room at the Liberty Trust Company, where 13 member agencies will be represented.

This session calendared for 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., will be attended by representatives from Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, Shawnee Council, Girl Scouts, Cumberland area YMCA, Flintstone Health Center, South Cumberland Health Center, Allegany County Chapter of American Red Cross, Health Research and Services Foundation, Association Charities, Baby Welfare Society, USO, Salvation Army, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, and Friends Aware of Handicapped Children.

On Wednesday, July 18, at 7:30 p. m., the committee will meet in offices at Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, Works 7 plant, to prepare allocation recommendations.

The recommendation will be presented to CUF'S executive committee on July 25, at which time the 1962 campaign goal will be set.

Members of the executive committee are J. Glenn Beall Jr., A. Trago Brust, William R. Carscaden, William A. Cook, William R. Crooks, William A. Douglas, John C. Foster, Dr. W. Royce Hodges, Wilbur Johnson, Alva C. Lewis, W. Fred Mowen, George B. Newman, William C. Walsh and Harry I. Walton.

Serving with Cook on the allocations committee are David E. Holmes, Wallace B. Keller, Robert D. Swarner, and Mrs. George M. Young, Cumberland area; James E. Bangerd, R. Bowen Hardesty, Fred Morton and Billy W. Myers, Frostburg area; Floyd C. Boor, John L. Raschella, Mrs. Harry I. Reese, and Charles N. Wimer, Keyser area; and Lester C. Anderson, G. Harley Dixon, Donald Moran and Robert C. Pickard, tri-towns area.

In organizing this year's work for the Allocations Committee, chairman Cook said, "The task faced by this committee of citizens in working for our fellow citizens is a great one, indeed. We have a big job—to consider requests of over a third of a million dollars. We shall do our utmost in making County Fund even more financially sound than it is, so that we may continue to follow the principle of County United Fund in providing more services to more people at the least cost."

Plant-Seeking Counties Told To Spruce Up

By TOM SEPPY

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A state officials said Tuesday Maryland counties should attempt to improve themselves if they want to draw industry to their areas.

Robert M. Sparks, of the Maryland Department of Economic Development said: "If you want any kind of payroll, you must make yourself attractive."

The chief of industrial and business development in the state agency cited such things as good school systems, fine physical surroundings such as clean streets and offstreet parking, and a reputation for a high quality of labor as examples of attractions to industries.

Once an industry does move into a community, Sparks said, it is up to the local government to see that the area maintains its attractiveness.

Must Keep Pace

"You have to keep pace with the times . . . you can't sit back," he said.

His remarks came at a meeting of federal officials and representatives of the six Maryland counties which have been designated distressed areas by the U.S. government. The counties are Cecil, Dorchester, Somerset, Washington, Allegany, and Garrett. Attending the conference, although his county has not been designated as a distressed area, was a representative of Calvert County.

The purpose of the meeting was to explain and then to answer questions on the preparation of the Overall Economic Development Program (OEDP).

The submission of a local or area plan of action for achieving the objectives of the Area Redevelopment Act is required by the federal government before financial assistance for industrial and commercial projects, public facilities and occupational training can be given. The program must be approved by the state before it is forwarded to Washington.

Problems Differ

Representing the Area Redevelopment Administration were Ellery Foster, consultant in resource development; William F. Blumer, industrial development specialist; John Kimbrough, economic development program assistant, and Robert Wrigley, geographer-planner.

The federal officials explained avenues of approach by which a county or area could best assess its potential and growth, but stressed that each subdivision had its own peculiar problems and, therefore, each would have to be handled individually.

Man Threatens President From Charleston Jail

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — A Cabin Creek, W.Va. man was turned over to the attorney general Wednesday for psychiatric examination for twice threatening the life of President Kennedy.

District Court Judge John A. Field suggested that the man, Carl C. Nunn, 24, be taken to the Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison for the examination.

Nunn was charged with mailing the letters to the White House June 24 and June 26. In the last letter, he signed his correct name and listed his address as "Jail, Charleston, W.Va."

Vincent Mroz, U.S. Secret Service agent, told the court he found Nunn in the Kanawha County Jail here serving time for violation of probation on a forgery count.

Mroz said Nunn blamed the President for domestic difficulties. He said his wife is a Republican and he is a Democrat, and he had been having trouble at home ever since he voted for Kennedy.

Ex-W.Va. Highway Employe Admits He Negotiated For Property For Oil Firm

WASHINGTON (AP)—A former West Virginia highway employe admitted to congressional investigators Wednesday that he disregarded the orders of his superior and helped negotiate an option for property sought by an oil company.

Asked why he did it, J. Walter Stalnaker, who now operates a dairy farm with his son at Beebe, Ark., replied:

"I don't know. To make a thousand dollars."

Stalnaker, who was a right-of-way agent, told a House public works subcommittee that he negotiated the option on property of Mrs. Ruby Voitle at Parkersburg, W. Va., through her attorney.

The option saved, in effect, some $7,000 for the Ashland Oil & Refining Co. because Mrs. Voitle lowered her price from about $30,000 to $23,000.

The company paid a $1,000 commission to David Stalnaker, the right-of-way agent's son, the committee was told, and the money was deposited in the father's bank account. Similarly, according to the testimony, fees paid by the state to the son for property appraisal work the father secured for him also went into the father's account.

The Ashland Oil & Refining Co. was interested in obtaining the Voitle property to compensate for some of its own service station property which was was lost when U.S. 21 was cut through a section of Parkersburg. The station was located at Division Street and Camden Avenue.

After testimony by John T. Hereford, an Ashland, Ky., real estate official for the oil company, regarding the deal in which Walter Stalnaker helped, Stalnaker himself told of his role in the case.

He said he stepped in because Mrs. Voitle had some peculiar ideas. He said she did not like real estate men.

Stalnaker said his superior, B. Duffy Horan, head of the legal and right-of-way division for the highways commission, told him he had better stay out of the deal but that Hereford contacted him later and he went ahead.

He said that when the option was arranged, he was offered $750.

"I've been in the real estate business and I don't work for nothing," Stalnaker said he told company representatives. He said he asked for $1,000 and got it.

ABL Altair Model Is On Display Here

The exhibit includes models of a number of other rocket motors developed at the ABL plant here.

Traffic Pattern Is Modified

The traffic pattern at the intersection of Memorial and Kent avenues was changed by the Police Department yesterday.

A stop sign was placed on Memorial Avenue and a yield right of way sign was removed at Kent, giving traffic on Kent Avenue the right of way.

Before the change, traffic on Kent Avenue faced a yield right of way sign.

Airman Reassigned

Airman Third Class Raymond F. Malcolm, graduate of Fort Hill High School and son of Mrs. Dorothy Malcolm, Fort Cumberland Homes, is being reassigned to Pease Air Force Base, N. H., following his graduation from the Air Force technical training course for jet aircraft mechanics at Amarillo Air Force Base, Texas.

Conda Smith, the developer of Rawlings Heights, has submitted a proposal to the State Health Department for another sewage lagoon which he proposes to build for his area.

Five In Virginia

Five Virginia communities are now discharging raw sewage into waters of the Potomac and its tributaries, according to James H. Roadcap Jr., director of Sewage Pollution Control for the Virginia Water Control Board.

Mr. Roadcap submitted a report on steps that each community is taking. Broadway in Rockingham County has passed a bond issue and final plans and specifications are in process of being approved. Dayton, another small town in Rockingham County, is under a sewage construction program. The town is chlorinating its raw wastes and plans are now in the mill to construct treatment facilities.

The Fairfax County Park Authority is another without treatment. The owners here have contracted to have wastes treated in the near future by either the federal system which will serve northern Virginia or the Fairfax County integrated sewerage system.

Shenandoah, a town in Page County, has employed an engineer and a study is under way for the needed sewerage improvements. Timberville, also in Rockingham County, has preliminary plans for needed sewerage improvements which have been approved, and final arrangements are in process.

Pennsylvania provides very little pollution in the Potomac basin. Elvin F. Hoover, engineer in charge, Region V sanitary engineering, for the Pennsylvania Department of Health, reports that only one community there is discharging untreated wastes into the river basin. The Borough of Hyndman, with a population of 1,124, and with only a portion of the town connected to public sewerage systems, discharges to Wills Creek in southwestern Bedford County. The effect of this discharge is so small that it cannot be assessed at this time.

$33,000,000 Spent

Large sums of money have been spent and will continue to be spent for pollution abatement. In his final report before retiring as director of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, Ellis S. Tisdale said in Washington in January that $33,000,000 has been spent on 58 pollution abatement projects in the basin since 1956.

In his Hagerstown talk in May, Mr. McKee pointed out that approximately $16 million worth of capital improvements are programed by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission during the next five years as its share of the District of Columbia system and plant expansion.

The director of the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission ended that talk on a note of continued vigilance.

"Test results and water quality data received by the Water Pollution Control Commission indicate major improvements of the quality of the water in the North Branch of the Potomac River and in the area of metropolitan Washington. A review of technical data on hand in the offices of the other control agencies of the basin shows that much improvement has been made and is being made in reducing and controlling water pollution in the basin's waters. There are, however, many problems still to be faced and resolved. There can be no relaxing of effort or vigilance if we are to continue to maintain our present position or to gain any further advantages."

Valve On Tank To Be Replaced

Water pressure in some areas near the Braddock Road water tank will be affected this morning while crews replace a valve on the tank, according to Water Commissioner G. Ray Light.

The work is scheduled to begin at 8:30 a. m. and should be completed within an hour.

The shutdown will affect some parts of the Sunset View section and part of the Braddock Road area, officials said.

Solons Asked To Set Limit On Homework

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Maryland Legislative Council was requested Wednesday to protect students from such injustices as too much homework.

Eric Ebel of Bethesda wrote the council that students rights is a "greatly overlooked subject in our school system."

These rights, the letter stated, are:

"Safety from punishment for such things as defending yourself, crimes you did not commit, poor scores on schoolwork, and offenses not commonly known before the offense was committed.

"Also safety from being punished with poor grades, tremendous amounts of homework, or permanent deprivation of property.

"There must also be a limit on homework."

Ebel concluded his letter with the hope "something will be done about these injustices."

The letter was referred with smiles to the Judiciary Committee of the council, which makes recommendations to the Maryland General Assembly.

Arizona has twice as many national monuments and more land in Indian reservations than any other state in the Union.

W. Va. Employment Shows Increase

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Department of Employment Security reported Wednesday that reports for March through May show that employment in the Mountain State has taken an upward swing.

The Huntington, W. Va. — Ashland, Ky.-Ironton, Ohio, area showed an increase in employment of 3.4 per cent to 80,700 for the March-to-May period.

Employment totaled 62,100 in May in the Wheeling-Bridgeport, Ohio, area, an increase of 3.2 per cent.

Employment went up 2.3 per cent to 86,850 in the Charleston area in the same period.

All three areas showed slight increases in their total labor forces and sharp drops in unemployment during the period. Unemployment drops ranged from 21.6 per cent in the Charleston area to 16.3 per cent in the Northern Panhandle area.

oped at Pinto for the Bel Air housing development.

Conda Smith, the developer of Rawlings Heights, has submitted a proposal to the State Health Department for another sewage lagoon which he proposes to build for his area.

Five In Virginia

Five Virginia communities are now discharging raw sewage into waters of the Potomac and its tributaries, according to James H. Roadcap Jr., director of Sewage Pollution Control for the Virginia Water Control Board.

Mr. Roadcap submitted a report on steps that each community is taking. Broadway in Rockingham County has passed a bond issue and final plans and specifications are in process of being approved. Dayton, another small town in Rockingham County, is under a sewage construction program. The town is chlorinating its raw wastes and plans are now in the mill to construct treatment facilities.

The Fairfax County Park Authority is another without treatment. The owners here have contracted to have wastes treated in the near future by either the federal system which will serve northern Virginia or the Fairfax County integrated sewerage system.

Shenandoah, a town in Page County, has employed an engineer and a study is under way for the needed sewerage improvements. Timberville, also in Rockingham County, has preliminary plans for needed sewerage improvements which have been approved, and final arrangements are in process.

Pennsylvania provides very little pollution in the Potomac basin. Elvin F. Hoover, engineer in charge, Region V sanitary engineering, for the Pennsylvania Department of Health, reports that only one community there is discharging untreated wastes into the river basin. The Borough of Hyndman, with a population of 1,124, and with only a portion of the town connected to public sewerage systems, discharges to Wills Creek in southwestern Bedford County. The effect of this discharge is so small that it cannot be assessed at this time.

$33,000,000 Spent

Large sums of money have been spent and will continue to be spent for pollution abatement. In his final report before retiring as director of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, Ellis S. Tisdale said in Washington in January that $33,000,000 has been spent on 58 pollution abatement projects in the basin since 1956.

In his Hagerstown talk in May, Mr. McKee pointed out that approximately $16 million worth of capital improvements are programed by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission during the next five years as its share of the District of Columbia system and plant expansion.

The director of the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission ended that talk on a note of continued vigilance.

"Test results and water quality data received by the Water Pollution Control Commission indicate major improvements of the quality of the water in the North Branch of the Potomac River and in the area of metropolitan Washington. A review of technical data on hand in the offices of the other control agencies of the basin shows that much improvement has been made and is being made in reducing and controlling water pollution in the basin's waters. There are, however, many problems still to be faced and resolved. There can be no relaxing of effort or vigilance if we are to continue to maintain our present position or to gain any further advantages."

Valve On Tank To Be Replaced

Water pressure in some areas near the Braddock Road water tank will be affected this morning while crews replace a valve on the tank, according to Water Commissioner G. Ray Light.

The work is scheduled to begin at 8:30 a. m. and should be completed within an hour.

Solons Asked To Set Limit On Homework

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Maryland Legislative Council was requested Wednesday to protect students from such injustices as too much homework.

Eric Ebel of Bethesda wrote the council that students rights is a "greatly overlooked subject in our school system."

These rights, the letter stated, are:

"Safety from punishment for such things as defending yourself, crimes you did not commit, poor scores on schoolwork, and offenses not commonly known before the offense was committed.

"Also safety from being punished with poor grades, tremendous amounts of homework, or permanent deprivation of property.

"There must also be a limit on homework."

Ebel concluded his letter with the hope "something will be done about these injustices."

The letter was referred with smiles to the Judiciary Committee of the council, which makes recommendations to the Maryland General Assembly.

W. Va. Employment Shows Increase

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Department of Employment Security reported Wednesday that reports for March through May show that employment in the Mountain State has taken an upward swing.

The Huntington, W. Va. — Ashland, Ky.-Ironton, Ohio, area showed an increase in employment of 3.4 per cent to 80,700 for the March-to-May period.

Employment totaled 62,100 in May in the Wheeling-Bridgeport, Ohio, area, an increase of 3.2 per cent.

Employment went up 2.3 per cent to 86,850 in the Charleston area in the same period.

All three areas showed slight increases in their total labor forces and sharp drops in unemployment during the period. Unemployment drops ranged from 21.6 per cent in the Charleston area to 16.3 per cent in the Northern Panhandle area.

Major Leagues To Resume Action With Full Slate Of Games Today

Yankees Visit Angels In Tight American Loop

Houk Fears Tigers; National Expects Tingling Flag Race

By MURRAY ROSE

The M and M—powered New York Yankees may pry open Joe Cronin's "shoehorn" American League race in the next couple of weeks but the National League appears headed for another one of its tingling battles to the wire.

That's one outlook on the pennant battles as the teams prepare to resume activities Thursday in the second half of the season following the three-day All-Star Game break.

Cronin, the American League president, looked over the circuit's standing before the All-Star game in Washington and beamed with pleasure at the unusual sight of nine teams bunched within nine games.

The Yankees were in first place, as usual, but only a game in front of Cleveland's surprising Indians who pulled out of a tailspin to get back into the contention. Even more astonishing were the placings of the Los Angeles Angels in third by 2½ games and Minnesota in fourth by 4½.

Bengals Cause Concern

Detroit in fifth by only five games, was the team the Yankees were most concerned about, however. The Yanks surged back into first when ailing Mickey Mantle, Whitey Ford and Luis Arroyo returned to action and started making like they did in 1961.

Manager Ralph Houk realizes the Tigers are going to start faltering for real when outfielder Al Kaline makes his expected return this month and Frank Lary regains his winning pitching form. Kaline was headed for a tremendous season when he suffered a broken collar bone in a spectacular catch that saved a game against the Yankees two months ago.

"We're going fine now," said Houk before the team departed for Los Angeles and a three-day series with the Angels. "But it's going to be a hot fight. A lot of the clubs are much stronger an the Tigers are going to be rough when they're healthy."

The next couple of weeks may tell the story, though. Mantle's home run hitting has inspired home run king Roger Maris and fired up the rest of the lineup.

Angels Get Chance

The Angels get their crack at the Yanks Thursday night in the opener of the three-game set in Los Angeles. In the other American League action, the Tigers are at Chicago, the Indians at Baltimore, the Washington Senators at Minnesota and Boston Red Sox at Kansas City.

In the National League, the league-leading Los Angeles Dodgers take on the Mets in New York; San Francisco's runner-up Giants play the Phils at Philadelphia; Pittsburgh's threatening, third-place Pirates host the Houston Colts; Cincinnati's fourth-place Reds meet the Cubs in the only day game, and St. Louis takes on the Braves at Milwaukee.

The speedy, pitching - loaded Dodgers were only a half-game in front of the power-hitting Giants following their head-to-head series last weekend. The two figure to be within a breath of each other the rest of the way.

Sports Shoppe, Old Gees Score

Largent Fans 16 To Beat PE, 23-0

Allan Largent struck out 16 batters as he pitched the pace-setting Old Germans to their 10th win of the season yesterday, a 28-0 rout of Potomac Edison in a Rec Softball League encounter at East Side Field.

Largent held PE to two singles by John Burkett and Ronnie Rice and walked only three in posting the shutout.

The Old Gees scored in every inning, pounding out 17 hits against three PE hurlers. Gary Willison and George Bishields obtained four hits apiece for the victors with one of Willison's blows being a two-bagger. Largent helped his own cause by pounding out a single, double and triple while Chuck Eirich contributed three singles.

Sports Shoppe kept on the heels of the Old Gees with a 4-1 victory over the Old Exports at Stitcher Field. Rich Smith tossed a six-hitter for the winners in besting the Exports' Gene Hess.

Smith banged out a double and a pair of singles and Mike Lease, Sonny Method and Bob Russell each had a two-bagger for Sports Shoppe. Hank Page and Bobby Page shared four of the losers' six bingles. The results:

AT STITCHER FIELD:

Old Exports	001 000 0—1 6 2
Sports Shoppe	220 000 x—4 8 2

B. P. O. Elks	5	10	.333
Rotary Club	4	11	.267

The Lions belted Herbie Springer for five runs in the first two innings, then hung on behind Mike Baker's six-hit pitching to snap the Kiwanis Club's six-game winning streak in the opener of a Hot Stove Baseball League doubleheader yesterday at Penn Avenue field. The score was 5-1.

Baker struck out 10 and walked only one batter as he posted his fourth win of the season. The game marked the second time this year the Lions have beaten Kiwanis and the loss dropped the Kiwanians into a first-place deadlock with Salvation Army in the 10-team circuit.

Bobby Dick's three-run homer in the second inning was the telling blow in the seven-hit Lions' attack. Blair Norris chipped in with three singles and excelled at shortstop for the winners. Also starring afield for the Lions were Rich Sellers at second and Jim Simpson at first base.

Dave Bruce hit a double and Dick Beesick belted a three-bagger for the Kiwanis Club. Bobby Koelker made several good catches in centerfield to highlight the Kiwanis defense.

Jimmy Brannon took over from Sprniger in the second and pitched two-hit ball, whiffing nine Lions in a steller relief role that was wasted.

In the nightcap of the twin bill the Elks beat Bedford Road's Optimists, 5-2, on a two-hitter by Rich Chaney and Nick Perlozzo. Tommy Bowers belted a two-run Homer and Danny Meyers had a two-bagger for the winners. Alvin Harris and Al Delbrugge shared the two hits for the Optimists.

In other Hot Stove games yesterday the Jaycees notched their seventh win with a 6-3 verdict over the Cumberland Optimists at Fort Hill while Rotary won its second in a row by beating B'nai B'rith at Mason Road, 5-2.

Steve Walters, with relief assistance from Bobby Powell, picked up his fourth win for the Jaycees over last year's champions.

Powell relieved in the fourth and pitched one-hit ball over the last four frames, whiffing seven. Donnie Sewell collected two hits for the winners while Stan Twigg had a double and single for the losers.

George Showalter went the route for Rotary as the cellar-dwellers notched their second win in two days. He gave up only seven hits in besting the third-place B'nai B'rith.

Bobby Powell slugged a home run, triple and double for the Rotarians while Pete Foley, Bill Daniels and Showalter shared six of the winners' hits. Mike Wilt collected three hits for B'nai B'rith.

Rich Elliott and Ernie Elliott starred in the outfield for the winners with several outstanding catches. The results:

Female Stars Open Golf Play

$10,000 Milwaukee Event Starts Today

MILWAUKEE (UPI) —Four full - time performers, and one "part - time" swinger occupy the favorite roles as some of the nation's top female pro golfers tee off in the first Milwaukee Jaycee Women's $10,000 Open Thursday at the Tuckaway Country Club.

The regular foursome installed as favorites are Mickey Wright, 1961 top money winner, Kathy Whitworth, Barbara Romack and long-time campaigner, Patty Berg.

The "part-time" swinger who is given an outside shot at the title because she will be playing on familiar ground is Mrs. Joyce Ziske Malison of nearby Waterford, Wis.

Mrs. Malison, who quit the tournament trail a year and a half ago for kitchen chores, has been playing sharp golf lately and sliced four strokes off par the other day with a sizzling 70. This is only a one-shot deal, however, for the local girl who goes back to being a housewife after the tournament.

A host of fairway queens also are entered, including such well-known names as Murle MacKenzie Lindstrom, current U.S. Women's U. S. Open champ; Betsy Jameson, Jackie Pung, Ruth Jessen, Kathy Cornelius, Louise Suggs, and budding stars like Sandra Haynie, Carol Mann and Joe Ann Prentice.

Phils Defeat Colts, 6 To 1

Roy Sievers Bats In Four Tallies

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies, who have yet to be beaten by Houston, made it eight in a row over the Colts Wednesday night with a 6-1 victory on the five-hit pitching of Art Mahaffey and the slugging of Roy Sievers.

Sievers batted in four runs with his ninth homer and a double and rookie Ted Savage batted in the other two with his sixth homer into the center-field stands in a speedy makeup game which took only 1 hour and 55 minutes to complete.

Mahaffey, winning his 11th of the year to equal his own record of last season, walked two and fanned three.

He had a three-hitter going until the ninth when a double by Roman Mejias, a walk to Norm Larker and an infield single by Carl Warwick filled the bases with one out. Merritt Ranew forced Warwick, with Mejias scoring, and Bob Aspromonte flied out to end the makeup game.

The Phils wrapped it up off loser Hal Woodeshick (3-7) in the first when Tony Taylor, in the playing lineup for the first time since June 29, doubled. Johnny Callison was safe on a sacrifice bunt fielder's choice and when Savage bounced to first, Taylor was run down between third and home with the other runners advancing. Then Sievers hit a 3-2 pitch into the stands. Doubles by Taylor and Sievers added another in the third.

Hornung Asks Early Release From Service

FT. RILEY, Kan. (AP) — Paul Hornung, Green Bay Packer halfback, has requested early release from Army duty so he can report to the National Football League team for the start of practice this month.

The Ft. Riley information office said Wednesday Hornung's request has been forwarded to the 5th Army at Chicago.

Hornung is assigned to the 896th Engineer Company, a National Guard unit from Linton, N.D., which is due for release Aug. 1.

Corriganville Cops Protested Game From Cubs, 6 To 5

Tom Robinette doubled home two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to give Corriganville a 6-5 triumph over the La-Vale Cubs in a Bi-State Pany League game played from the fourth inning yesterday at Corriganville.

The contest was the replay of a protested game which had been won, 8-7, by Corriganville on June 25. At that time the Cubs protested a runner being allowed to score on an overthrow in the fourth inning when league by-laws stated all runs have to be batted in.

The protest was upheld by league officials and replayed yesterday from the point of protest. Corriganville was at bat with one out and two runners aboard, trailing the Cubs, 4-3, when play was resumed.

The victors knotted the score with a run in the fourth only to see LaVale gain the edge again with a tally in the sixth. Trailing, 5-4, Corriganville got two runners aboard in the seventh on singles by George DeHaven and Russell Morgan. Robinette's two-bagger then settled the issue.

Herman Mellott was the winner for Corriganville which won its first game of the year after losing nine in a row. The loss was the 11th straight for the winless Cubs. Glenn Davis absorbed the defeat.

Leading hitters for Corriganville were DeHaven with three singles and Jim Sweitzer with a double. Joe Dorsey had a double and two singles for LaVale. The results:

LaVale Cubs	010 301 0—5 9 3
Corriganville	102 100 2—6 12 2

Glenn Davis and Buckel. Herman Mellott and George DeHaven.

Dapper Red Sox Beat Orioles, 15-6, For Fifth Triumph

The Red Sox pounded out a 15-6 triumph over the Orioles yesterday in a Dapper Division contest in the Dapper Dan Little League at Constitution Park.

Scoring in every inning but the first the Red Sox notched their fifth win of the campaign while handing the Orioles their sixth setback in seven decisions.

Steve Diehl, making his first Little League start, picked up the win for the Red Sox while Abe absorbed the loss.

Jack Chaney cracked out two doubles and a pair of singles to pace the Red Sox attack while teammate Bobby Fisher garnered a single and a two-bagger. Greg Snyder had a double and a triple for the Orioles. The results:

Red Sox	036 213—15 11 2
Orfoles	300 201— 6 9 4

Steve Diehl, Gary Martin (5) and Roger Nee. Abe, Senns (4), Snyder (5) and Snyder. Senns (5).
Winner—Diehl. Loser—Abe.

Koufax, Aguirre Have Best ERA

Sandy Paces N.L. In Whiffs With 203

NEW YORK (AP)—Southpaws Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Hank Aguirre of Detroit lead the major leagues in earned run average Wednesday as the 1962 campaign heads into its second half.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press show Koufax tops the National League with an ERA of 2.14 and Aguirre paces the American with 2.09.

Koufax has yielded 40 earned runs in 86 innings. He has a 7-3 13 games and losing four. He also has struck out the most NL batsmen, 203. The Dodger fireballer has posted two shutouts.

Aguirre has permitted 20 earned runs in six innings. He has a 7-3 record with one shutout.

Dick Donovan of Cleveland is the American League runner-up. The veteran right-hander, who won the ERA title last season, has given up 42 earned runs in 137 innings for a 2.76 mark. He has a 12-3 won-lost record including a pair of shutout victories over Boston and one over Baltimore.

Bob Shaw of Milwaukee, acquired from Kansas City of the American League last winter is second in the National League with a 2.38 average. He has given up 37 earned runs in 140 innings and posted a 9-6 record with one shutout.

Stan Musial Visits JFK

The Man, Family Tour White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the second time in two days, St. Louis baseball star Stan Musial and President Kennedy had a personal get-together. This time, the National League hero brought his wife and daughter to meet the President on Kennedy's home grounds — the White House.

At Tuesday's All - Star game here, Musial was enthusiastically welcomed to Kennedy's box at the District of Columbia stadium where the 41-year-old baseball star and the 45-year-old President chatted before the game.

Wednesday, Musial, his wife, Lillian, and their 13-year-old daughter, Janet, came to the White House at the President's invitation.

Stan, whose pinch hit single led to the first National League scoring in the All-Star game Tuesday, brought with him a photograph of himself and Kennedy talking together. He asked the President to autograph it for him.

After posing for a new round of pictures with the Musials in his office, Kennedy escorted them on a tour of the White House grounds and executive mansion.

Coon Hunters To Meet Today

The newly-organized Tri-State Coon Hunters Association will meet today at 8 p. m. at the Cumberland Outdoor Club on Frederick Street.

Merwin R. Hast Jr. is president of the new group and regional vice presidents are Amos See, Pennsylvania, and George Hanson, West Virginia.

Other officers are Ivan Daniels, LaVale, secretary, and James Matthews, Ellerslie, treasurer.

All those interested in the new club are invited to attend tonight's meeting. The purpose of the club is to seek legislation beneficial to sportsmen.

CHICAGO (UPI)—The decision of Bill McColl to spurn a probable five figure income and life in the United States for the uncertain existence of a medical missionary could have been predicted a decade ago.

McColl, for eight years a star pass-catching end for the Chicago Bears, will leave shortly with his wife and six children for a minimum period of two years as an orthopedic surgeon in a missionary hospital in Taegu, South Korea.

But his decision simply is added evidence that football alone is not a lifework for the 1951 graduate of Stanford, one of the all time stars of Palo Alto football.

McColl wouldn't sign to play pro football for the Bears until owner-coach George Halas assured him that he could complete his medical education in Chicago, just as numerous other Bears had done, such as Dr. Bill Osmanski and Dr. Danny Fortmann.

Played And Studied

Then McColl agreed. While he was blocking and tackling on the football field, he attended the University of Chicago Medical School and was graduated in 1955. He continued football for four more years before he quit after the 1959 season.

Likewise, he continued his medical training, in orthopedic surgery at the University of Illinois Medical Center. Now, his residency in surgery completed, he has made his decision for the future.

McColl has sold his house and with his family will spend some time in Michigan, then on to San Diego before embarking for Korea in September.

"I've had this on my mind for a long time," McColl said. "At first I was discouraged because most of the places were interested in general practitioners. The opening in Korea met my aims for the practice of medicine and the comfort of my family."

Church Helps Financially

McColl, who was in the five figure income bracket for the Bears, will get about $6,500 a year in Korea. His church, in suburban Oak Park, is raising the estimated $17,720 needed for two years in the Presbyterian hospital mission.

"You never know," he said. "I just might stay there."

His work in Korea will be extensively with war refugees and patients in a leprosarium, helping rehabilitate both groups.

"I will preach through medicine," he said.

McColl did not believe that life in Taegu, a city of about 600,000, would be primitive.

"I've heard that the standard of living is pretty good," he said.

His children, the oldest 6, will attend mission or U.S. Army schools, and his wife, Barbara, plans a garden for vegetables to supplement what foods are available.

The rest of her time, she said, will be used "helping in the hospital when I can take time away from home and the children."

Olden Times, Prove It Top Contenders In Maryland Race

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Olden Times and Prove It, Rex Ellsworth's formidable pair, shape up as top contenders for Saturday's $162,100 Hollywood Gold Cup at Hollywood Park.

With 13 possible entries for the mile and a quarter classic, trainer Mish Tenney is hoping to saddle his first winner in the "race of champions" since Swaps won the 1956 running.

Prove It won the Inglewood and American Handicaps in his last two outings.

But there are many top contenders challenging the favorites.

Willard Johnson's Harpie, a surprising third in the American Handicap, has a record of four wins and two losses for the meeting.

Other strong eligibles include Alberta Ranches' Flutterby and Vicgray Stable's New Zealand stars Cadiz and Braganza.

Donahue, Comer, Via Win Matches

Jim Donahue, Claude Comer and Al Via captured titles in the regular men's low gross and low net golf tournament at Maplehurst Country Club yesterday.

In the A division Donahue and Comer tied for low gross honors with 39s while Comer took low net with 39—5—34. In the B division Al Via was the low gross and low net winner with 39-9—30.

Flag winners were Harry Deahl on No. 4 and Charles Steininger on No. 7.

Major Leagues To Resume Action With Full Slate Of Games Today

Yankees Visit Angels In Tight American Loop

Houk Fears Tigers; National Expects Tingling Flag Race

By MURRAY ROSE

The M and M—powered New York Yankees may pry open Joe Cronin's "shoehorn" American League race in the next couple of weeks but the National League appears headed for another one of its tingling battles to the wire.

That's one outlook on the pennant battles as the teams prepare to resume activities Thursday in the second half of the season following the three-day All-Star Game break.

Cronin, the American League president, looked over the circuit's standing before the All-Star game in Washington and beamed with pleasure at the unusual sight of nine teams bunched within nine games.

The Yankees were in first place, as usual, but only a game in front of Cleveland's surprising Indians who pulled out of a tailspin to get back into the contention. Even more astonishing were the placings of the Los Angeles Angels in third by 2½ games and Minnesota in fourth by 4½.

Bengals Cause Concern

Detroit in fifth by only five games, was the team the Yankees were most concerned about, however. The Yanks surged back into first when ailing Mickey Mantle, Whitey Ford and Luis Arroyo returned to action and started making like they did in 1961.

Manager Ralph Houk realizes the Tigers are going to start snarling for real when outfielder Al Kaline makes his expected return this month and Frank Lary regains his winning pitching form. Kaline was headed for a tremendous season when he suffered a broken collar bone in a spectacular catch that saved a game against the Yankees two months ago.

"We're going fine now," said Houk before the team departed for Los Angeles and a three-day series with the Angels. "But it's going to be a hot fight. A lot of the clubs are much stronger an the Tigers are going to be rough when they're healthy."

The next couple of weeks may tell the story, though. Mantle's home run hitting has inspired home run king Roger Maris and fired up the rest of the lineup.

Angels Get Chance

The Angels get their crack at the Yanks Thursday night in the opener of the three-game set in Los Angeles. In the other American League action, the Tigers are at Chicago, the Indians at Baltimore, the Washington Senators at Minnesota and Boston Red Sox at Kansas City.

In the National League, the league-leading Los Angeles Dodgers take on the Mets in New York; San Francisco's runner-up Giants play the Phils at Philadelphia; Pittsburgh's threatening, third-place Pirates host the Houston Colts; Cincinnati's fourth-place Reds meet the Cubs in the only day game, and St. Louis takes on the Braves at Milwaukee.

The speedy, pitching - loaded Dodgers were only a half-game in front of the power-hitting Giants following their head-to-head series last weekend. The two figure to be within a breath of each other the rest of the way.

Sports Shoppe, Old Gees Score

Largent Fans 16 To Beat PE, 23-0

Allan Largent struck out 16 batters as he pitched the pace-setting Old Germans to their 10th win of the season yesterday, a 28-0 rout of Potomac Edison in a Rec Softball League encounter at East Side Field.

Largent held PE to two singles by John Burkett and Ronnie Rice and walked only three in posting the shutout.

The Old Gees scored in every inning, pounding out 17 hits against three PE hurlers. Gary Willison and George Bishields obtained four hits apiece for the victors with one of Willison's blows being a two-bagger. Largent helped his own cause by pounding out a single, double and triple while Chuck Eirich contributed three singles.

Sports Shoppe kept on the heels of the Old Gees with a 4-1 victory over the Old Exports at Stitcher Field. Rich Smith tossed a six-hitter for the winners in besting the Exports' Gene Hess.

Smith banged out a double and a pair of singles and Mike Lease, Sonny Method and Bob Russell each had a two-bagger for Sports Shoppe. Hank Page and Bobby Page shared four of the losers' six bingles. The results:

AT STITCHER FIELD:

Old Exports	001 000 0—1 6 2

Lions Club	7	9	.438
Cumberland Optimists	5	10	.333
B. P. O. Elks	5	10	.333
Rotary Club	4	11	.267

The Lions belted Herbie Springer for five runs in the first two innings, then hung on behind Mike Baker's six-hit pitching to snap the Kiwanis Club's six-game winning streak in the opener of a Hot Stove Baseball League doubleheader yesterday at Penn Avenue field. The score was 5-1.

Baker struck out 10 and walked only one batter as he posted his fourth win of the season. The game marked the second time this year the Lions have beaten Kiwanis and the loss dropped the Kiwanians into a first-place deadlock with Salvation Army in the 10-team circuit.

Bobby Dick's three-run homer in the second inning was the telling blow in the seven-hit Lions' attack. Blair Norris chipped in with three singles and excelled at shortstop for the winners. Also starring afield for the Lions were Rich Sellers at second and Jim Simpson at first base.

Dave Bruce hit a double and Dick Beesick belted a three-bagger for the Kiwanis Club. Bobby Koelker made several good catches in centerfield to highlight the Kiwanis defense.

Jimmy Brannon took over from Sprniger in the second and pitched two-hit ball, whiffing nine Lions in a steller relief role that was wasted.

In the nightcap of the twin bill the Elks beat Bedford Road's Optimists, 5-2, on a two-hitter by Rich Chaney and Nick Perlozzo. Tommy Bowers belted a two-run Homer and Danny Meyers had a two-bagger for the winners. Alvin Harris and Al Delbrugge shared the two hits for the Optimists.

In other Hot Stove games yesterday the Jaycees notched their seventh win with a 6-3 verdict over the Cumberland Optimists at Fort Hill while Rotary won its second in a row by beating B'nai B'rith at Mason Road, 5-2.

Steve Walters, with relief assistance from Bobby Powell, picked up his fourth win for the Jaycees over last year's champions.

Powell relieved in the fourth and pitched one-hit ball over the last four frames, whiffing seven. Donnie Sewell collected two hits for the winners while Stan Twigg had a double and single for the losers.

George Showalter went the route for Rotary as the cellar-dwellers notched their second win in two days. He gave up only seven hits in besting the third-place B'nai B'rith.

Bobby Powell slugged a home run, triple and double for the Rotarians while Pete Foley, Bill Daniels and Showalter shared six of the winners' hits. Mike Wilt collected three hits for B'nai B'rith.

Rich Elliott and Ernie Elliott starred in the outfield for the winners with several outstanding catches. The results:

$10,000 Milwaukee Event Starts Today

MILWAUKEE (UPI) —Four full - time performers, and one "part - time" swinger occupy the favorite roles as some of the nation's top female pro golfers tee off in the first Milwaukee Jaycee Women's $10,000 Open Thursday at the Tuckaway Country Club.

The regular foursome installed as favorites are Mickey Wright, 1961 top money winner, Kathy Whitworth, Barbara Romack and long-time campaigner, Patty Berg.

The "part-time" swinger who is given an outside shot at the title because she will be playing on familiar ground is Mrs. Joyce Ziske Malison of nearby Waterford, Wis.

Mrs. Malison, who quit the tournament trail a year and a half ago for kitchen chores, has been playing sharp golf lately and sliced four strokes off par the other day with a sizzling 70. This is only a one-shot deal, however, for the local girl who goes back to being a housewife after the tournament.

A host of fairway queens also are entered, including such well-known names as Murle MacKenzie Lindstrom, current U.S. Women's U. S. Open champ; Betsy Jameson, Jackie Pung, Ruth Jessen, Kathy Cornelius, Louise Suggs, and budding stars like Sandra Haynie, Carol Mann and Joe Ann Prentice.

Phils Defeat Colts, 6 To 1

Roy Sievers Bats In Four Tallies

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies, who have yet to be beaten by Houston, made it eight in a row over the Colts Wednesday night with a 6-1 victory on the five-hit pitching of Art Mahaffey and the slugging of Roy Sievers.

Sievers batted in four runs with his ninth homer and a double and rookie Ted Savage batted in the other two with his sixth homer into the center-field stands in a speedy makeup game which took only 1 hour and 55 minutes to complete.

Mahaffey, winning his 11th of the year to equal his own record of last season, walked two and fanned three.

He had a three-hitter going until the ninth when a double by Roman Mejias, a walk to Norm Larker and an infield single by Carl Warwick filled the bases with one out. Merritt Ranew forced Warwick, with Mejias scoring, and Bob Aspromonte flied out to end the makeup game.

The Phils wrapped it up off loser Hal Woodeshick (3-7) in the first when Tony Taylor, in the playing lineup for the first time since June 29, doubled. Johnny Callison was safe on a sacrifice bunt fielder's choice and when Savage bounced to first, Taylor was run down between third and home with the other runners advancing. Then Sievers hit a 3-2 pitch into the stands. Doubles by Taylor and Sievers added another in the third.

Hornung Asks Early Release From Service

FT. RILEY, Kan. (AP) — Paul Hornung, Green Bay Packer halfback, has requested early release from Army duty so he can report to the National Football League team for the start of practice this month.

The Ft. Riley information office said Wednesday Hornung's request has been forwarded to the 5th Army at Chicago.

Hornung is assigned to the 896th Engineer Company, a National Guard unit from Linton, N.D., which is due for release Aug. 1.

Corriganville Cops Protested Game From Cubs, 6 To 5

Tom Robinette doubled home two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to give Corriganville a 6-5 triumph over the LaVale Cubs in a Bi-State Pany League game played from the fourth inning yesterday at Corriganville.

The contest was the replay of a protested game which had been won, 8-7, by Corriganville on June 25. At that time the Cubs protested a runner being allowed to score on an overthrow in the fourth inning when league by-laws stated all runs have to be batted in.

The protest was upheld by league officials and replayed yesterday from the point of protest. Corriganville was at bat with one out and two runners aboard, trailing the Cubs, 4-3, when play was resumed.

The victors knotted the score with a run in the fourth only to see LaVale gain the edge again with a tally in the sixth. Trailing, 5-4, Corriganville got two runners aboard in the seventh on singles by George DeHaven and Russell Morgan. Robinette's two-bagger then settled the issue.

Herman Mellott was the winner for Corriganville which won its first game of the year after losing nine in a row. The loss was the 11th straight for the winless Cubs. Glenn Davis absorbed the defeat.

Leading hitters for Corriganville were DeHaven with three singles and Jim Sweitzer with a double. Joe Dorsey had a double and two singles for LaVale. The results:

LaVale Cubs	010 301 0—5 9 3
Corriganville	102 100 2—6 12 2

Glenn Davis and Buckel. Herman Mellott and George DeHaven.

Dapper Red Sox Beat Orioles, 15-6, For Fifth Triumph

The Red Sox pounded out a 15-6 triumph over the Orioles yesterday in a Dapper Division contest in the Dapper Dan Little League at Constitution Park.

Scoring in every inning but the first the Red Sox notched their fifth win of the campaign while handing the Orioles their sixth setback in seven decisions.

Steve Diehl, making his first Little League start, picked up the win for the Red Sox while Abe absorbed the loss.

Jack Chaney cracked out two doubles and a pair of singles to pace the Red Sox attack while teammate Bobby Fisher garnered a single and a two-bagger. Greg Snyder had a double and a triple for the Orioles. The results:

Red Sox	036 213—15 11 2
Orioles	300 201— 6 9 4

Steve Diehl, Gary Martin (5) and Roger Nee. Abe, Senns (4), Snyder (5) and Snyder. Senns (5).
Winner—Diehl. Loser—Abe.

Koufax, Aguirre Have Best ERA

Sandy Paces N.L. In Whiffs With 203

NEW YORK (AP)—Southpaws Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Hank Aguirre of Detroit lead the major leagues in earned run average Wednesday as the 1962 campaign heads into its second half.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press show Koufax tops the National League with an ERA of 2.14 and Aguirre paces the American with 2.09.

Koufax has yielded 40 earned runs in 86 innings. He has a 7-3 13 games and losing four. He also has struck out the most NL batsmen, 203. The Dodger fireballer has posted two shutouts.

Aguirre has permitted 20 earned runs in six innings. He has a 7-3 record with one shutout.

Dick Donovan of Cleveland is the American League runner-up. The veteran right-hander, who won the ERA title last season, has given up 42 earned runs in 137 innings for a 2.76 mark. He has a 12-3 won-lost record including a pair of shutout victories over Boston and one over Baltimore.

Bob Shaw of Milwaukee, acquired from Kansas City of the American League last winter is second in the National League with a 2.38 average. He has given up 37 earned runs in 140 innings and posted a 9-6 record with one shutout.

Stan Musial Visits JFK

The Man, Family Tour White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the second time in two days, St. Louis baseball star Stan Musial and President Kennedy had a personal get-together. This time, the National League hero brought his wife and daughter to meet the President on Kennedy's home grounds — the White House.

At Tuesday's All - Star game here, Musial was enthusiastically welcomed to Kennedy's box at the District of Columbia stadium where the 41-year-old baseball star and the 45-year-old President chatted before the game.

Wednesday, Musial, his wife, Lillian, and their 13-year-old daughter, Janet, came to the White House at the President's invitation.

Stan, whose pinch hit single led to the first National League scoring in the All-Star game Tuesday, brought with him a photograph of himself and Kennedy talking together. He asked the President to autograph it for him.

After posing for a new round of pictures with the Musials in his office, Kennedy escorted them on a tour of the White House grounds and executive mansion.

Coon Hunters To Meet Today

The newly-organized Tri-State Coon Hunters Association will meet today at 8 p. m. at the Cumberland Outdoor Club on Frederick Street.

Merwin R. Hast Jr. is president of the new group and regional vice presidents are Amos See, Pennsylvania, and George Hanson, West Virginia.

Other officers are Ivan Daniels, LaVale, secretary, and James Matthews, Ellerslie, treasurer.

All those interested in the new club are invited to attend tonight's meeting. The purpose of the club is to seek legislation beneficial to sportsmen.

CHICAGO (UPI)—The decision of Bill McColl to spurn a probable five figure income and life in the United States for the uncertain existence of a medical missionary could have been predicted a decade ago.

McColl, for eight years a star pass-catching end for the Chicago Bears, will leave shortly with his wife and six children for a minimum period of two years as an orthopedic surgeon in a missionary hospital in Taegu, South Korea.

But his decision simply is added evidence that football alone is not a lifework for the 1951 graduate of Stanford, one of the all time stars of Palo Alto football.

McColl wouldn't sign to play pro football for the Bears until owner-coach George Halas assured him that he could complete his medical education in Chicago, just as numerous other Bears had done, such as Dr. Bill Osmanski and Dr. Danny Fortmann.

Played And Studied

Then McColl agreed. While he was blocking and tackling on the football field, he attended the University of Chicago Medical School and was graduated in 1955. He continued football for four more years before he quit after the 1959 season.

Likewise, he continued his medical training, in orthopedic surgery at the University of Illinois Medical Center. Now, his residency in surgery completed, he has made his decision for the future.

McColl has sold his house and with his family will spend some time in Michigan, then on to San Diego before embarking for Korea in September.

"I've had this on my mind for a long time," McColl said. "At first I was discouraged because most of the places were interested in general practitioners. The opening in Korea met my aims for the practice of medicine and the comfort of my family."

Church Helps Financially

McColl, who was in the five figure income bracket for the Bears, will get about $6,500 a year in Korea. His church, in suburban Oak Park, is raising the estimated $17,720 needed for two years in the Presbyterian hospital mission.

"You never know," he said. "I just might stay there."

His work in Korea will be extensively with war refugees and patients in a leprosarium, helping rehabilitate both groups.

"I will preach through medicine," he said.

McColl did not believe that life in Taegu, a city of about 600,000, would be primitive.

"I've heard that the standard of living is pretty good," he said.

His children, the oldest 6, will attend mission or U.S. Army schools, and his wife, Barbara, plans a garden for vegetables to supplement what foods are available.

The rest of her time, she said, will be used "helping in the hospital when I can take time away from home and the children."

Olden Times, Prove It Top Contenders In Maryland Race

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Olden Times and Prove It, Rex Ellsworth's formidable pair, shape up as top contenders for Saturday's $162,100 Hollywood Gold Cup at Hollywood Park.

With 13 possible entries for the mile and a quarter classic, trainer Mish Tenney is hoping to saddle his first winner in the "race of champions" since Swaps won the 1956 running.

Prove It won the Inglewood and American Handicaps in his last two outings.

But there are many top contenders challenging the favorites.

Willard Johnson's Harpie, a surprising third in the American Handicap, has a record of four wins and two losses for the meeting.

Other strong eligibles include Alberta Ranches' Flutterby and Vicgray Stable's New Zealand stars Cadiz and Braganza.

Donahue, Comer, Via Win Matches

Jim Donahue, Claude Comer and Al Via captured titles in the regular men's low gross and low net golf tournament at Maplehurst Country Club yesterday.

In the A division Donahue and Comer tied for low gross honors with 39s while Comer took low net with 39—5—34. In the B division Al Via was the low gross and low net winner with 39-9—30.

Flag winners were Harry Deahl on No. 4 and Charles Steininger on No. 7.

Steinbrenner To Resign As Pipers Head

Predicts Lucas To Play In NBA

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Cleveland Pipers President George Steinbrenner Wednesday announced his resignation amid a general upheaval in professional basketball caused by his team's entry into the National Basketball Association.

At the same time Steinbrenner predicted that former All-America Jerry Lucas would play with the Pipers despite his objections to the NBA.

Lucas, a rookie from Ohio State, surprised everyone several weeks ago when he signed with the Pipers after declaring he would never play professional basketball. Lucas turned down a reported $100,000 offer from the Cincinnati Royals because he objected to the long NBA season and he wanted to finish his schooling at Ohio State.

When he signed Lucas, Steinbrenner said he thought his coup meant the saving of the financially troubled American Basketball League. Wednesday, he gave Lucas' name on a contract most of the credit for the Pipers' entry into the NBA.

Steinbrenner said he was bowing out as president within two weeks because of "my public image." He will remain as a stockholder in the organization.

"I believe somebody who gets along better with the public will be more qualified to handle the team's affairs," Steinbrenner said. He pointed out that the Pipers had a poor attendance last year even though the team won the league championship.

Despite attendance last year, Steinbrenner said he thought the Pipers would be successful in the NBA. "Any team with a name player has done well," he said, referring to Lucas.

Most persons believed the withdrawal of the Pipers would mean the collapse of the ABL.

Meanwhile, Royals Vice President Tom Grace said his team would collect $100,000 from the Pipers for letting Lucas play in the league. The Royals have had draft rights on the 6-foot, 8-inch center since he was a schoolboy in Middletown, Ohio.

Moose Test Vets Today

Top Rocking Chair Teams In 3rd Game

The third meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Loyal Order of Moose, the leader and runner-up, today at 6:15 p.m., at Stitcher Field holds the interest of followers of the Rocking Chair Softball League.

Winner of 12 consecutive games and undefeated since May 22 when they suffered their only loss at the hands of Celanese (3-2), and Vets have copped the first two games of the series from the Moose by scores of 7-2 and 5-1 and lead the race by a half game with a 16-1 record.

Since their last setback at the hands of V.F.W., on June 19 the Moose team has scored five wins in a row and owns a 16-2 mark.

If the Moose are able to upset the Vets today they'll take over sole possession of first place.

Last year the teams met seven times, including the playoffs, and the V.F.W. won four and lost two. One game ended in a 5-5 deadlock.

Four Veterans Sign With Rams

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams added four veterans to their 1962 roster only 10 days away from the start of football practice.

Among the returning players are defensive star Lamar Lundy, kicker Danny Villanueva and offensive linemen Joe Scibelli and John Kinnerson.

Admiral's Voyage Arrives For Arlington Classic

Workouts Will Determine Entry; Ridan Uncertain

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Fred W. Hooper's Admiral's Voyage arrived at Arlington Park Wednesday from California—but it still was uncertain if the 3-year-old colt will run in Saturday's $75,000 added Arlington Classic.

Also questionable was J. G. W. Stable's Ridan, who has made more news the last three weeks by not starting.

Trainer Chuck Parke will test Admiral's Voyage over the Arlington strip Thursday. He and Hooper then will decide if he goes in the rich 1-mile fixture.

The frequently raced Admiral's Voyage finished second Saturday at Hollywood Park in California, in the 1-mile Hollywood Derby. He lost by a neck to Drill Site while spotting the winner 16 pounds.

Ridan is assumed to be a starter although the father-son training team of Moody and Leroy Jolly has not committed itself.

Ridan was withheld from both the Wright and Swaps Handicaps at Arlington because the stable did not like the weight assignments. However, the Classic is an allowance race and Ridan's weight has been pegged at 123 pounds.

If Ridan runs, the big son of Natallah will be a prohibitive favorite. If Admiral's Voyage is not entered, Ridan will be held at 2-5 or less although he had no run since losing by a nose to Greek Money in the May 19 Preakness. Since then he has turned in four or five blazing workouts.

Seven other 3-year-olds are slated starters. They are Dixiana Stable's Sing Along, Mrs. Ethel Haffa's Mighty Fennec, T. A. Grissom's Gushing Wind, Spring Hill Farm's Jam-Tootin, Reverie Knoll Farm's Sharp Count, F. and B Farm's Good Fight and Fourth Estate Stable's Times Roman.

Dick Modzelewski Signs Giants Pact

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dick Modzelewski, veteran defensive tackle, and reserve quarterback Lee Grosscup returned their signed contracts to the New York Giants Wednesday for the 1962 National Football League season.

The 260-pound, 31-year-old Modzelewski will be starting his 10th pro season when the Giants begin training at Fairfield (Conn.) University next week.

Grosscup, the Giants' No. 1 draft choice in 1959, has seen only limited service during his two seasons in the NFL.

Arnold Palmer Opens Defense Of British Open Golf Title With 71

Trails Leader, Ken McDonald, By Two Strokes

Nicklaus Blows Up In Opening Round; Snead Fires A 76

By JOHN FARROW

TROON, Scotland (AP) — Arnold Palmer, aching back and all, started defense of his British Open Golf Championship with a 1-under-par 71 Wednesday but his chief American rival, young Jack Nicklaus, virtually blew himself out of contention with a fat 80.

Nicklaus, the reigning U.S. Open champion, and Gene Littler of San Diego, Calif., the man he succeeded, both are in danger of failing to make the cut after Thursday's round when the field will be sliced to a maximum of 50 players.

Littler, one of the preliminary favorites, like Nicklaus had trouble with Old Troon's 7,045 yards of heather, gorse and sand and came in with a 79. "I don't want to talk about it," Littler told interviewers grumpily.

Two Behind McDonald

Palmer's steady round placed him only two shots back of the first round leader, 32-year-old Keith MacDonald of a famous English and Scottish golfing clan, who shot 35-34—69.

He was the only one of the eight American qualifiers in a strong contending position as the tournament moved into its second round.

Closest Yank to him was Phil Rodgers, the pudgy former Marine from La Jolla, Calif., with 75 and a trio at 76—Sam Snead, the 50-year-old tournament veteran from White Sulphur Springs, W.Va.; Jack Isaacs of the Langley (Va.) Air Force Base and Don Essig, the former U.S. Public Links Champion from Indianapolis.

Palmer, one of the game's great competitors, carded a 36-35 over the par 36-36—72 layout despite the agonies of an ailing back.

"My back still is trouble me a little," the Latrobe, Pa., star said. "But it's better than it was yesterday. I've had heat treatment. And I'm wearing long underwear to keep it warm."

Field To Be Cut

Peter Thomson, four-time winner from Australia, was in second place behind MacDonald with 36-34—70. Then came Palmer and Kel Nagle, the Australian who beat Palmer by one stroke for the British title in 1960. They were tied at 71.

Five players were at 72, two at 73 and nine at 74.

The 74 shooters included Gary Player, winner of the British Open in 1959; Harold Henning and Arthur Finne, two other South Africans; Bruce Devlin, Australia, and Erie Brown, British Ryder Cupper from Scotland who won the qualifying medal with 139 for 36 holes.

The field will be cut to a maximum of 50 low scorers after Thursday's round for the final two rounds Friday.

VFW Scores 13th In Row; Defeats Caseys, 7 To 0

The Veterans of Foreign Wars scored their 13th consecutive victory yesterday as Jack Eckard pitched the Vets to a 7-0 triumph over the Caseys in a Rocking Chair Softball League game at Celanese field.

Eckard allowed only three hits in notching his fifth win of the season.

Barney Spearman collected two doubles and a single and Jimmy Eckard chipped in with three singles to pace the Vets at the plate. The results:

Caseys	000 000 0—0 3 0
V. F. W.	200 140 x—7 10 0

Chug Aman and Donnie Farrell, Jack Eckard and Ronnie Cage.

Carpenter Takes Florida Position

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) — James Carpenter, who led Williamstown to the Class A basketball title this year, has accepted a coaching position in Florida, the Parkersburg News reported Wednesday.

Carpenter will take a position at a junior high school in Hallandale, Fla., and will leave the Mountain State later this month.

Comets At Keyser, Midland At Barton In Twilight Loop

Two standout games appear on today's schedule in the Twilight Baseball League.

Cumberland's Comets, leaders of the nine-club circuit, tackle third place Keyser, at the latter place and Midland's Old Exports, occupants of second place, face fourth place Barton at Barton.

The Comets are 11-4, Keyser 12-5, Midland 13-5 and Barton 11-6.

Keyser has beaten Cumberland 11-6 and lost 15-7 in games played to date. Barton, now on a 7-game winning streak, holds a 9-5 decision over Midland but was clobbered in the other game, 25-9.

In other 5:30 games today, Westernport visits Franklin and Gilmore entertains Lonaconing.

Miss Creed Advances In Western Golf

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Curtis Cupper Clifford Ann Creed and Mrs. Ann Casey Johnstone moved easily through the second round of match play Wednesday in the Women's Western Golf Association Amateur Tournament.

Miss Creed, Alexandria, La., the tourney favorite, swept past Mrs. Jason Weiss, Indianapolis, Ind., 4 and 3, while Mrs. Johnstone, Mason City, Iowa, won by the same score over Mrs. Richard Fulmer, Indianapolis.

In Thursday's quarterfinals, Mrs. Creed will meet Mrs. Paul Dye, Indianapolis, six times winner of the Indiana Women's Amateur title; Mrs. Michael Skala, Roseburg, Ore., will play Mrs. Barbara White, Shreveport, La.; Mrs. Johnstone opposes Miss Julia Hull, Anderson, Ind., and Miss Carol Sorenson, Janesville, Wis., the current women's intercollegiate champion, plays Miss Phillips.

Frostburg Rotary Trims Eagles, 9-8

The Rotary Club shoved over a run in the bottom of the sixth inning to trim the Eagles, 9-8, yesterday in a Frostburg Little League encounter. The loss was the ninth in a row for the winless Eagles while Rotary notchced its third win in 10 decisions.

The Eagles obtained only one hit—a double by Pat Delaney in the first—off the offerings of five Rotary hurlers, but combined the blow with 15 bases on balls and six Rotary errors to score eight times. Dave Williams picked up the win in relief while Greg Kalmyer was the loser.

Larry Housel and David Williams each had a double and single while Eddie Copper belted two singles and a two-bagger to pace the Rotary attack. The results:

Eagles	220 040—8 1 8

Lou Femi, Greg Kalmyer (3) and Pat Delaney, Bill Patterson, Matt Skidmore (2), Rick Kerr (2), Bill Carter (5), Dave Williams (5) and Eddie Copper.

Winner—Williams. Loser—Kalmyer.

Pitt Announces 1963 Grid Slate

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The University of Pittsburgh football team will play a 10-game season in 1963, it was announced Wednesday.

The only change from this fall's schedule will be the replacement of Baylor by Washington. The schedule:

Sept. 21, UCLA, away; Sept. 28, Washington; Oct. 5, California; Oct. 12, open date; Oct. 19, West Virginia, away; Oct. 26, Navy, away; Nov. 2, Syracuse; Nov. 9, Notre Dame, away; Nov. 16, Army; Nov. 23, Penn State; Nov. 29, Miami, away.

Kerr Injures Knee In Home Mishap; Skins Sign Three

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins said Wednesday defensive halfback Jim Kerr injured his knee Tuesday night and will require an immediate operation.

Dr. George Resta said Kerr probably had injured the cartilage in his left knee in an accident at his nearby suburban home.

Resta said Kerr probably will miss all pre-season games and possibly a number of regular season National Football League contests before he is ready for full-time duty.

As a rookie from Penn State last fall, Kerr led the squad in pass interceptions.

The Redskins also announced receiving signed contracts from these three defensive linemen.

Bob Toneff, 270 pound starting tackle who will be playing his 10th year.

Joe Rutgens, 265 pound tackle who was a regular as a rookie last year.

Don Lawrence, 245 pound reserve who will be playing his fourth year in the league.

Washington now has signed 20 veterans and a total of 41 players.

Inmates To Give Banner To Gino

BALTIMORE (AP) — One of Baltimore's professional football fan clubs, Colts Corral 954, will present a banner to Colt end Gino Marchetti Monday.

The group is numbered 954 because all the members of the organization live at 954 Forrest Street — the address of the Maryland Penitentiary, where they are inmates.

Motor City Opens Today

Field Of 156 Pros Seek $5,300 Prize

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (UPI) — A host of top pros, including former champions Mike Souchak, Doug Ford and Bob Rosburg, tee off Thursday in quest of the $5,300 first prize in the $35,000 11th annual Motor City Open at Knollwood Country Club here.

The field of 156 also includes such name stars as Bill Collins, winner of last Sunday's Buick Open; Buick runnerup Dave Ragan; Billy Casper; Walter Burkemo; Ken Venturi; Lionel Herbert and others.

However, only three of the top 10 leading money winners on the PGA tour are entered—Casper, Bobby Nichols and Bob Goalby.

Missing from the field to take part in the British Open were such name stars as Arnold Palmer, Gene Littler, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Phil Rodgers and Sam Snead.

Cary Middlecoff, the only three-time winner of the event, passed up the tourney because of the illness of his wife.

The tourney got an unexpected bonus earlier in the week when Rosburg and Billy Maxwell joined the field. Rosburg, the 1956 winner of the event, and Maxwell both withdrew from the Buick Open because of illness.

The United States ranks as the fourth largest nation in population. China, India and Russia are more populous.

British Writers Seek Cancelation Of Robinson Bout

LONDON (AP) — British boxing writers called Sugar Ray Robinson a has-been Wednesday and said his fight with British middleweight champion Terry Downes should be called off.

The 42-year-old former welterweight and five-time middleweight champion was blasted by the critics following his decision loss to unranked Phil Moyer of Portland, Ore., at Los Angeles last Monday night. Moyer and his brother Denny, who handed the once great Sugar Ray a severe beating last February, are known here.

The writers said Robinson no longer is a worthy opponent for Downes, 26-year-old cockney who recently was co-holder of the world middleweight title. They are scheduled to meet in London Sept. 25.

Yankees Buy Long From Nats

NEW YORK (UPI) —The New York Yankees Wednesday night purchased first baseman Dale Long, an ex-Yankee, from the Washington Senators for the waiver price of $20,000.

Long was drafted by the Senators from the Yankees for $75,000 back in December, 1960, in the draft that stocked the two new teams in the American League that winter.

In his previous hitch with the Yankees in 1960, Long had appeared in 26 games and done valuable pinch - hitting with three homers and 10 runs-batted-in. In a full season with the Senators last year he hit .249 with 17 homers and so far this year is batting .241 with four homers.

York To Drop Charges Against Three Ball Players

YORK, Pa. (AP) — The City of York decided Wednesday to drop charges of malicious mischief filed last week against three players of the Elmira, N.Y., Pioneers in the Eastern Baseball League.

The players involved were catcher Andrew A. Etchebarren, 19, of LaPuenta, Calif., and outfielders Ray L. Youngdahl, 23, of Chicago and Lloyd J F.ourroux, Jr., 21, of Elmira.

The trio of Baltimore Oriole farmhands was arrested last Wednesday night on charges of celebrating the Fourth of July with too much destructive exuberance after splitting a doubleheader with the York White Roses.

Capitol Comment

by Rep. Charles Mathias

Last week the House of Representatives passed a bill which is of particular local interest to all of us in the Sixth Congressional District and in Maryland. That is a bill to designate September 17, 1962, as Antietam Day. If the Senate concurs, as I hope and believe that it will, the President will be requested to proclaim September 17 of this year as Antietam Day, to be observed throughout the nation in all of the 50 states by flying the flag at half mast until noon and then hoisting it to the peak of the flagpoles as a means of commemorating those who died on that bloodiest day of conflict in the Civil War a century ago. It will serve as well to re-affirm our loyalty to the United States of America in recognition of the heritage of American freedom and unity. This will be an appropriate climax to the splendid commemoration program which has been prepared by the people of Maryland and which will begin near the end of August of this year and will carry on until it reaches the Centennial Date of September 17.

I know that practically everyone will want to take some part in the Antietam Centennial Commemoration. It was a most important battle during the Civil War and as you all know was fought near the village of Sharpsburg in Washington County. The Army of the Potomac under the command of General George B. McClellan and the Army of Northern Virginia under the command of General Robert E. Lee met there in the bloodiest single day of conflict in the Civil War and perhaps of all recorded warfare. It was the first time that Union territory was penetrated in a substantial way by Confederate forces and it was one of the most decisive battles of the Civil War.

It was, in a sense, a turning point in the conflict between the States, and it was the Battle of Antietam which gave President Lincoln the confidence to issue the preliminary announcement of his intention to give freedom to the slaves through the Emancipation Proclamation. In that battle, there were in both armies —in the blue uniform and in the gray uniform — soldiers who were fighting for their concept of constitutional government and the dignity of man. Certainly we today understand what they were fighting for, because the struggle to bring these concepts into universal practice still continues.

The Battle of Antietam will be commemorated this year both in action — to tell the story of heroism and sacrifice — and I hope in the hearts of all of us, in rememberence. It will help us to recall again this year as we should every year that this nation was conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal and it will cause us to remember that this nation has been tested and has endured.

Congressional Viewpoint

by Sen. John M. Butler

Seldom have I witnessed so unanimous an opinion among the American people that last week's Supreme Court decision against the recitation of a daily prayer in New York public schools was both unwise and unnecessary.

The majority of the Court ruled that the prayer in question, only 22 words long and strictly non-denominational, was un-Constitutional because the State government of New York had composed it and because teachers on the State payroll led their classes in reciting the prayer although no student was forced to participate against his wishes. Stretching logic to its breaking point, the majority argued that such procedure was a violation of the "wall of separation" between church and state and if carried to its ultimate end would result in, of all things, the sort of religious persecution that drove the founders of this Nation from Europe to the New World!

The lone dissenter, Mr. Justice Potter Stewart, expressed his sharp disagreement almost plaintively: "I cannot see how an 'official religion' is established by letting those who want to say a prayer say it." Justice Stewart pointed out that what is at issue is not "Sixteenth Century England" or "Eighteenth Century America" but the long tradition of religion in America as reflected in the "countless practices of the institutions and officials of our government."

Mr. Justice Douglas took advantage of the occasion to suggest that any prayer or religious exercise in a governmental institution is un-Constitutional. (He specifically mentioned the daily opening prayer of Congress and the daily convening ceremony of the Supreme Court itself.) Apparently, Justice Douglas and the other justices did not conceive of the quite real possibility that a tiny atheistic minority could use the New York decision to thwart the religious practices of an overwhelmingly devout majority. The end results of the New York decision could well amount to a "tyranny of the minority."

I suggest that Justice Douglas and the other members of the majority all re-read and ponder on the following oath which they took before donning their robes as justices:

"I, ..., do solemly swear (or affirm) that I will administer justice without respect to persons, and do equal right to the poor and to the rich, and that I will faithfully and impartially discharge and perform all the duties incumbent upon me as . . . . according to the best of my abilities and understanding, agreeably to the Constitution and laws of the United States. So help me God." (emphasis added)

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 141 The struggle that gave Earl Van Dorn's strategy a setback in March 1862 was the battle of Pea Ridge in most accounts, but it was also called the Battle of Elkhorn Tavern. It can be guessed why some of the survivors remembered the tavern, with its kegs and jugs of whisky, rum and, maybe, gin, at the crossroads in Arkansas behind which Pea Ridge rose. Perhaps that was the position most strongly contested by Johnny Reb and Billy Yank. It was cold that March day in 1862, with snow on the ground to be made slop under wheels, hooves and boots.

The battle was memorable for other reasons. The Rebel forces included three regiments of Cherokees, among whom was the redoubtable Stand Watie. The Cherokees had been driven out from Georgia across the Mississippi into what was called Indian Territory at the insistence of whites who coveted their lands. Yet there they were, three regiments of them, fighting for the Rebel cause in 1862, alongside Sterling Price's Missouri State Guard, a brigade of infantry and a brigade of cavalry from Louisiana, a squadron of cavalry from Texas, and various smaller units under the over-all command of Earl Van Dorn, who had spent most of his years in the U. S. Army fighting Indians.

The total Rebel force was estimated at 14,000. About 800 were killed and wounded in the clash at Pea Ridge. The loss of the Federals, under Sam Curtis and Franz Sigel, was greater (1,384), but the Confederates were forced into retreat.

Steinbrenner To Resign As Pipers Head

Predicts Lucas To Play In NBA

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Cleveland Pipers President George Steinbrenner Wednesday announced his resignation amid a general upheaval in professional basketball caused by his team's entry into the National Basketball Association.

At the same time Steinbrenner predicted that former All-America Jerry Lucas would play with the Pipers despite his objections to the NBA.

Lucas, a rookie from Ohio State, surprised everyone several weeks ago when he signed with the Pipers after declaring he would never play professional basketball. Lucas turned down a reported $100,000 offer from the Cincinnati Royals because he objected to the long NBA season and he wanted to finish his schooling at Ohio State.

When he signed Lucas, Steinbrenner said he thought his coup meant the saving of the financially troubled American Basketball League. Wednesday, he gave Lucas' name on a contract most of the credit for the Pipers' entry into the NBA.

Steinbrenner said he was bowing out as president within two weeks because of "my public image." He will remain as a stockholder in the organization.

"I believe somebody who gets along better with the public will be more qualified to handle the team's affairs," Steinbrenner said. He pointed out that the Pipers had a poor attendance last year even though the team won the league championship.

Despite attendance last year, Steinbrenner said he thought the Pipers would be successful in the NBA. "Any team with a name player has done well," he said, referring to Lucas.

Most persons believed the withdrawal of the Pipers would mean the collapse of the ABL.

Meanwhile, Royals Vice President Tom Grace said his team would collect $100,000 from the Pipers for letting Lucas play in the league. The Royals have had draft rights on the 6-foot, 8-inch center since he was a schoolboy in Middletown, Ohio.

Moose Test Vets Today

Top Rocking Chair Teams In 3rd Game

The third meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Loyal Order of Moose, the leader and runner-up, today at 6:15 p.m., at Stitcher Field holds the interest of followers of the Rocking Chair Softball League.

Winner of 12 consecutive games and undefeated since May 22 when they suffered their only loss at the hands of Celanese (3-2), and Vets have copped the first two games of the series from the Moose by scores of 7-2 and 5-1 and lead the race by a half game with a 16-1 record.

Since their last setback at the hands of V.F.W., on June 19 the Moose team has scored five wins in a row and owns a 16-2 mark.

If the Moose are able to upset the Vets today they'll take over sole possession of first place.

Last year the teams met seven times, including the playoffs, and the V.F.W. won four and lost two. One game ended in a 5-5 deadlock.

Four Veterans Sign With Rams

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams added four veterans to their 1962 roster only 10 days away from the start of football practice.

Among the returning players are defensive star Lamar Lundy, kicker Danny Villanueva and offensive linemen Joe Scibelli and John Kinnerson.

Admiral's Voyage Arrives For Arlington Classic

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Fred W. Hooper's Admiral's Voyage arrived at Arlington Park Wednesday from California—but it still was uncertain if the 3-year-old colt will run in Saturday's $75,000 added Arlington Classic.

Also questionable was J. G. W. Stable's Ridan, who has made more news the last three weeks by not starting.

Trainer Chuck Parke will test Admiral's Voyage over the Arlington strip Thursday. He and Hooper then will decide if he goes in the rich 1-mile fixture.

The frequently raced Admiral's Voyage finished second Saturday at Hollywood Park in California, in the 1-mile Hollywood Derby. He lost by a neck to Drill Site while spotting the winner 16 pounds.

Ridan is assumed to be a starter although the father-son training team of Moody and Leroy Jolly has not committed itself.

Ridan was withheld from both the Wright and Swaps Handicaps at Arlington because the stable did not like the weight assignments. However, the Classic is an allowance race and Ridan's weight has been pegged at 123 pounds.

If Ridan runs, the big son of Natallah will be a prohibitive favorite. If Admiral's Voyage is not entered, Ridan will be held at 2-5 or less although he had no run since losing by a nose to Greek Money in the May 19 Preakness. Since then he has turned in four or five blazing workouts.

Seven other 3-year-olds are slated starters. They are Dixiana Stable's Sing Along, Mrs. Ethel Haffa's Mighty Fennec, T. A. Grissom's Gushing Wind, Spring Hill Farm's Jam-Tootin, Reverie Knoll Farm's Sharp Count, F. and B Farm's Good Fight and Fourth Estate Stable's Times Roman.

Dick Modzelewski Signs Giants Pact

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dick Modzelewski, veteran defensive tackle, and reserve quarterback Lee Grosscup returned their signed contracts to the New York Giants Wednesday for the 1962 National Football League season.

The 260-pound, 31-year-old Modzelewski will be starting his 10th pro season when the Giants begin training at Fairfield (Conn.) University next week.

Grosscup, the Giants' No. 1 draft choice in 1959, has seen only limited service during his two seasons in the NFL.

Capitol Comment

by Rep. Charles Mathias

Last week the House of Representatives passed a bill which is of particular local interest to all of us in the Sixth Congressional District and in Maryland. That is a bill to designate September 17, 1962, as Antietam Day. If the Senate concurs, as I hope and believe that it will, the President will be requested to proclaim September 17 of this year as Antietam Day, to be observed throughout the nation in all of the 50 states by flying the flag at half mast until noon and then hoisting it to the peak of the flagpoles as a means of commemorating those who died on that bloodiest day of conflict in the Civil War a century ago. It will serve as well to re-affirm our loyalty to the United States of America in recognition of the heritage of American freedom and unity. This will be an appropriate climax to the splendid commemoration program which has been prepared by the people of Maryland and which will begin near the end of August of this year and will carry on until it reaches the Centennial Date of September 17.

I know that practically everyone will want to take some part in the Antietam Centennial Commemoration. It was a most important battle during the Civil War and as you all know was fought near the village of Sharpsburg in Washington County. The Army of the Potomac under the command of General George B. McClellan and the Army of Northern Virginia under the command of General Robert E. Lee met there in the bloodiest single day of conflict in the Civil War and perhaps of all recorded warfare. It was the first time that Union territory was penetrated in a substantial way by Confederate forces and it was one of the most decisive battles of the Civil War.

It was, in a sense, a turning point in the conflict between the States, and it was the Battle of Antietam which gave President Lincoln the confidence to issue the preliminary announcement of his intention to give freedom to the slaves through the Emancipation Proclamation. In that battle, there were in both armies —in the blue uniform and in the gray uniform — soldiers who were fighting for their concept of constitutional government and the dignity of man. Certainly we today understand what they were fighting for, because the struggle to bring these concepts into universal practice still continues.

The Battle of Antietam will be commemorated this year both in action — to tell the story of heroism and sacrifice — and I hope in the hearts of all of us, in rememberence. It will help us to recall again this year as we should every year that this nation was conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal and it will cause us to remember that this nation has been tested and has endured.

Congressional Viewpoint

by Sen. John M. Butler

Seldom have I witnessed so unanimous an opinion among the American people that last week's Supreme Court decision against the recitation of a daily prayer in New York public schools was both unwise and unnecessary.

The majority of the Court ruled that the prayer in question, only 22 words long and strictly non-denominational, was un-Constitutional because the State government of New York had composed it and because teachers on the State payroll led their classes in reciting the prayer although no student was forced to participate against his wishes. Stretching logic to its breaking point, the majority argued that such procedure was a violation of the "wall of separation" between church and state and if carried to its ultimate end would result in, of all things, the sort of religious persecution that drove the founders of this Nation from Europe to the New World!

The lone dissenter, Mr. Justice Potter Stewart, expressed his sharp disagreement almost plaintively: "I cannot see how an 'official religion' is established by letting those who want to say a prayer say it." Justice Stewart pointed out that what is at issue is not "Sixteenth Century England" or "Eighteenth Century America" but the long tradition of religion in America as reflected in the "countless practices of the institutions and officials of our government."

Mr. Justice Douglas took advantage of the occasion to suggest that any prayer or religious exercise in a governmental institution is un-Constitutional. (He specifically mentioned the daily opening prayer of Congress and the daily convening ceremony of the Supreme Court itself.) Apparently, Justice Douglas and the other justices did not conceive of the quite real possibility that a tiny atheistic minority could use the New York decision to thwart the religious practices of an overwhelmingly devout majority. The end results of the New York decision could well amount to a "tyranny of the minority."

I suggest that Justice Douglas and the other members of the majority all re-read and ponder on the following oath which they took before donning their robes as justices:

"I, ..., do solemly swear (or affirm) that I will administer justice without respect to persons, and do equal right to the poor and to the rich, and that I will faithfully and impartially discharge and perform all the duties incumbent upon me as . . . . according to the best of my abilities and understanding, agreeably to the Constitution and laws of the United States. So help me God." (emphasis added)

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 141 The struggle that gave Earl Van Dorn's strategy a setback in March 1862 was the battle of Pea Ridge in most accounts, but it was also called the Battle of Elkhorn Tavern. It can be guessed why some of the survivors remembered the tavern, with its kegs and jugs of whisky, rum and, maybe, gin, at the crossroads in Arkansas behind which Pea Ridge rose. Perhaps that was the position most strongly contested by Johnny Reb and Billy Yank. It was cold that March day in 1862, with snow on the ground to be made slop under wheels, hooves and boots.

The battle was memorable for other reasons. The Rebel forces included three regiments of Cherokees, among whom was the redoubtable Stand Watie. The Cherokees had been driven out from Georgia across the Mississippi into what was called Indian Territory at the insistence of whites who coveted their lands. Yet there they were, three regiments of them, fighting for the Rebel cause in 1862, alongside Sterling Price's Missouri State Guard, a brigade of infantry and a brigade of cavalry from Louisiana, a squadron of cavalry from Texas, and various smaller units under the over-all command of Earl Van Dorn, who had spent most of his years in the U. S. Army fighting Indians.

The total Rebel force was estimated at 14,000. About 800 were killed and wounded in the clash at Pea Ridge. The loss of the Federals, under Sam Curtis and Franz Sigel, was greater (1,384), but the Confederates were forced into retreat.

—CLARK KINNAIRD

SIDELIGHT: Strikes for higher wages in Southern shipyards in 1861 and 1862 delayed Confederate building of ironclads with which to fight the new gunboats the Union Navy had on the Mississippi.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 143 Memorial Day 1962, when, inevitably, "Taps" will resound ceremoniously and mournfully, could be observed also as the centennial of that bugle call.

This is a suggestion to American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and other groups, that the centennial be given attention.

"Taps" owes its inception to Daniel Butterfield, a son of the operator of the famous Butterfield Overland Mail across the Western prairies and mountains. The younger Butterfield was engaged in business of his own in New York when the war came in 1861. He responded to the first call for volunteers in April by enlisting. Selected quickly for a commission, he was one of the minority of Union officers whose conduct in the Battle of Bull Run proved to his credit.

Advanced on his merits, Butterfield was a brigadier general, commanding a brigade in the 1st Division, 5th Corps, Army of Potomac, in the spring of 1862. Meanwhile, he had cultivated an interest in the bugle, and he utilized a set of calls to give orders.

That was not an entirely new idea. The Army already had bugle signals similar to those of other armies. But General Butterfield was not satisfied with the usual accompaniment for "lights out," which had been adopted from the French.

After trying various combinations of notes himself, Butterfield gave what he considered the most appropriate arrangement to the bugler at brigade headquarters, Oliver Norton. The latter "smoothed out" the rhythm and timing, and Butterfield ordered the new call used throughout the brigade.

The call resounded responsively quickly through other units and supplanted the old "lights out" widely before the war was over. After the war, when General Butterfield was active in veterans' affairs and politics, he was in charge of public funerals of Sherman and other notable figures. Invariably he made the sounding of his version of "Taps" a part of the ceremonies, and gained general public acceptance for this addition.

—CLARK KINNAIRD

Left: Maj. Gen. Daniel Butterfield, a photograph after the war, when "Taps" was in common usage at military establishments, both on land and sea, and at funerals of veterans.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

TRADE BILL PASSES HOUSE AS EXPECTED — There was never any doubt about the Administration's Trade Bill getting through. Very little opposition was voiced in the House of Representatives, where a big block of Republicans joined a big block of Democrats to pass the measure with votes to spare. This is not a partisan matter. Former Presidents Eisenhower and Hoover, former Republican Nominees Landon, Dewey and Nixon and other Republican leaders backed the measure strongly. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce, which opposes most of the Kennedy program on the grounds of its being wasteful and irresponsible, backs the Trade Bill.

The bill, which now comes to the Senate for consideration, was designed to take the place of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act. It gives the President power to negotiate reciprocal tariff cuts to meet the new competitive situation arising from the emergence of the European Common Market. There is general agreement that the President should have wide negotiating authority in order to meet the day-by-day challenge of the Common Market. I believe the bill will be accepted by the Senate without delay.

DEFENSE BILL: BIGGEST IN HISTORY — We have passed unanimously the biggest peacetime Defense Bill in history — $48,300,000,000. Here's a breakdown:

Weapons	$17,000,000,000
Research	7,000,000,000
Military pay	13,000,000,000
Food, cloths, beds, and barracks	11,300,000,000

With 48 billion dollars, there's bound to be some waste. Former President Eisenhower believes the Defense budget should be reduced, that military requests have a habit of creeping up faster than necessary, that there is nothing sacrosanct about Defense spending and that we should not hesitate to prune it. The entire Defense budget was worked over by our best military brains and examined closely by the Bureau of the Budget before being studied by our committees of the Senate and House. Our military experts explained and defended the budget, item by item, and, as for me, I decided that if there were any doubt, it should be resolved in their favor, that if we should err it should be on the side of our national safety.

"OFF-SHORE ISLANDS": PRESIDENT KENNEDY'S REASSURANCE — On September 30, 1960, in a television interview, Candidate Kennedy said:

"Under the Eisenhower doctrine . . . we have stated that we would defend Quemoy and Matsu if it was part of an attack on the island of Formosa . . . On what basis? Quemoy and Matsu are not essential to the defense of Formosa." (This statement was, to the Chinese Reds, "an invitation to attack" the two islands, according to Admiral Radford, former Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff — an invitation the Reds appeared about to accept.)

However, despite what he said when he was a candidate for election, President Kennedy, said at his press conference on June 27, 1962: "I support administration policy towards Quemoy and Matsu over the last five years."

This unequivocal adoption of the Eisenhower-Dulles stand on Quemoy and Matsu, a stand which has effectively checked Red China, is reassuring to us all.

STATE DEPARTMENT AGAINST "VICTORY" — Here is a direct quotation from a State Department report explaining its reasons for deleting the word "victory" from Government officials' speeches: "The word 'victory' has a militaristic and aggressive ring . . . It also implies an all or nothing approach, leaving no room for accommodation."

Moorefield Man Dies After Fall From Truckbed

H. D. Riggleman Injured Tuesday

A 24-year-old Moorefield, W. Va., man died yesterday afternoon in Grant County Memorial Hospital, Petersburg, W. Va., with injuries he received when he fell from a moving truck Tuesday.

The victim, Haven Dwight Riggleman, died of head injuries, according to Cpl. J. A. Shrout of the Moorefield detachment who investigated the accident.

Authorities said Mr. Riggleman, an oil wheel operator for Loewengart and Company Tannery in Petersburg, was riding on top of a truck loaded with leather when he slipped off the vehicle as it rounded a curve on U. S. Route 220, three miles from Moorefield.

Born at Rig, W. Va., he was a son of Ernest and Mildred (Mongold) Riggleman. Mr. Rig was a veteran of the Korean War.

Also surviving besides his parents, are his widow, Ina (Lewis) Riggleman; a daughter, Theresa Riggleman, at home; a sister, Mrs. Shelby Jean Orndorff, Winchester, Va., and two brothers, Ersal W. Riggleman and Gary Riggleman, Rig.

The body is at the Thrush Funeral Home, Moorefield, where services will be conducted tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. by Rev. Lauren Smith. Burial will be in Newhouse Cemetery at Rig.

City Conducts Survey Of Fire Alarm System

The Cumberland Fire Department is making a survey of its fire alarm system to establish a priority list for expansion of the program, according to Fire Chief Virgil Parker.

He said the department has two new fire alarm boxes on hand and will install them where they are needed most.

Fire alarms boxes, he said, are needed to serve several areas which have been building up in the past year or so.

The devices will be installed by Lt. Richard Linthicum, the department's electrician.

Chief Parker said a representative of the Gamewell Cmpany inspected the control panel at Central Fire Headquarters this week and found it in top shape.

The equipment is used to control the some 100 fire alarm boxes which are scattered throughout the city on four circuits.

Chief Parker said Lt. Linthicum will be busy for some time this summer replacing wiring at several points which show up bad on the control board.

Baltimore Girl Hurt In Accident

Stephanie Duda, 22, of Baltimore, was seriously injured yesterday morning when she was thrown from the car she was operating on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Pennsylvania State Police said the Duda girl was admitted to the Somerset Community Hospital but the extent of her injuries was not known.

The investigating officer said the young woman apparently lost control of her car and it rolled over, throwing her some distance.

McCain Personnel Chief For Westvaco Division

WILLIAM S. McCAIN

Appointment of William S. McCain to the new position of division personnel manager of West Virginia Pulp and Paper's Fine Papers Division has been announced by John A. Luke, division general manager.

The new position will function in a staff capacity to the division manager. Mr. McClain will be responsible for assisting in the development and co-ordination of division-wide activities in the personnel field, as well as being available to the division operating and department managers and their personnel departments for consultation, support and staff services in the area of personnel administration. He will also be responsible for the central recruiting of key technical and administrative employes.

Mr. McCain's new responsibilities encompass the company's Fine Papers Division mills in Mechanicville, N. Y.; Tryone and Williamsburg, Pa., and Luke. In his new assignment he will make his headquarters in New York.

Prior to his promotion, Mr. McCain had been assistant labor relations co-ordinator for the company and was located at Luke.

The new division personnel manager joined West Virginia Pulp and Paper in 1957 as labor relations assistant at Luke after 10 years' experience with International Paper Company. In 1958 he became labor relations manager at Luke and the next year was promoted to assistant labor relations co-ordinator for the company.

He is a graduate of Yale University and a veteran of 5½ years of heavy cruiser and destroyer duty with the Navy in the Pacific during World War II.

Mr. and Mrs. McCain and their three children, Mary, 13; William Jr., 9; and Charles, 6, presently reside on Horse Rock Hill, Westernport.

Vacation Option May Cut Impact Of B&O Layoffs

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will furlough 91 men in its car repair shops at Keyser on Monday as a result of the coal miners' annual vacation.

The furloughs at Keyser are included in the some 300 men which will be laid off temporarily in car shops there and at Cumberland and Dubois, Pa.

A B & O spokesman said from Baltimore the layoffs are scheduled to begin Monday and "We hope to call them back by August 1"

The B & O spokesman attributed the furloughs to the miners holiday which cuts coal shipments saying, "During the annual holiday, they're just not mining coal."

The impact of the furlough is expected to be lessened considerably by the fact that the men have the option of taking their vacation during the furlough if they so desire.

A number of the Keyser workers have signed up for vacations since furlough notices were posted Tuesday.

The furlough at Keyser affects 91 men working on repairs to open top hoppers under an ABC car rehabiltation program which began last October.

Another 25 of the furloughed men were working here and the rest at Dubois.

Senator See 'Satisfactory' After Attack

State Senator Charles M. See was reported in "satisfactory" condition last night at St. Vincent's Hospital, Cleveland, where he was admitted Tuesday night after suffering a heart attack.

Sen. See was taken ill while attending the national convention of the Blind and Handicapped in Cleveland.

Glenn K. Davis, 515 Dreyer Avenue, a nephew of Sen. See, said he talked with the senator's wife last night and she reported Sen. See would be kept in oxygen overnight. She also said the senator would have to remain in the Cleveland hospital approximately a month.

Sen. See was admitted to the hospital only two hours after Mr. Davis telephoned him of the death of Del. Estel C. Kelley who died here Tuesday.

Carol Bowman Wins Talent Show

Carol Bowman, 8, of Jane Frazier Village, last night was declared the winner in the annual talent show staged by Pennsylvania Avenue Playground.

She will represent the playground at the Intra-City Talent Show to be held next Thursday at Constitution Park by the City Recreation Department.

She sang a solo, "Roses Are Red, Violets Are Blue," in the contest which drew 17 contestants.

Fay Whitman won second place with her pantomime, "Three Chicks" and Patricia Wilson third place for her organ solo.

Two American Red Cross first aid courses were recently completed by four persons at Frostburg State Teachers College. The classes were sponsored by Allegany County Chapter with Dr. Harold Cordts instructor.

Completing advanced first aid and instructor's courses were Wayne Bruchey, William Bruchey, Earl Gillespie and Roy Sigler.

Class To Wash Cars

The Young Married Class of Ridgeley Evangelical United Church, Knobley Hill, will sponsor a car wash Saturday from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Phone Firm To Expand Building

Bids will be opened today for an addition to the central office building of the C&P Telephone Company in Cumberland, according to William F. Campbell, manager of the local office.

Mr. Campbell said bids also will be opened today for the demolition of a portion of the old telephone building which occupies the site for the new addition.

The part of the building to be torn down is the ell to the present new central office and abuts on Dexter Place, which parallels Union and Baltimore streets.

The new addition will be three stories high and will be constructed extra-strong to house the heavy central office equipment. It is expected the demolition work will begin August 1 and the building is expected to be completed in two years.

At the present time the old part of the building is used for some storage and office space. While the construction work is in progress, some telephone company personnel will have offices at 35 Frederick Street and 126 Union Street.

Walker Will Help Set Up Safety Plan For Street Dept.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, announced yesterday that the services of Lynn Walker, 224 Pear Street, safety engineer for the Department of Labor and Industry, will be available to the department.

She said Mrs. Robert B. Kimble, assistant director of the Maryland Department of Labor Industry, has agreed to make his services available to the city.

Mrs. Roeder said Mr. Walker will be asked to set up a safety program for the various units under her supervision.

Army Cites Officer Need

According to an announcement by Lt. Gen. John S. Upham Jr., commanding general, Second Army, Fort George G. Meade, the Army has an urgent need for approximately 1,700 officers in the grades of second lieutenant, first lieutenant and captain. The chortages exist in all branches of the Army, including Intelligence, Security, Special Forces and Civil Affairs specialties.

General Upham stated that although a large number of officers are commissioned each year as second lieutenants through the Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) and Officer Candidate Schools (OCS), these sources will not meet current requirements.

Any individual with up to 14 years active federal service who presently holds a reserve commission in any branch of the Army may apply for active duty. Further details may be obtained at any Army Reserve unit or the U. S. Army Recruiting Main Station, 310 Gaston Avenue, Fairmont, W. Va.

Loopholes In Election Laws Will Be Studied

Legislative Council To Name Committee

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — A legislative committee, to be named at the urging Wednesday of Gov. Tawes, will try to figure out if election games can be beaten.

The governor's letter to the legislative council, urging strengthening of election laws, referred specifically to the "name's the same" game against incumbent officials and possible abuse of absentee voting privileges.

Sen. George W. Della, D-Balto 6th, council president, said he would appoint the study committee later.

The governor's letter was prompted by developments of the May 15 primary in Baltimore.

No Law Prevents It

The judge ruled there was no law to prevent anyone with the same name as an incumbent from becoming a candidate.

The Baltimore election supervisors also have referred to the state's attorney questioned absentee ballots cast from the 4th District.

While suggesting the study of election laws should be comprehensive, Gov. Tawes stated it should "consider specifically the advisability of requiring candidates to file in person, rather than by certificate only, and to determine whether or not an increase in filing fees, combined with a restriction on payment of refunds in event of withdrawal" might eliminate abuses.

Would-be candidates are refunded all of their filing fees if they withdraw by a certain date.

Study Needed

While suggesting a study of voting by absentee ballots, Gov. Tawes cautioned that "in no instance should any citizen of Maryland be discouraged from exercising his or her voting right through procedural difficulties.

"On the contrary, should it be possible to encourage a greater number of our citizens to exercise their franchise through modification of our existing laws, then I urge you to consider such modifications . . . " he said.

The Finance Committee of the council, meanwhile, squelched an effort to make records of the Department of Employment Security open for public inspection.

Stephen C. Cromwell, executive director, told the committee that secrecy was a federal regulation and Maryland employers probably would have to pay more jobless taxes if it were abandoned.

The proposal to permit inspection of unemployment compensation records was made by Benjamin W. Eisenberg, a Baltimore lawyer.

Water Report Made

The council also received a final report from a commission which has been studying water resources for three years.

The commission endorsed a recommendation of the planning department that one state agency be given authority to plan for development and use of water.

It also reported it did not feel any new or revised legislation was needed at this time.

The proposal of the planning department, made late last year, to consolidate water control is to be taken up by the council later this year.

Earlier, the Judiciary Committee shelved a proposed bill to make uniform the state's law regulating business on Sunday. The bill, which had been endorsed by the full council last year, stalled during the February session of the legislature over religious disagreement.

The bill would have dictated exactly what types of business could be conducted anywhere in the state on Sunday. It was opposed by Jewish and Seventh-Day Adventist merchants who observe their Sabbath on days other than Sunday.

Equity Suits Filed

Several equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint are titled Norma J. Riggleman vs. Richard N. Riggleman; Esther J. Edwards vs. Robert L. Edwards Sr.; Walter C. Diehl vs. Jane Beverly Diehl.

WILLIAM B. HENAGHAN

Frostburg Man Will Teach Core At Allegany

The assignment of William Bernard Henaghan, of RD 3, Frostburg, to a teaching position at Allegany High School, was announced yesterday by Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools.

Mr. Henaghan will teach seventh and eighth grade core. He replaces Mrs. Martha Hamilton, who retired in June after holding the position since November 1, 1943.

The new teacher is a 1958 graduate of Beall High School and graduated from Frostburg State Teachers College in June.

17 Building Permits Issued By County Unit

Seventeen permits, including one for a mobile home and construction of four new dwellings, were issued this month by C. Lee Renaud, Allegany County planning director.

A permit to locate a mobile home on Bowling Avenue in District 2 was issued to Everett W. Bennett.

Guy Propst obtained two permits, one for a storage room and the other for a carport to be constructed at RD 2, Flintstone in District 3.

Dwelling permits were issued to Bernard R. Warren for a residence of stone and aluminum siding to be constructed on East Maryland Avenue in Christians Addition, District 6; Lonnie Warnick for dwelling at Gay & Chestnut Street, Westernport in District 8; Charles H. Welch for cedar siding residence on South Albert Street, Frostburg, District 11, and to Lionel W. Wiseman to locate package dwelling on Maryland Avenue, McCoole in District 31.

Other permits issued include one to Charles L. Bosley, District 5, for alteration of dwelling; I. M. Lipscomb, District 7, for storage shed at McCoole on Route 220; Archie W. Clark, District 9, to add bathroom to residence in Dogwood Flat; Howard Piper, District 20, to build addition to foundation on Cash Valley Road and Mary E. Daulbaugh, District 21, Rocky Gap Road, for addition of bathroom and garage.

Edward Thomas, Midlothian Road, and Oberlin T. Chaney, 221 Welsh Hill, Frostburg, obtained permits to apply precast stone to dwellings in Election District 22. Also issued were permits to William G. Clise to build a concrete block garage in District 24 and to James E. Uphold to add kitchen to residence on Elk Lick Run Road in District 27.

ABL Scientists To Present Papers At Polaris Session

Four Hercules Powder Company scientists from Allegany Ballistics Laboratory will present technical papers at the Polaris Glass Filament Research and Development Conference to be held July 17 and 18 at Hercules' Research Center, near Wilmington, Del.

The conference is being sponsored by the Navy's Special Projects Office which is responsible for the development and production of the Polaris Fleet Ballistics Missile.

The four men who have prepared papers, all from ABL's Polaris Design Department, are: George E. Walker, supervisor of the Design Group; Robert F. H. Woodberry, staff engineer in the Polaris Analysis Group; Thomas C. White, engineer in the Chambers Section; and Barry J. Carlson, engineer in the Systems Analysis Section.

Mr. Woodberry will also act as chairman of the session on "Fabrication, Design and Testing."

ABL designed and developed the second-stage rocket motor for the A-2 Polaris missile and is currently working on an advanced version of the unit for the longer range A-3 Polaris.

Hercules, a pioneer in the use of glass filament-wound chambers for solid propellant rockets, is fabricating the largest of such chambers ever made at its Rocky Hill, N. J., plant.

Marine Reserve Unit To Train At Little Creek

84 Officers, Men Will Leave Sunday

The 43d Rifle Company, local Marine Corps Reserve unit, will leave for its two weeks of annual field training Sunday morning.

Two air-conditioned 39-passenger Greyhound buses will take 84 members of the company and their equipment to the U. S. Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, Va.

Buses will leave the Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center on McKaig's Hill at 8 a. m. Sunday, and will arrive at Little Creek at about 6:30 p. m.

Major Billy C. Menges, commanding officer, said the 43d's training will include an amphibious operation by supporting arms from ships of the Atlantic Fleet, followed by an assault landing on the beaches of Camp Pendleton, Va.

Special training in vertical assault tactics with helicopters, in night amphibious raids, and in small arms firing will be conducted.

Major Menges said the Little Creek training period will help develop the 43d as a member of the Navy-Marine Corps amphibious team.

He pointed out that sea power provides the United States with a capability to meet any military requirement—the ability to engage in all-out nuclear war, conventional war, limited war, or a mere "show of the Flag." The Navy-Marine Corps team has developed a degree of land-sea-air warfare specialization unique in history, he said.

The local Reserve unit will return from training on July 28.

Licenses For Dogs Now Due

Allegany County residents who own dogs are reminded they must obtain licenses for their animals if they are six months old or older.

The new licenses went into effect July 1 and cost $1 for males and spayed females and $2 for female dogs.

The license tags may be purchased from either of the two dog wardens, Merwin R. Hast Jr., Union Grove, or Burza Hanlin in Westernport. Tags also may be obtained at the Court House or from any trial magistrate in the county.

A dog owner who fails to obtain a license is subject to a fine between $5 and $25 upon conviction. Last year approximately 6,000 licenses were sold, but it is estimated there are nearly twice that number of dogs in Allegany County.

Many Cumberland residents also are unaware that there is a city ordinance that prohibits any dog, licensed or not, from running loose unless accompanied by its owner.

Voting Notices Are Mailed

The Allegany County Board of Election supervisors yesterday mailed out 34 notices to women whose names have been changed by marriage.

John R. Kelly, chief clerk, said the notices were mailed to 18 Democrat women and 16 Republican women at addresses which are listed on their registration cards in the election office.

They have 10 days, or until July 24 to call at the board office or to contact election officials by phone, to have the changes made. If they do not comply, their names will be taken from the voting rolls.

Mr. Kelly said Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden notifies the board at six-month intervals of persons over 21 who are convicted of any of 23 major crimes. These names are also stricken from the voting rolls, and the individuals are not permitted to exercise their voting franchise again unless they are pardoned by the governor.

The election board office also strikes off the names of all deceased voters.

Columbian Squires Install Officers

New officers of Bishop James E. Walsh Circle 1222, Columbian Squires, were installed last night at ceremonies at Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus.

The new officers include John Kreidler Jr., chief squire; Philip Carolan, deputy chief squire; William Zapf, notary; Michael Madden, bursar; Charles Himmler, marshall, and James Stevens, sentry.

The installing officer was John O'Rourke, past grand knight of Cumberland Council 586.

WILLIAM H. CLOWARD

Cloward Named Senior Engineer In Fibers Unit

William H. Cloward has been named senior engineer, fibers development, at Celanese Fibers Company's Amcelle plant, Fibers Development Superintendent W. T. Allman announced.

A chemical engineering graduate of the University of Virginia, Mr. Cloward has been a Celanese employe since 1959. Before that he worked for Procter and Gamble and for Esso Standard Oil Company.

He is a member of the American Chemical Society and is a past vice president of the Parkside School Parent-Teachers Association. He is married and the father of two children.

52 LaVale Pupils Take Swim Courses

Fifty-two pupils from LaVale Elementary School have completed a two-week swimming course at Celanese Pool. The program was jointly sponsored by LaVale School PTA, Board of Education and Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross.

Substantial progress was made by all 52 children participating. Most of them learned to swim short distances and developed the skills required in the Red Cross program of six phases of learning to swim. Fifteen members of the class completed requirements for Red Cross beginner awards and eight earned the advanced beginners card and badge.

Earning both advanced beginners and beginners certificates were Karen Buchanan, Kathy Buchanan, Paula Buchanan, Rusty Bucy, Ricky Kauffman, Randy Smith, Bonnie Wallizer and Bill Wilson.

Students who qualified for a beginners card and badge were Jerry Barb, Carolyn Bridges, Timmy Cessna, Jane Seymore, Linda Seymore and Tony Weber.

Other beginners who began the course with little or no former instruction and who successfully passed the first three phases of learning to swim including actual swimming of five yards or more were Christy Buchanan, Lindsay Hoover, Gale Kauffman, Mark Long, Dick Loar, Cathy Wilson, JoAnn Bucy, Janice Fay, Pam Bennett, Mathew Long, Jimmy Zimmerla, Zane Mathews, Paul Teitell, Roddy Weber, Amy Fossett, Diana Kay Proud and Donna Mae Smith.

PTA chairmen were Mrs. Glenn Kauffman and Mrs. Margaret Bucy. Robert E. Pence, county supervisor of physical education, and Red Cross, water safety chairman, was the instructor. He was assisted by Mrs. Judy Briner.

Mr. Pence pointed out that the progress made by the large class consisting mostly of very young beginning swimmers, was due to the cooperation of the PTA members. They helped supervise the students and also learned the swimming fundamentals and teaching methods in order to assist in the instruction.

Besides Mrs. Bucy and Mrs. Kauffman, other parents assisting were Mrs. James Flanagan, Mrs. Robert Zimmerla, Mrs. Donald Smith, Mrs. Gerald Barb, Mrs. William Wilson, Mrs. Theodore Foote, Mrs. John Horn, Mrs. Paul Teitell, Mrs. Robert Weber and Mrs. Richard Loar.

Area Man Jailed In Theft Case

The Detective Bureau yesterday marked "closed by arrest" on a case involving the theft of a saber saw reported Tuesday.

Robert Warner, Ziglerville, Pa., told Capt. James E. Van and Detective Harry Iser that on July 3 he took his car to a body shop here for a paint job, and that when he returned last Saturday, a metal box containing the power saw valued at $56 was missing.

Yesterday, Sheldon Paul Sandvik, 29, of Route 1, Frostburg, was picked up for the Detective Bureau by State Police investigator Milton G. Hart, and the saw was recovered.

Sandvik pleaded guilty to taking the saw at a hearing yesterday before Trial Magistrate Paul W. Barnett, and was committeed to the Allegany County Jail for 30 days in default of a $100 fine.

28 Towns Dump Raw Sewage Into Potomac

Most Are Small; Improvement Seen

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Pollution abatement authorities in the four states included in the Potomac River Basin report that today there still are some 28 communities which provide no treatment for their sewage although the number is declining each year.

Sixteen of the 28 are in West Virginia but most of them are small communities. Keyser, the Mineral County seat, is the largest of the lot. Morris, Knowles, the Pennsylvania engineering firm which is serving as the city planner for Keyser, has applied for federal funds to conduct the necessary engineering study for a sewage treatment plant, according to Mayor Richard Romig.

G. O. Fortney, chief of the engineering section of the Division of Sanitary Engineering for the West Virginia Health Department, in response to a request from this newspaper, listed 13 West Virginia towns as discharging raw sewage into the Potomac River and its tributaries. He listed Bayard, Elk Garden, Harpers Ferry, Hedgesville, Paw Paw, Piedmont, Ridgeley, Shepherdstown, Berkeley Springs, Moorefield, Petersburg, Franklin and Wardensville.

Keyser Not Listed

Mr. Fortney's list did not include Keyser, Ranson or Capon Bridge, all mentioned in a talk in May by Paul W. McKee, director of the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission.

Mr. McKee discussed "Waste Control Progress In The Potomac Basin" in a talk at the spring meeting in Hagerstown of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin.

In touching on developments in all four states, Mr. McKee pointed out that Romney is the only West Virginia municipality in the basin area with an adequate sewage treatment plant based on the West Virginia standards.

Martinsburg and Charles Town, which have inadequate treatment plants, are active in planning adequate facilities, according to Mr. McKee. Other towns in the basin in the active planning stages for improvements are Keyser, Piedmont, Ranson, Moorefield, Ridgeley and Berkeley Springs.

Mayor Donald Mellor of Piedmont pointed out that his community received bids in February for collector sewers and pumping stations but the lowest was still considerably higher than the $150,000 the Mineral County town has available through a bond issue.

Revising Plans

Robert T. Regester, the Baltimore engineer, is now revising the plans and specifications for Piedmont in hopes that the cost can be kept below the $150,000 limit. When the sewers are constructed Piedmont will be able to connect with the Upper Potomac River waste treatment plant at Westernport, which treats the wastes of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company as well as the municipal waste of Westernport and Luke.

James R. McComas, chief of the Division of Sanitary Engineering of the Maryland Department of Health, disclosed in a letter to this newspaper that only six Maryland communities discharge raw sewage into the Potomac River and its tributaries. They include Barton, Frostburg, LaVale, Lonaconing, Midland, all in Allegany County, and Hancock, in neighboring Washington County.

Mr. McComas had specific progress reports to make on three of these six Maryland communities. Frostburg has submitted its engineering report to the State Health Deparment. LaVale is now negotiating with Cumberland in hopes of passing LaVale's sewage to the municipal treatment plant here. Hancock has engaged an engineer who is designing sewage treatment facilities.

Considerable progress has been made in the past year to solve problems of the unincorporated communities along McMullen Highway. The Allegany County Sanitary Commission has approved the development of two sewage treatment plants, one to serve Roberts Place, Bowling Green and Potomac Park, and the other for Cresaptown. The first privately-owned sewage lagoon was devel-

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK
The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 143 Memorial Day 1962, when, inevitably, "Taps" will resound ceremoniously and mournfully, could be observed also as the centennial of that bugle call.

This is a suggestion to American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and other groups, that the centennial be given attention.

"Taps" owes its inception to Daniel Butterfield, a son of the operator of the famous Butterfield Overland Mail across the Western prairies and mountains. The younger Butterfield was engaged in business of his own in New York when the war came in 1861. He responded to the first call for volunteers in April by enlisting. Selected quickly for a commission, he was one of the minority of Union officers whose conduct in the Battle of Bull Run proved to his credit.

Advanced on his merits, Butterfield was a brigadier general, commanding a brigade in the 1st Division, 5th Corps, Army of Potomac, in the spring of 1862. Meanwhile, he had cultivated an interest in the bugle, and he utilized a set of calls to give orders.

That was not an entirely new idea. The Army already had bugle signals similar to those of other armies. But General Butterfield was not satisfied with the usual accompaniment for "lights out," which had been adopted from the French.

After trying various combinations of notes himself, Butterfield gave what he considered the most appropriate arrangement to the bugler at brigade headquarters, Oliver Norton. The latter "smoothed out" the rhythm and timing, and Butterfield ordered the new call used throughout the brigade.

The call resounded responsively quickly through other units and supplanted the old "lights out" widely before the war was over. After the war, when General Butterfield was active in veterans' affairs and politics, he was in charge of public funerals of Sherman and other notable figures. Invariably he made the sounding of his version of "Taps" a part of the ceremonies, and gained general public acceptance for this addition.

—CLARK KINNAIRD

Left: Maj. Gen. Daniel Butterfield, a photograph after the war, when "Taps" was in common usage at military establishments, both on land and sea, and at funerals of veterans.

Senate Cloakroom
by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

TRADE BILL PASSES HOUSE AS EXPECTED — There was never any doubt about the Administration's Trade Bill getting through. Very little opposition was voiced in the House of Representatives, where a big block of Republicans joined a big block of Democrats to pass the measure with votes to spare. This is not a partisan matter. Former Presidents Eisenhower and Hoover, former Republican Nominees Landon, Dewey and Nixon and other Republican leaders backed the measure strongly. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce, which opposes most of the Kennedy program on the grounds of its being wasteful and irresponsible, backs the Trade Bill.

The bill, which now comes to the Senate for consideration, was designed to take the place of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act. It gives the President power to negotiate reciprocal tariff cuts to meet the new competitive situation arising from the emergence of the European Common Market. There is general agreement that the President should have wide negotiating authority in order to meet the day-by-day challenge of the Common Market. I believe the bill will be accepted by the Senate without delay.

DEFENSE BILL: BIGGEST IN HISTORY — We have passed unanimously the biggest peacetime Defense Bill in history — $48,300,000,000. Here's a breakdown:

Weapons	$17,000,000,000
Research	7,000,000,000
Military pay	13,000,000,000
Food, cloths, beds, and barracks	11,300,000,000

With 48 billion dollars, there's bound to be some waste. Former President Eisenhower believes the Defense budget should be reduced, that military requests have a habit of creeping up faster than necessary, that there is nothing sacrosanct about Defense spending and that we should not hesitate to prune it. The entire Defense budget was worked over by our best military brains and examined closely by the Bureau of the Budget before being studied by our committees of the Senate and House. Our military experts explained and defended the budget, item by item, and, as for me, I decided that if there were any doubt, it should be resolved in their favor, that if we should err it should be on the side of our national safety.

"OFF-SHORE ISLANDS": PRESIDENT KENNEDY'S REASSURANCE — On September 30, 1960, in a television interview, Candidate Kennedy said:

"Under the Eisenhower doctrine . . . we have stated that we would defend Quemoy and Matsu if it was part of an attack on the island of Formosa . . . On what basis? Quemoy and Matsu are not essential to the defense of Formosa." (This statement was, to the Chinese Reds, "an invitation to attack" the two islands, according to Admiral Radford, former Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff — an invitation the Reds appeared about to accept.)

However, despite what he said when he was a candidate for election, President Kennedy, said at his press conference on June 27, 1962: "I support administration policy towards Quemoy and Matsu over the last five years."

This unequivocal adoption of the Eisenhower-Dulles stand on Quemoy and Matsu, a stand which has effectively checked Red China, is reassuring to us all.

STATE DEPARTMENT AGAINST "VICTORY" — Here is a direct quotation from a State Department report explaining its reasons for deleting the word "victory" from Government officials' speeches: "The word 'victory' has a militaristic and aggressive ring . . . It also implies an all or nothing approach, leaving no room for accommodation."

Moorefield Man Dies After Fall From Truckbed

H. D. Riggleman Injured Tuesday

A 24-year-old Moorefield, W. Va., man died yesterday afternoon in Grant County Memorial Hospital, Petersburg, W. Va., with injuries he received when he fell from a moving truck Tuesday.

The victim, Haven Dwight Riggleman, died of head injuries, according to Cpl. J. A. Shrout of the Moorefield detachment who investigated the accident.

Authorities said Mr. Riggleman, an oil wheel operator for Loewengart and Company Tannery in Petersburg, was riding on top of a truck loaded with leather when he slipped off the vehicle as it rounded a curve on U. S. Route 220, three miles from Moorefield.

Born at Rig, W. Va., he was a son of Ernest and Mildred (Mongold) Riggleman. Mr. Rig was a veteran of the Korean War.

Also surviving besides his parents, are his widow, Ina (Lewis) Riggleman; a daughter, Theresa Riggleman, at home; a sister, Mrs. Shelby Jean Orndorff, Winchester, Va., and two brothers, Ersal W. Riggleman and Gary Riggleman, Rig.

The body is at the Thrush Funeral Home, Moorefield, where services will be conducted tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. by Rev. Lauren Smith. Burial will be in Newhouse Cemetery at Rig.

City Conducts Survey Of Fire Alarm System

The Cumberland Fire Department is making a survey of its fire alarm system to establish a priority list for expansion of the program, according to Fire Chief Virgil Parker.

He said the department has two new fire alarm boxes on hand and will install them where they are needed most.

Fire alarms boxes, he said, are needed to serve several areas which have been building up in the past year or so.

The devices will be installed by Lt. Richard Linthicum, the department's electrician.

Chief Parker said a representative of the Gamewell Cmpany inspected the control panel at Central Fire Headquarters this week and found it in top shape.

The equipment is used to control the some 100 fire alarm boxes which are scattered throughout the city on four circuits.

Chief Parker said Lt. Linthicum will be busy for some time this summer replacing wiring at several points which show up bad on the control board.

Baltimore Girl Hurt In Accident

Stephanie Duda, 22, of Baltimore, was seriously injured yesterday morning when she was thrown from the car she was operating on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Pennsylvania State Police said the Duda girl was admitted to the Somerset Community Hospital but the extent of her injuries was not known.

The investigating officer said the young woman apparently lost control of her car and it rolled over, throwing her some distance.

McCain Personnel Chief For Westvaco Division

WILLIAM S. McCAIN

Appointment of William S. McCain to the new position of division personnel manager of West Virginia Pulp and Paper's Fine Papers Division has been announced by John A. Luke, division general manager.

The new position will function in a staff capacity to the division manager. Mr. McClain will be responsible for assisting in the development and co-ordination of division-wide activities in the personnel field, as well as being available to the division operating and department managers and their personnel departments for consultation, support and staff services in the area of personnel administration. He will also be responsible for the central recruiting of key technical and administrative employes.

Mr. McCain's new responsibilities encompass the company's Fine Papers Division mills in Mechanicville, N. Y.; Tryone and Williamsburg, Pa., and Luke. In his new assignment he will make his headquarters in New York.

Prior to his promotion, Mr. McCain had been assistant labor relations co-ordinator for the company and was located at Luke.

The new division personnel manager joined West Virginia Pulp and Paper in 1957 as labor relations assistant at Luke after 10 years' experience with International Paper Company. In 1958 he became labor relations manager at Luke and the next year was promoted to assistant labor relations co-ordinator for the company.

He is a graduate of Yale University and a veteran of 5½ years of heavy cruiser and destroyer duty with the Navy in the Pacific during World War II.

Mr. and Mrs. McCain and their three children, Mary, 13; William Jr., 9; and Charles, 6, presently reside on Horse Rock Hill, Westernport.

Vacation Option May Cut Impact Of B&O Layoffs

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will furlough 91 men in its car repair shops at Keyser on Monday as a result of the coal miners' annual vacation.

The furloughs at Keyser are included in the some 300 men which will be laid off temporarily in car shops there and at Cumberland and Dubois, Pa.

A B & O spokesman said from Baltimore the layoffs are scheduled to begin Monday and "We hope to call them back by August 1"

The B & O spokesman attributed the furloughs to the miners holiday which cuts coal shipments saying, "During the annual holiday, they're just not mining coal."

The impact of the furlough is expected to be lessened considerably by the fact that the men have the option of taking their vacation during the furlough if they so desire.

A number of the Keyser workers have signed up for vacations since furlough notices were posted Tuesday.

The furlough at Keyser affects 91 men working on repairs to open top hoppers under an ABC car rehabiltation program which began last October.

It does not affect another 195 man working in the Keyser shops on covered hopper repair, yard operations or light repair work.

Another 25 of the furloughed men were working here and the rest at Dubois.

Senator See 'Satisfactory' After Attack

State Senator Charles M. See was reported in "satisfactory" condition last night at St. Vincent's Hospital, Cleveland, where he was admitted Tuesday night after suffering a heart attack.

Sen. See was taken ill while attending the national convention of the Blind and Handicapped in Cleveland.

Glenn K. Davis, 515 Dreyer Avenue, a nephew of Sen. See, said he talked with the senator's wife last night and she reported Sen. See would be kept in oxygen overnight. She also said the senator would have to remain in the Cleveland hospital approximately a month.

Sen. See was admitted to the hospital only two hours after Mr. Davis telephoned him of the death of Del. Estel C. Kelley who died here Tuesday.

Carol Bowman Wins Talent Show

Carol Bowman, 8, of Jane Frazier Village, last night was declared the winner in the annual talent show staged by Pennsylvania Avenue Playground.

She will represent the playground at the Intra-City Talent Show to be held next Thursday at Constitution Park by the City Recreation Department.

She sang a solo, "Roses Are Red, Violets Are Blue," in the contest which drew 17 contestants.

Fay Whitman won second place with her pantomime, "Three Chicks" and Patricia Wilson third place for her organ solo.

Four Complete Two First Aid Courses

Two American Red Cross first aid courses were recently completed by four persons at Frostburg State Teachers College. The classes were sponsored by Allegany County Chapter with Dr. Harold Cordts instructor.

Completing advanced first aid and instructor's courses were Wayne Bruchey, William Bruchey, Earl Gillespie and Roy Sigler.

Class To Wash Cars

The Young Married Class of Ridgeley Evangelical United Church, Knobley Hill, will sponsor a car wash Saturday from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Phone Firm To Expand Building

Bids will be opened today for an addition to the central office building of the C&P Telephone Company in Cumberland, according to William F. Campbell, manager of the local office.

Mr. Campbell said bids also will be opened today for the demolition of a portion of the old telephone building which occupies the site for the new addition.

The part of the building to be torn down is the ell to the present new central office and abuts on Dexter Place, which parallels Union and Baltimore streets.

The new addition will be three stories high and will be constructed extra-strong to house the heavy central office equipment. It is expected the demolition work will begin August 1 and the building is expected to be completed in two years.

At the present time the old part of the building is used for some storage and office space. While the construction work is in progress, some telephone company personnel will have offices at 35 Frederick Street and 126 Union Street.

Walker Will Help Set Up Safety Plan For Street Dept.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, announced yesterday that the services of Lynn Walker, 224 Pear Street, safety engineer for the Department of Labor and Industry, will be available to the department.

She said Mrs. Robert B. Kimble, assistant director of the Maryland Department of Labor Industry, has agreed to make his services available to the city.

Mrs. Roeder said Mr. Walker will be asked to set up a safety program for the various units under her supervision.

Army Cites Officer Need

According to an announcement by Lt. Gen. John S. Upham Jr., commanding general, Second Army, Fort George G. Meade, the Army has an urgent need for approximately 1,700 officers in the grades of second lieutenant, first lieutenant and captain. The chortages exist in all branches of the Army, including Intelligence, Security, Special Forces and Civil Affairs specialties.

General Upham stated that although a large number of officers are commissioned each year as second lieutenants through the Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) and Officer Candidate Schools (OCS), these sources will not meet current requirements.

Any individual with up to 14 years active federal service who presently holds a reserve commission in any branch of the Army may apply for active duty. Further details may be obtained at any Army Reserve unit or the U. S. Army Recruiting Main Station, 310 Gaston Avenue, Fairmont, W. Va.

Loopholes In Election Laws Will Be Studied

Legislative Council To Name Committee

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — A legislative committee, to be named at the urging Wednesday of Gov. Tawes, will try to figure out if election games can be beaten.

The governor's letter to the legislative council, urging strengthening of election laws, referred specifically to the "name's the same" game against incumbent officials and possible abuse of absentee voting privileges.

Sen. George W. Della, D-Balto 6th, council president, said he would appoint the study committee later.

The governor's letter was prompted by developments of the May 15 primary in Baltimore.

No Law Prevents It

The judge ruled there was no law to prevent anyone with the same name as an incumbent from becoming a candidate.

The Baltimore election supervisors also have referred to the state's attorney questioned absentee ballots cast from the 4th District.

While suggesting the study of election laws should be comprehensive, Gov. Tawes stated it should "consider specifically the advisability of requiring candidates to file in person, rather than by certificate only, and to determine whether or not an increase in filing fees, combined with a restriction on payment of refunds in event of withdrawal" might eliminate abuses.

Would-be candidates are refunded all of their filing fees if they withdraw by a certain date.

Study Needed

While suggesting a study of voting by absentee ballots, Gov. Tawes cautioned that "in no instance should any citizen of Maryland be discouraged from exercising his or her voting right through procedural difficulties.

"On the contrary, should it be possible to encourage a greater number of our citizens to exercise their franchise through modification of our existing laws, then I urge you to consider such modifications . . . " he said.

The Finance Committee of the council, meanwhile, squelched an effort to make records of the Department of Employment Security open for public inspection.

Stephen C. Cromwell, executive director, told the committee that secrecy was a federal regulation and Maryland employers probably would have to pay more jobless taxes if it were abandoned.

The proposal to permit inspection of unemployment compensation records was made by Benjamin W. Eisenberg, a Baltimore lawyer.

Water Report Made

The council also received a final report from a commission which has been studying water resources for three years.

The commission endorsed a recommendation of the planning department that one state agency be given authority to plan for development and use of water.

It also reported it did not feel any new or revised legislation was needed at this time.

The proposal of the planning department, made late last year, to consolidate water control is to be taken up by the council later this year.

Earlier, the Judiciary Committee shelved a proposed bill to make uniform the state's law regulating business on Sunday. The bill, which had been endorsed by the full council last year, stalled during the February session of the legislature over religious disagreement.

The bill would have dictated exactly what types of business could be conducted anywhere in the state on Sunday. It was opposed by Jewish and Seventh-Day Adventist merchants who observe their Sabbath on days other than Sunday.

Equity Suits Filed

Several equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint are titled Norma J. Riggleman vs. Richard N. Riggleman; Esther J. Edwards vs. Robert L. Edwards Sr.; Walter C. Diehl vs. Jane Beverly Diehl.

WILLIAM B. HENAGHAN

Frostburg Man Will Teach Core At Allegany

The assignment of William Bernard Henaghan, of RD 3, Frostburg, to a teaching position at Allegany High School, was announced yesterday by Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools.

Mr. Henaghan will teach seventh and eighth grade core. He replaces Mrs. Martha Hamilton, who retired in June after holding the position since November 1, 1943.

The new teacher is a 1958 graduate of Beall High School and graduated from Frostburg State Teachers College in June.

17 Building Permits Issued By County Unit

Seventeen permits, including one for a mobile home and construction of four new dwellings, were issued this month by C. Lee Renaud, Allegany County planning director.

A permit to locate a mobile home on Bowling Avenue in District 2 was issued to Everett W. Bennett.

Guy Propst obtained two permits, one for a storage room and the other for a carport to be constructed at RD 2, Flintstone in District 3.

Dwelling permits were issued to Bernard R. Warren for a residence of stone and aluminum siding to be constructed on East Maryland Avenue in Christians Addition, District 6; Lonnie Warnick for dwelling at Gay & Chestnut Street, Westernport in District 8; Charles H. Welch for cedar siding residence on South Albert Street, Frostburg, District 11, and to Lionel W. Wiseman to locate package dwelling on Maryland Avenue, McCoole in District 31.

Other permits issued include one to Charles L. Bosley, District 5, for alteration of dwelling; I. M. Lipscomb, District 7, for storage shed at McCoole on Route 220; Archie W. Clark, District 9, to add bathroom to residence in Dogwood Flat; Howard Piper, District 20, to build addition to foundation on Cash Valley Road and Mary E. Daulbaugh, District 21, Rocky Gap Road, for addition of bathroom and garage.

Edward Thomas, Midlothian Road, and Oberlin T. Chaney, 221 Welsh Hill, Frostburg, obtained permits to apply precast stone to dwellings in Election District 22. Also issued were permits to William G. Clise to build a concrete block garage in District 24 and to James E. Uphold to add kitchen to residence on Elk Lick Run Road in District 27.

ABL Scientists To Present Papers At Polaris Session

Four Hercules Powder Company scientists from Allegany Ballistics Laboratory will present technical papers at the Polaris Glass Filament Research and Development Conference to be held July 17 and 18 at Hercules' Research Center, near Wilmington, Del.

The conference is being sponsored by the Navy's Special Projects Office which is responsible for the development and production of the Polaris Fleet Ballistics Missile.

The four men who have prepared papers, all from ABL's Polaris Design Department, are: George E. Walker, supervisor of the Design Group; Robert F. H. Woodberry, staff engineer in the Polaris Analysis Group; Thomas C. White, engineer in the Chambers Section; and Barry J. Carlson, engineer in the Systems Analysis Section.

Mr. Woodberry will also act as chairman of the session on "Fabrication, Design and Testing."

ABL designed and developed the second-stage rocket motor for the A-2 Polaris missile and is currently working on an advanced version of the unit for the longer range A-3 Polaris.

Hercules, a pioneer in the use of glass filament-wound chambers for solid propellant rockets, is fabricating the largest of such chambers ever made at its Rocky Hill, N. J., plant.

Marine Reserve Unit To Train At Little Creek

84 Officers, Men Will Leave Sunday

The 43d Rifle Company, local Marine Corps Reserve unit, will leave for its two weeks of annual field training Sunday morning.

Two air-conditioned 39-passenger Greyhound buses will take 84 members of the company and their equipment to the U. S. Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, Va.

Buses will leave the Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center on McKaig's Hill at 8 a. m. Sunday, and will arrive at Little Creek at about 6:30 p. m.

Major Billy C. Menges, commanding officer, said the 43d's training will include an amphibious operation by supporting arms from ships of the Atlantic Fleet, followed by an assault landing on the beaches of Camp Pendleton, Va.

Special training in vertical assault tactics with helicopters, in night amphibious raids, and in small arms firing will be conducted.

Major Menges said the Little Creek training period will help develop the 43d as a member of the Navy-Marine Corps amphibious team.

He pointed out that sea power provides the United States with a capability to meet any military requirement—the ability to engage in all-out nuclear war, conventional war, limited war, or a mere "show of the Flag." The Navy-Marine Corps team has developed a degree of land-sea-air warfare specialization unique in history, he said.

The local Reserve unit will return from training on July 28.

Licenses For Dogs Now Due

Allegany County residents who own dogs are reminded they must obtain licenses for their animals if they are six months old or older.

The new licenses went into effect July 1 and cost $1 for males and spayed females and $2 for female dogs.

The license tags may be purchased from either of the two dog wardens, Merwin R. Hast Jr., Union Grove, or Burza Hanlin in Westernport. Tags also may be obtained at the Court House or from any trial magistrate in the county.

A dog owner who fails to obtain a license is subject to a fine between $5 and $25 upon conviction. Last year approximately 6,000 licenses were sold, but it is estimated there are nearly twice that number of dogs in Allegany County.

Many Cumberland residents also are unaware that there is a city ordinance that prohibits any dog, licensed or not, from running loose unless accompanied by its owner.

Voting Notices Are Mailed

The Allegany County Board of Election supervisors yesterday mailed out 34 notices to women whose names have been changed by marriage.

John R. Kelly, chief clerk, said the notices were mailed to 18 Democrat women and 16 Republican women at addresses which are listed on their registration cards in the election office.

They have 10 days, or until July 24 to call at the board office or to contact election officials by phone, to have the changes made. If they do not comply, their names will be taken from the voting rolls.

Mr. Kelly said Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden notifies the board at six-month intervals of persons over 21 who are convicted of any of 23 major crimes. These names are also stricken from the voting rolls, and the individuals are not permitted to exercise their voting franchise again unless they are pardoned by the governor.

The election board office also strikes off the names of all deceased voters.

Columbian Squires Install Officers

New officers of Bishop James E. Walsh Circle 1222, Columbian Squires, were installed last night at ceremonies at Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus.

The new officers include John Kreidler Jr., chief squire; Philip Carolan, deputy chief squire; William Zapf, notary; Michael Madden, bursar; Charles Himmler, marshall, and James Stevens, sentry.

The installing officer was John O'Rourke, past grand knight of Cumberland Council 586.

WILLIAM H. CLOWARD

Cloward Named Senior Engineer In Fibers Unit

William H. Cloward has been named senior engineer, fibers development, at Celanese Fibers Company's Amcelle plant, Fibers Development Superintendent W. T. Allman announced.

A chemical engineering graduate of the University of Virginia, Mr. Cloward has been a Celanese employe since 1959. Before that he worked for Procter and Gamble and for Esso Standard Oil Company.

He is a member of the American Chemical Society and is a past vice president of the Parkside School Parent-Teachers Association. He is married and the father of two children.

52 LaVale Pupils Take Swim Courses

Fifty-two pupils from LaVale Elementary School have completed a two-week swimming course at Celanese Pool. The program was jointly sponsored by LaVale School PTA, Board of Education and Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross.

Substantial progress was made by all 52 children participating. Most of them learned to swim short distances and developed the skills required in the Red Cross program of six phases of learning to swim. Fifteen members of the class completed requirements for Red Cross beginner awards and eight earned the advanced beginners card and badge.

Earning both advanced beginners and beginners certificates were Karen Buchanan, Kathy Buchanan, Paula Buchanan, Rusty Bucy, Ricky Kauffman, Randy Smith, Bonnie Wallizer and Bill Wilson.

Students who qualified for a beginners card and badge were Jerry Barb, Carolyn Bridges, Timmy Cessna, Jane Seymore, Linda Seymore and Tony Weber.

Other beginners who began the course with little or no former instruction and who successfully passed the first three phases of learning to swim including actual swimming of five yards or more were Christy Buchanan, Lindsay Hoover, Gale Kauffman, Mark Long, Dick Loar, Cathy Wilson, JoAnn Bucy, Janice Fay, Pam Bennett, Mathew Long, Jimmy Zimmerla, Zane Mathews, Paul Teitell, Roddy Weber, Amy Fossett, Diana Kay Proud and Donna Mae Smith.

PTA chairmen were Mrs. Glenn Kauffman and Mrs. Margaret Bucy. Robert E. Pence, county supervisor of physical education, and Red Cross, water safety chairman, was the instructor. He was assisted by Mrs. Judy Briner.

Mr. Pence pointed out that the progress made by the large class consisting mostly of very young beginning swimmers, was due to the cooperation of the PTA members. They helped supervise the students and also learned the swimming fundamentals and teaching methods in order to assist in the instruction.

Besides Mrs. Bucy and Mrs. Kauffman, other parents assisting were Mrs. James Flanagan, Mrs. Robert Zimmerla, Mrs. Donald Smith, Mrs. Gerald Barb, Mrs. William Wilson, Mrs. Theodore Foote, Mrs. John Horn, Mrs. Paul Teitell, Mrs. Robert Weber and Mrs. Richard Loar.

Area Man Jailed In Theft Case

The Detective Bureau yesterday marked "closed by arrest" on a case involving the theft of a saber saw reported Tuesday.

Robert Warner, Ziglerville, Pa., told Capt. James E. Van and Detective Harry Iser that on July 3 he took his car to a body shop here for a paint job, and that when he returned last Saturday, a metal box containing the power saw valued at $56 was missing.

Yesterday, Sheldon Paul Sandvik, 29, of Route 1, Frostburg, was picked up for the Detective Bureau by State Police investigator Milton G. Hart, and the saw was recovered.

Sandvik pleaded guilty to taking the saw at a hearing yesterday before Trial Magistrate Paul W. Barnett, and was committeed to the Allegany County Jail for 30 days in default of a $100 fine.

28 Towns Dump Raw Sewage Into Potomac

Most Are Small; Improvement Seen

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Pollution abatement authorities in the four states included in the Potomac River Basin report that today there still are some 28 communities which provide no treatment for their sewage although the number is declining each year.

Sixteen of the 28 are in West Virginia but most of them are small communities. Keyser, the Mineral County seat, is the largest of the lot. Morris, Knowles, the Pennsylvania engineering firm which is serving as the city planner for Keyser, has applied for federal funds to conduct the necessary engineering study for a sewage treatment plant, according to Mayor Richard Romig.

G. O. Fortney, chief of the engineering section of the Division of Sanitary Engineering for the West Virginia Health Department, in response to a request from this newspaper, listed 13 West Virginia towns as discharging raw sewage into the Potomac River and its tributaries. He listed Bayard, Elk Garden, Harpers Ferry, Hedgesville, Paw Paw, Piedmont, Ridgeley, Shepherdstown, Berkeley Springs, Moorefield, Petersburg, Franklin and Wardensville.

Keyser Not Listed

Mr. Fortney's list did not include Keyser, Ranson or Capon Bridge, all mentioned in a talk in May by Paul W. McKee, director of the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission.

Mr. McKee discussed "Waste Control Progress In The Potomac Basin" in a talk at the spring meeting in Hagerstown of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin.

In touching on developments in all four states, Mr. McKee pointed out that Romney is the only West Virginia municipality in the basin area with an adequate sewage treatment plant based on the West Virginia standards.

Martinsburg and Charles Town, which have inadequate treatment plants, are active in planning adequate facilities, according to Mr. McKee. Other towns in the basin in the active planning stages for improvements are Keyser, Piedmont, Ranson, Moorefield, Ridgeley and Berkeley Springs.

Mayor Donald Mellor of Piedmont pointed out that his community received bids in February for collector sewers and pumping stations but the lowest was still considerably higher than the $150,000 the Mineral County town has available through a bond issue.

Revising Plans

Robert T. Regester, the Baltimore engineer, is now revising the plans and specifications for Piedmont in hopes that the cost can be kept below the $150,000 limit. When the sewers are constructed Piedmont will be able to connect with the Upper Potomac River waste treatment plant at Westernport, which treats the wastes of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company as well as the municipal waste of Westernport and Luke.

James R. McComas, chief of the Division of Sanitary Engineering of the Maryland Department of Health, disclosed in a letter to this newspaper that only six Maryland communities discharge raw sewage into the Potomac River and its tributaries. They include Barton, Frostburg, LaVale, Lonaconing, Midland, all in Allegany County, and Hancock, in neighboring Washington County.

Mr. McComas had specific progress reports to make on three of these six Maryland communities. Frostburg has submitted its engineering report to the State Health Deparment. LaVale is now negotiating with Cumberland in hopes of passing LaVale's sewage to the municipal treatment plant here. Hancock has engaged an engineer who is designing sewage treatment facilities.

Considerable progress has been made in the past year to solve problems of the unincorporated communities along McMullen Highway. The Allegany County Sanitary Commission has approved the development of two sewage treatment plants, one to serve Roberts Place, Bowling Green and Potomac Park, and the other for Cresaptown. The first privately-owned sewage lagoon was devel-
